EDITOR'S NOTE

A Middlebury summer—pretty typical, pretty remarkable

While studying for final exams in a Chateau classroom at the end of my freshman year, when I felt the need for a break I would stand, stretch, and write a few lines of verse on the blackboards. Over the course of the week I managed to cover all five of the boards. The verse, entitled "Time Marches On" (copied and kept in a shoe box for years by a classmate), began:

O new horizons did I seek
When I came here freshman week

Well, time has marched on. And it would appear that I am still seeking new horizons at Middlebury College, for here I am, thirty-six years later, editing my first Middlebury College magazine—the first issue ever edited by a woman since the magazine was first published, in 1926.

When I started working here in 1983, I was struck by how little I knew of the summertime Middlebury. The life of the Language Schools always seemed a little vague and happening to some other Middlebury, and Bread Loaf was a place you drove by on your way to the Bowl.

What struck me that first summer—and every summer, as a matter of fact—is the subtle change that comes over the campus when the language school students arrive. The campus becomes urbanized. The summer denizens are both young and older, and come from a variety of avocations. A walk across campus often reminds me of a walk in New York's Central Park. As the students congregate in their selected schools, they are a bit silent during their first few days, but as the summer progresses, their conversations become more and more vivacious, and transform the campus—indeed the entire town—into a mini league of nations. One gets the sense by the end of summer that English is a second language for everyone.

In this issue of the magazine we're focusing on some of that atmosphere. Ed Knox, who has directed the Language Schools since 1983, stepped out of those shoes at the end of August, and into the new ones of vice president for academic affairs. We've tried to capture some of his last session as director in this magazine. What we report, however, is just the proverbial tip of the iceburg.

The Bread Loaf campus, which looks fairly green at commencement, turns into such a deep green in the summer that it can come as a surprise to undergraduates spending a first summer here. In those hills, two more of Middlebury's famous schools have been in session, the Bread Loaf School of English and the Bread Loaf Writers' Conference. This year Professor of English and Environmental Studies John Elder led a rather unusual BLSE course that took students, all of them teachers, onto the trails and into the woods, with the charge to journalize what they saw and felt. Their observations were quite interesting and moving, and we share a few with you in "Stories on the Trail."

Summer here is pretty neat. Come visit.

Language and literature: co-stars in a distinguished Middlebury tradition

By John M. McCardell Jr.

The director announced the name. The candidate stepped forward to receive her degree, an M.A. in German. As I shook her hand, she whispered to me proudly, "This is my fourth Middlebury degree!"

I don't know if Louise Planck Terry set or simply matched a record that evening, but I do know that a B.A. in French and Spanish (1948), an M.A. (1952) and D.M.L. (1975) in French, and an M.A. (1993) in German speak both to the distinction of our programs in foreign languages and the dedication of our alumni.

To complete the requirement for this latest degree, Louise, a teacher at Commack Middle School, Commack, New York, took twelve courses over a period of five summers. Like so many of the students who study one of eight foreign languages—Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, Spanish—on campus in the summer, or who study English at Bread Loaf, Louise had given over what might have been a summer of leisure or other employment to undertake sustained and rigorous intellectual activity.

Admiring Louise's determination, and long aware of the quality of our program, I did some research. At the 1993 summer Commencement, the College awarded 148 masters' degrees in the Language Schools and another 45 at Bread Loaf, plus one Doctor of Modern Languages degree. These graduates join a body of 6,192 living degree holders of the Language Schools and 1,218 living degree holders from Bread Loaf. The Language Schools claim almost 15,000 active alumni, and Bread Loaf almost 1,500. The great majority of these alumni and degree holders are teachers. They can be found in all 50 states and many foreign countries.

They are the chief reason for Middlebury's reputation as a place where the study of language and literature is taken seriously, and they have made that study one of our great, distinguishing characteristics. Often the first contact a prospective undergraduate makes with the College comes through a high school teacher who attended the Language Schools or Bread Loaf during the summer. Thus, it is no surprise that so high a percentage of our undergraduates come to Middlebury to pursue language, literature, and international study.

Reflexively, and perhaps a bit defensively, those of us bound to the College by other ties are inclined to point out that "of course, Middlebury is more than a language school." And, of course, it is. Yet Middlebury remains the standard against which other language programs are measured; ours is a reputation, and a niche, that other institutions seek to acquire and share, with limited success. Our Mission Statement properly reaffirms our commitment to language, literature, and international study as the greater portion of our special claim, even as it also commits us to nurture "carefully chosen emerging strengths."

Louise Planck Terry and her fellow graduates are thus very much a part of a special Middlebury tradition. Every August, at Commencement ceremonies, we celebrate this tradition and recommit ourselves to continue to build upon it.

Lois Behrman Watson '51: Doing Well by Doing Good

"Nothing can be more rewarding than giving in your lifetime, when you can see the impact it will make." Lois and Harvey Watson

Lois Behrman Watson '51 has discovered there's more than one way to reap the benefits of giving to Middlebury.

In 1987, through a unitrust, Lois was able to establish the Lois Behrman Watson '51 Scholarship Fund, to ultimately provide scholarships for financially deserving teachers enrolled in the Middlebury College Language Schools. To fund her unitrust, she transferred $133,000 worth of appreciated common stock which would pay her an annual income for life.

Lois and Harvey Watson celebrate the establishment of the Lois Behrman Watson Professorship in French with John McCardell, Leslie Ostrom and Nicole Lepoutre, the two current recipients of the Lois Behrman Watson '51 Scholarship Fund, and Professor Emeritus Stephen Freeman, Lois's first French professor.

With this type of gift transfer, Lois was able to avoid approximately $40,000 in capital gain taxes which would have been due had she sold the stock for her own use. Coupled with bypassing the capital gain tax, she also earned a 1987 charitable contribution deduction which saved her $17,500 in that year's income taxes.

> "I thought this gift was a good way to invest in scholarship and teacher training," said Lois. "As a student in the Middlebury French School I was particularly impressed by a woman graduate student and high school teacher who lacked for funds but made a commitment and stuck with it."

In the meantime, to accomplish her goal of providing scholarships for current language school students, Lois donates annually to her scholarship fund and receives a charitable deduction each year.

Lois was so satisfied with her gift and Middlebury's management of her trust that in 1993 she decided to invest in Middlebury's future again, but this time she did it a little differently. She selected a gift annuity.

In June, Lois transferred $1,000,000 to Middlebury via a combination of appreciated stock and cash to fund a gift annuity that will provide her a constant return for the remainder of her life, with part of each payment tax free. Once again, she avoided considerable capital gain taxes on her appreciated stock while earning a charitable contribution deduction worth over $80,000 in 1993 income tax savings.

Combined with a bequest provision, Lois' deferred gift will fund the Lois Behrman Watson Professorship in French, supporting the work of a current faculty member yet to be named.

President responds to letter on DKE

Dear Josh:

I am sorry to have taken so long to reply to your letter of April 26. And I also regret the sarcastic tone of that missive. It would, I think be futile to try to change your mind. But I must offer several observations in reply to your remarks.

It is difficult to discern, even in the deepest penumbra of the First Amendment, any mention of the right of freedom of association. To be sure, one may infer from that language that Congress may not abridge that freedom, but private entities are a different matter entirely.

Still, the prior freedom of association, namely, an individual's choice freely to associate with Middlebury College, limits, as do all such prior exercises of the same freedom, a similar degree of subsequent associations. In coming to Middlebury College, a student agrees to live by a set of the College's rules. Some of these rules may well appear to abridge freedoms that one would take for granted beyond the campus, from the simplest matters (registered parties, dining hall hours, vacation schedules) to the most significant (social and honor code rules). But the larger point is simply that the first exercise of freedom of association governs, and limits, succeeding exercises.

Moreover, the freedom to associate, even after associating within the College, is tolerably, perhaps even remarkably, extensive. The College would have no claim upon a student individually choosing to associate with any off-campus group, no matter how notorious its beliefs, with but one exception: any organization that defines, and limits, its membership to Middlebury College students, must be open to all students.

You may disagree with this rule, but it is clear, and it is defensible. Our purpose is to educate, and a part of eduation is being prepared not simply to function, but to be a leader, in the world you will inherit. Like it or not, that is a world in which single-sex, discriminatory organizations will have no place. To imply otherwise by our policies is to do no less a disservice to our students than were we to teach astrology or alchemy.

All of that said, as an historian, I well remember Cromwell's admonition, "I beseech you, in the bowels of Christ, consider that you may be mistaken." I possess no "heartfelt commitment (sic) to what I know is right." I suggest you doubt a little in your own infallibility as well.

None of this, I suspect, will change your mind. If it at least opens your mind to the possibility that one can support, indeed even love, something imperfect, then perhaps you will find a way to maintain some affection for your alma mater in spite of the flaws you may perceive in the conduct of those who, loving it no less, are doing the best they can to be true to the College's past and not unmindful of its future.

Thank you for writing

JOHN M. MCCARDELL JR.

DKE Supporter replies

Dear President McCardell:

I appreciate your response to my April 26 letter, However, I regret that you did not see the merit in my criticism. Based on the tone of your letter, it would seem that you take this matter seriously, and that you have given it carefull consideration. That's the scary part.

Now I see that it's worse that I thought. It seems you actually believe what you have been saying all these months. Faced with that frightening possibility, I have no choice but to say it again—you are wrong. And even if you were right, your new rule would still be wrong.

One drawback of academia is that it can contribute to an individual's sense of moral and intellectual superiority. In your case this has led you to adopt a misguided hero image of yourself. Unfortuantely Middlebury doesn't need a hero—it needs a president.

Your off-campus policy; your comments on the policy; and finally, your July 3 letter to me are consistently smug and patronizing. Your persistent "they'll thank me later—I'll go down in history" attitude reflects personal resolve so strong that it has damaged your effectiveness as an educator.

By studying the language of your argument, it becomes apparent that you are operating under two fundamental fallacies: the Future Fallacy, and the Purpose Fallacy. These misconceptions fuel your desire for historical greatness, and contribute to your penchant for dictatorial policy-making.

I hope you will come to understand that Middlebury doesn't need your legislation to evolve into the next century. The next century belongs to your students—I suggest you grant them the freedom to come to their own conclusions, and to determine their own futures.

The heart of your argument

In your letter of July 3, after four paragraphs of dubious legal rhetoric defending your assault on the freedom of association, the crux of your argument reveals itself in paragraph five (5). I quote directly:

"Our purpose is to educate, and a part of education is being prepared not simply to function, but to be a leader in the world you will inherit. Like it or not, that is a world in which single-sex, discriminatory organizations will have no place."

I'm not a psychology major, but it doesn't take Freud to figure our what's going on here.

The future fallacy ("Like it or Not")

Mr. McCardell, I understand that you are a learned historian. I did not realize that you were also a futurian, with extensive knowledge of what will happen in the next century. In your letter you say that allowing fraternities to exist is the equivalent of teaching "alchemy, or astrology." Well, if you did decide to offer these subjects, I know a good candidate for professor.

You say: "Single-sex organizations will have no place in the world you will inherit." I don't claim to know the future, but there is a strong possibility you are wrong. Many men and many women (both at Middlebury, and in the real world) enjoy the social company of an organized, single-sexed peer group. Sororities and fraternities across the U.S. currently enjoy greater memberships than ever before. These dreadful single-sex organizations are even healthy and vibrant up here in Canada. And Canada is considered socially progressive.

Sixty-one and six-tenths percent of the student population at Middlebury supports the individual's right to participate in a single-sex organization. In many cultures that is called a majority. Is this your evidence that single-sex organizations "will have no place" in the future?

Mr. McCardell, these undergraduates who voiced their support for student freedom—and who disagree with your recent legislation—they are the future. You might not agree with them, but you should at least recognize them. Do you get it yet? You may well be wrong about the future, like it or not.

The purpose fallacy ("Leader in the World")

Back to your letter again: "Our purpose is to educate, and part of education is being prepared not simply to function, but to be a leader in the world you will inherit."

You collect somewhere around $40 million each year in tuition. Your undergraduate population is intelligent, dynamic, diverse, open minded, and highly independent. You have a purpose all right—and it isn't "being a leader in the world" by squelching personal freedoms.

Can't you see that your students are fine just as they are? They rely on you to teach, and to teach well. If they wanted someone to engineer and police their personal lives, they would have spent $100,000 on a lobotomy, and a private parole officer.

Please do us a favor and stick to your job. Leave world leadership to the world's leaders. If you really must rally the world to conform with your personal agenda, do it on your own time. I'm sure we'll all be impressed with the results.

Conclusion (Boiling Down the Logic)

By picking out key phrases of your argument, and putting them back together again, I think we can get to the root of your motivation. First, let's look at those crucial sentences again:

"Our purpose is to educate, and part of education is being prepared not simply to function, but to be a leader in the world you will inherit. Like it or not, that is a world in which single-sex, discriminatory organizations will have no place."

Trim it down, and you can see what lies underneath: "Our purpose...is...to be a leader in the world...like it or not."

Well Mr. President, the fact of the matter is, your purpose is to teach, like it or not. Leave students' private lives alone.

A failed solution?

Middlebury College set out a few years ago to reform the social system, but it can today claim to have destroyed it. I write this letter as an alumnus who wants to set the record straight on student opinion during the social house "restructuring."

Caught between the choice of losing fraternities (which were really the only social outlet available) or adhering to the College's new quota system of "social houses," it's obvious that students would choose survival rather than suicide. Believe me, that's what the choice was for most students, male or female, fraternity member or not.

Instead of proposing a solution that would appeal to all students (perhaps allowing for fraternities, sororities and social houses to coexist), the College enforced students into an uncomfortable and artificial social setting. Student apathy towards the new system has increased, as has student (and alumni) disapproval of Old Chapel's Big Brother approach of overseeing student social outlets. Talk to any alum now (or next year for that matter), and you'll hear how they miss their friends, old teachers, coaches and the beautiful environment of Vermont. Unfortunately, you'll also hear that something is wrong: students aren't having fun.

Without natural, viable social outlets to balance students' incrased academic responsibilities, Middlebury seems poised to end a rewarding part of a young man or woman's college days. This process has already begun. I hope it's not too late for the College to reconsider this failed solution.

Fraternities: repression reexamined

Allow me to express my disapproval of disciplinary action against students participating in off-campus single-sex organizations (Around the Hill, Spring 1993).

I have never belonged to a fraternity, whether in Switzerland (my home country) or in the U.S. (where I attended the U. of Chicago). I view them as slightly ridiculous—and especially if they are of the male-only category.

However, I am alarmed to read about repression of those who wish to belong to one, as long as this does not interfere with their scholastic performance or that of other students. I think Jefferson would have taken a dim view of this uesless abridgement of individual freedom.

I'm worried that this may be one more instance of the misdirected effort by Middlebury's ruling bodies to use excessive authority to solve minor problems—or problems they have themselves created, as in the case of the regrettable dismissal of employees. The methods used in these cases are wrong because they show that the fundamental purpose for which Middlebury exists has become confused with short-term goals.

More come to bat for Slug

The letter of L.D. Geller '62 in the Spring 1993 issue of Middlebury College Magazine provides information concerning the pledging of African-Americans by Middlebury fraternities of which I was not previously aware. I'm sure that many other graduates and readers can say the same.

The achievements of Ron Brown '62, Charlie Owens '61 and Fielding Fergeson '61 as well as Sigma Phi Epsilon and DKE are clearly noteworthy but perhaps a look even farther back would also be useful.

For example, during the year of 1946-47, one of then eight fraternities on campus, Alpha Sigma Phi, broke with and left its national over the discrimination issue in general and became an independent, Alpha Sigma Psi. My recollection is not precise as to when Charlie James '49 pledged, though I think it was that same year. It is recalled that he served as vice president of the House for at least a year. I believe he subsequently finished Yale Law School, became an attorney and later a jurist in California. Some research might provide more precise facts than those resulting from an imperfect recollection and a vague Directory entry. There must be other examples of this sort of progress which would be of interest to your readers.

Integration of the College's fraternities has over many years required persistent efforts by many students of varied racial, ethnic and religious backgrounds as well as by faculty and administration. My hope is that we continue to hear of progress in this vital area in the future and present as well as the past.

CHARLES S. STEWART JR. '49
Indialantic, Fla.

Pursuant to the letters in your summer issue about the "Slug" house, I would like to share my knowledge of how the fraternity earned such an unusual nickname.

The Middlebury chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi chose to admit some African-American members, fellows who had fought side-by-side during World War II. When the national objected, the Middlebury fraternity decided to become a local, calling itself Alpha Sigma Psi.

The New York Times noted that the Middlebury chapter was the first fraternity in the entire United States to ever break from a national for such a reason and termed the brothers "sluggers for democracy."
PRESTON L. TALCOTT '63
Manchester, Vt.

For the record, we in the national fraternity, Alpha Sigma Phi, tried to keep the Alpha Delta Chapter at Middlebury in our ranks by offering to place the admission matter before the next national convention. We discovered much later that a black individual had been pledged before our arrival, and we had not been so informed at our meeting.

We went to Middlebury to try and keep the chapter in the national and not, as Mr. James says, "to warn of the consequences." At that time I was active in the national as a trustee of a large fraternity fund. I later became chairman of this group.

New question raised on Olympics story

I believe that those who have responded to the article about Kevin Mahaney's campaign to win an Olympic medal have missed the point. We are not offended by his lack of political correctness, but by his sense of play. He and other modern Olympic professionals have changed the playing of games into work—a saddening commentary on the course of civilization—and have demonstrated their willingness to ensure victory by acquiring a predetermined advantage.

As a regular competitor of Kevin's during his eight year campaign, the president of his class (the International Soling), an Olympic sailor ('68), and a sports psychologist ("Winning: the Psychology of Competition," W.E. Norton), I believe I should comment.

Game-playing is appealing because each player, accepted within a community of players, is provided an equal chance to determine the course and outcome of the game. We play and are fascinated by play because we delight in surprise. But now in every sport, in every game, there are competitors who seek inequality, the elimination of surprise, and the pre-determination of the outcome. Kevin hired the best available crew and coaches, purchased and tested multiple boats and sails (at and beyond the edge of legality), and in his campaign spent 3-4 times the amount of money expended by any previous or present competitor. Many of Kevin's competitors (including ex-East Germans and other professionals) resent his having raised the ante—in part because they recognize that no national authority and no commercial sponsor is or will be willing to spend half a million dollars to promote the winning of an Olympic sailing medal. I believe, however, that what offends us most is not his immense expenditure, but his willingness to apply it to the winning of an unequal contest.

Although the purpose of a game is to win (for most of us, for amateurs), the purpose of playing a game is to participate, to be involved, to affect an unknown course and outcome. But for professionals (I consider all those who work at games, who seek rewards other than satisfaction in a display of competence—financial support, product sales, public stature, advancement in an established hierarchy, etc.—to be professionals), the purpose of playing a game is to win. They may play, they may delight in the surprises of the game, but needing to win, having an ulterior motive in participating, they face a far greater temptation to pre-determine the outcome—to win unequal contests. Some do so and when their preparation and performance preclude an equal chance for their competitors, their play/work offends us.

A word of thanks

I wish to express my gratitude to those who so generously contributed to the gift which was presented to me at my retirement banquet on June 19th.

It was a great weekend seeing so many of you and having the opportunity to reminisce of times past.

The individuals who spoke at the dinner finally had their chance to get back at me through the roasting...a well deserved opportunity.

To the committee who organized the weekend, my sincere thanks.

Student seeks old classical records

The era of digital recordings has pushed aside old records. More and more historical recordings are being reissued on CD, DAT and DCC. Yet, I am still very much interested in old records of classical music. Should you have records that you would like to get rid of, or ones you would like to sell, plese get in touch with me.

Political correctness redefined

I am delighted that Guy Kettelhack ('73), in his letter in your Summer 1993 issue, entreats us "to make similarly 'normal' reference to gay and lesbian people..." In light of this request, I marvel at one section of his letter:

...because I'd moved in my case histories from straight to gay to lesbian, back to straight (to gay to...), as well as young to old to black to white to rich to not-so-rich—...

Could he have written not-so-black, not-so-young, not-so-straight? Is being poor unspeakable now?

Sages from many cultures and times have recommended poverty. Among its merits, it can expand one's capacity for genuine kindness and lessen the temptation to retreat into euphemism.

Disappointed in Mary Berry Speech

This year I attended the graduation exercises for my son at Middlebury College. Everything went well except for the commencement speaker, Mary Berry, who gave a very boring speech with no real purpose. I thought that my 13-year-old daughter summed it up best by saying, "That was the dumbest speech. All she did was say a list of things that didn't mean anything."

What my daughter hasn't learned yet is that many of our nation's universities are more interested in being politically correct than they are in seeking truth, competence, and just plain common sense. One only has to look at the University of Pennsylvania, which has become the pathetic, laughing stock of this movement, to realize how ridiculous and dangerous things are. Their President Hackney would not defend freedom of speech when it was challenged by a politically correct group, their nominee to a civil rights job (Lani Guinier) makes a mockery of our one man-one vote rule of law, and their Mary Berry is just plain incompetent and boring.

I am very disappointed that Middlebury College cannot be more independent in seeking out competence rather than correctness, and using common sense as a guiding principle rather than the rantings of these left-wing zealots who contribute nothing to the pursuit of excellence and truth.

Major overhaul of curriculum approved

This past spring, after months of discussion, the College faculty voted to approve the first major overhaul of the undergraduate curriculum in almost two decades.

The new curriculum will replace the current distribution requirements with a new set of eight academic categories from which students will select courses. The academic concentration, established to encourage greater breadth in undergraduate programs, will be replaced by a voluntary minor consisting of four to six courses.

Central to the curriculum change is the identification of the eight academic categories. All students will be required to take at least one course in seven out of the eight catgories, which are: literature, the arts, philosophical and religious studies, historical studies, physical and life sciences, deductive reasoning and analytical processes, social analysis, and foreign language. Courses that count toward the major can be used to satisfy this new distribution requirement. Courses may be cross-listed in two distribution categories, but students may count a single course toward only one of the eight categories.

"There was a concern on the part of the faculty that we were not exposing our students to the full breadth of the curriculum," said Eric Davis, dean for academic planning and instructional resources and professor of political science. "Too much emphasis on the major was resulting in too much specialization.

"In examining the possibilities for a revised curriculum, the question was asked: 'What are the areas to which a student should be exposed in a liberal arts education?' The answer to that question was the eight academic categories that were identified from which students would select their courses."

In addition to the distribution requirement, all students will be required to complete a Cultures and Civilizations requirement consisting of three courses: one course focusing on some aspect of the cultures and civilizations of the United States; one course focusing on some aspect of European cultures and civilizations; and one course focusing on some aspect of cultures and civilizations other than those of Europe and the United States. A student may count the same course towards both a distribution requirement and one of the Cultures and Civilizations categories.

"The Cultures and Civilization requirement was designed to avoid many of the pitfalls experienced by other institutions in this area," Davis noted. "It was designed to be as inclusive as it could be with no preferred position or emphasis on one particular culture. The requirement will make use of many established courses and will also have the potential for developing a series of new courses, particularly in integrative area studies."

The new curricular requirements will go into effect with the class of 1998 (entering in the fall of 1994). This will allow the faculty a full year to plan for the successful implementation of the new system, as well as to develop new courses that may be offered in many of the distribution categories.

The new curriculum will not change significantly the number of distribution requirements for Middlebury students. Currently ten courses are required beyond the major, including a writing course, first year seminar, four distribution requirements and four courses in the concentration. Under the new system, ten courses will be required —seven under the distribution requirement and three in Cultures and Civilizations. "There actually may be a decrease in the number of required courses since, under the new system, the first year seminars will count as part of the distribution requirement and there will be overlap between the distribution courses and the Cultures and Civilizations courses," said, Davis.

The first major overhaul of the curriculum came in the mid-'70s, when foundations courses and the concentrations were introduced. "What we are doing here is increasing the attention to general education and moving to more breadth. The new curriculum will allow students to use the major to make connections across the disciplines," said Davis.

New vice president for external affairs named

William F. Melton II, director of development at the Yale School of Medicine and the Yale-New Haven Hospital, has been named vice president for external affairs. As vice president, Melton will have supervisory responsibility for the offices of alumni relations, development and public affairs.

In making the appointment, President McCardell noted, "Will Melton's distinguished track record and managerial abilities make him the ideal leader for our development, alumni and public affairs programs as we approach the Middlebury College bicentennial in the year 2000. His extensive and varied experiences and his record of success will strengthen the College's efforts to seek new resources to meet our ambitions and planning priorities in the next decade."

Mr. Melton began his work in academic advancement at the preparatory school level, serving as director of development at Chatham Hall in Virginia, the Friends School of Baltimore, and Northfield-Mount Hermon School in Massachusetts. He joined the Yale School of Medicine in 1986 as it launched its first major capital campaign. He was soon placed in charge of the Medical Development Office, where he helped direct a $155-million campaign, concluding it one year ahead of schedule and $30-million over the announced goal. In 1990, the development offices of the Yale School of Medicine and Yale-New Haven Hospital were merged under his direction.

Mr. Melton is a graduate of Northfield-Mount Hermon School and holds a degree in religion from the University of Virginia.

Three who've touched many take retirement route

Nicholas Clifford—provost & vice president for academic affairs; professor of history

Professor of History Nicholas Clifford, who joined Middlebury in 1966, has been known to students for his dedication to teaching and knowledge. His interest in Chinese history, fueled by three years in the Navy as air intelligence officer in the Far East, led to his first book, Retreat from China, in 1967. His book, Shanghai, 1925; Urban Nationalism and the Defense of Foreign Privilege (1979) demonstrated his proficiency with the Chinese language. Other books by Clifford include Spoilt Children of Empire: Westerners in Shanghai and the Chinese Revolution of the 1920s (1991), and a novel, The House of Memory.

Clifford has served the College in a number of administrative posts, from chair of the history department in the early '70s, to division chair, to provost and vice president for academic affairs from 1979-1985. In 1989 he was asked to return to Old Chapel as acting provost for the spring semester. In September 1991 Acting President John McCardell asked him to become—once again—acting provost. Clifford served as provost and vice president for academic affairs until August of 1993.

In 1970, with the turmoil on the Middlebury campus following Cambodia and Kent State, Professor Clifford was asked by the seniors to speak for the students at commencement.

Carl Peabody—Book Store manager

In 1962, Carl Peabody, UVM graduate and ROTC veteran, came to work in the Middlebury College Store, which was housed in the temporary structure fondly remembered by many alumni as the old "Stu U." The Vermont native took the position, thinking, "This job will do until the real one comes along.

Today, 31 years later, "It's been great," says Peabody, who retired as manager of the store in May.

An economics and industrial management major, Carl Peabody took over the store's managership in 1964. And, naturally, the store, in the lower level of Proctor, has grown considerably since those days.

One achievement Peabody is proud of is the addition of and emphasis on recycled products in the store. "We put in choices for people who have genuine concern for the environment," he said, adding, "A lot of credit has to go to student organizations. You have to be your own best advocate."

"I couldn't have asked to fall into a better career," said Peabody. "This has been a rewarding 31 years. The students, with all their energy, and the intellectual vitality of faculty, keep you fresh. You can't grow old in a community that stays young.

"I'm proud to be from Middlebury College and proud to be associated with it," he added.

Rudolph K. Haerle Jr., professor of sociology

For some, retirement means putting up your feet, traveling, and visiting family members. For Professor of Sociology/Anthropology Rudolph K. Haerle Jr., retirement means all of that—and more. As he explained, "I'm retiring early to work on an intellectual biography of W.I. Thomas," a project he's been involved in since 1979.

Haerle started his work on Thomas, an early sociologist and a main contributor to the early development of scientific sociology in the U.S. and, especially, at the Chicago School of Sociology, almost by accident while attending an NEH seminar at Duke University in the summer of 1978.

Through his research Haerle became quite a detective. Trying to resurrect the "somewhat forgotten" Thomas, Haerle has followed a trail that has taken him to Stockholm and throughout the U.S. He's interviewed a former student of Thomas, now in his 90s, walked Thomas' Virginia childhood home, and interviewed countless people where Thomas was connected—at the University of Tennessee, the University of Chicago, Oberlin College, Harvard University, and the New School for Social Research in New York City. "It's been a fascinating puzzle for me to unravel," said Haerle.

Professor Haerle first joined the Middlebury faculty in 1962 as an instructor. He left the College in 1966 for a post at the Center for Urban Education in New York City, returning to Middlebury a year later as associate professor and chairman of the department.

Much of his writing in the '60s and '70s focused on post-occupational adjustments of retired baseball players, which he dropped subsequently for research on interfaith marriages. His love of baseball was never dropped, however, as he is a serious Chicago Cubs fan and an ardent collector of baseball memorabilia. In retirement, Haerle hopes to find plenty of time for research, writing, and more baseball.

IN BRIEF

Books to South Africa

Pounds—2,401 in all—of books of all kinds have now been shipped to the Peninsula Technikon in Cape Town, South Africa, by Middlebury College. These books, much needed by institutions of higher learning in South Africa, were donated by students, faculty and staff from the College community. The drive was jointly sponsored by the College Store, the Bicultural Center, and the Student Affairs Office.

The Cape of Good Hope Foundation, whose President, Prof. Ned Munger at Cal Tech is a friend of Professor of History John Spencer, paid the cost of shipping the 60 cartons of books. Said Munger in a letter to Vice President for Student Affairs John Emerson, "I only wish you could be with me when I meet with heads of universities and librarians. They are so grateful."

New Publication Born

When students raised the question of what they could do to help the College community confront, understand, and change the way they viewed racism, the result, a year later, was the first issue of Skin Deep magazine.

The 27-page issue, entitled "Racism: A Human Issue," contains fifteen articles and poems by Middlebury students from all backgrounds. "Skin Deep was born from the silence which is created by misunderstanding. This misunderstanding is maintained by the very silence which it fosters," explained the editors in their introduction. "What this magazine represents is an attempt by students to transform the silence of misunderstanding into the respectful silence of tolerance. This collection was generated by racism and must be understood as such....Skin Deep seeks to present the personal realities of racism by promoting a clearer understanding of the issue."

College loses one of its strongest

If there was a common thread among the eulogizers—who included President McCardell, Director of Operations George Whitney and Chaplain John Walsh, among others— at Shirley Fisler's memorial service on August 8, it was "Shirley was strong."

Director of Human Resources Shirley Fisler died on August 5, 1993. Always professional, always upbeat. and always well coiffed (which became a kind of Fisler trademark), Mrs. Fisler joined the College staff in 1970. She was named assistant director of personnel in 1985, and director of human resources in 1991. A New Jersey native, she was a graduate of the Laboratory Institute of Merchandising in New York City.

In his letter to the College community, President McCardell said: "Our community has lost a woman of singular talent and integrity, whose quiet competence served this College for many years in extraordinary ways and whose courageous dignity in her last days defined what is meant by that elusive term, character. Her selfless dedication to her work as director of human resources and, through that work, to all of us, gave a caring, human face to an increasingly complex institution and reminded us all that each of us has something important to contribute to the life of the College.

"Most of all, Shirley will be remembered as someone who cared about each individual who worked at the College and, in striving to answer our questions, demonstrated her care and respect for every College employee. As such, she did more than most of us may ever know to reinforce the bonds that unite this special community."

In recognition of Mrs. Fisler's long and distinguished service, President McCardell has established the Shirley Fisler Memorial Fund, which will be used to support events and activities that bring members of the campus community together.

More than Equals: Racial Healing for the Sake of the Gospel

By Spencer Perkins and Chris Rice '83; InterVarsity Press, Downers Grove, Ill.

Is there hope for race relations in America? In this compelling new book, one black (Spencer Perkins), and one white (Chris Rice), both residents of Jackson, Mississippi, say the answer is yes. The challenge of race today, they maintain, is moving from the political battle of integration to the higher spiritual challenge of reconciliation, which calls for heart-felt partnership and results in one-to-one friendships of trust and common mission. More than Equals offers an honest and practical look at the real issues facing black/white relationships. Perkins and Rice share their personal experiences, outline a vision of reconciliation, and offer principles learned through their own hard-won relationship. While the book shows "the problem" and how whites and blacks each contribute to our separation, it moves people toward solutions and how they can live a lifestyle of reconciliation.

Learn Russian the Fast and Fun Way

By Thomas R. Beyer Jr. (Russian); Barron's Educational Series, Inc., Hauppauge, N.Y.

Following in the style of Barron's Fast and Fun Way series, this new addition provides self-instruction in Russian and is enjoyable as well as educational. Each of the 29 chapters introduces new vocabulary and grammar lessons before launching into a dialogue and workbook exercises. Emphasis is on the language that students or business people need in everyday situations—getting around Moscow, St. Petersburg or a rural village; checking into a hotel; ordering meals in restaurants; shopping and more. Translations and an easy-to-follow pronunciation guide enable the reader to begin speaking the language in no time at all. Hundreds of illustrations, exercises and puzzles keep learning interesting. A pull-out, bilingual dictionary, food and drink guide, and flash cards are included at the back of the book.

William Windom: Apostle of Positive Government

By Robert S. Salisbury '71; University Press of America, Lanham, Md.

This is the first book devoted exclusively to the political career of William Windom. It illuminates not only the personal biography of Windon, arguably Minnesota's most influential politcal figure of the 19th century, but it also casts much light on the differences between the Democratic and Republican parties during the period 1860-1890. Salisbury offers evidence which refutes the traditional view of the Gilded Age that Republicans were the party of big business, characterized by a mediocrity of leadership and permeated by corruption and venality. An intensive analysis of William Windom, who served in the United States House of Representatives for ten years, in the U.S. Senate for twelve years, and was twice appointed Secretary of the Treasury, reveals much about the time.

Saddle and Saber: The letters of Civil War Cavalryman Corporal Nelson Taylor

By Gray Nelson Taylor '32; Heritage Books, Inc., Bowie, Md.

Corporal Nelson Taylor wrote 103 letters to his family in Clifton Park, N.Y., while he served with the Ninth New York State Volunteer Cavalry from his enlistment in 1861 through his discharge in October 1864. This collection of letters is unique; it is an unbroken series. Taylor graphically describes some of the 141 separate engagements his regiment was involved in. He does not dwell on battle scenes, the carnage, or statistics, however, but writes poignantly of the everyday life of a soldier. One becomes aware of his feelings and emotions about warfare: the closeness of cavalry combat and the uncertainties of the cavalryman's day-to-day survival, for such highly mobile units were usually the vanguard of assaults. Taylor has added explanatory notes on the formation of the Ninth New York State Volunteer Cavalry in Chautauqua County, as well as on the forces influencing the movements of the Ninth New York Cavalry.

Estilo literario: analisis y creacion

By Clark M. Zlotchew M.A. Spanish '66; cloth, Borgo Press, San Bernardino, Calif.; paper, Dumont, Snyder & Kocin, Yonkers, N.Y.

Estilo literario is an upper-level textbook written entirely in Spanish. It has two purposes: to teach students of Spanish to analyze a piece of literature, and to improve students' writing skills in Spanish. Each of the 12 chapters contains a passage from Spanish-language literature, followed by a detailed analysis of the passage. A series of questions in each chapter stimulates discussion of the effects achieved by the passage and the literary devices employed by the author. Each chapter also contains a discussion of particularly thorny points of grammar and has exercises on them. Every lesson ends with instructions for the students to write an original composition using some of the literary devices just studied. Dr. Zlotchew is professor of Spanish with State University of New York College at Fredonia.

Stolen Joy

By Anne Barney '79; Icarus Books, Baltimore, Md.

"Too often miscarriage, stillbirth and infant death isolate the bereaved parents. For those who have felt alone with their loss, the poems in Stolen Joy give a voice to the feelings, and companionship in suffering. Ann Barney shares her strength as well as her pain. Her poems, though often stark as the death of a child is stark, offer comfort and healing."—Louisa Rogoff Thompson, Ph.D. Clinical Psychologist

What We Don't Know About Each Other

By Lawrence Raab '68; Penguin Books, New York, N.Y.

The winner of the 1992 National Poetry Series competition, What We Don't Know About Each Other is a collection of poems that have appeared in such publications as The New Yorker, The Nation, Poetry, The Paris Review, and The Best American Poetry 1992 and 1993. Each poem is a carefully chosen and precisely rendered moment—the speculative lull that follows a party; the morning after a particularly vivid dream; the instant in which something terrible appears outside the window. Even as it delights with wit and nuance, Rabb's verse compels readers to remember the people they once were and to consider the alternate destinies discarded en route to their present lives.

Murder in a Mayonnaise Jar

By Molly McKitterick '73; St. Martin's Press, New York, N.Y.

A second novel by McKitterick, centered around the unraveling of a murder mystery in a poor community in St. Louis. The story is about Jennifer, a news reporter, who takes a close look at the death of a young boy from a drug overdose, and makes some powerful discoveries.

FACULTY NOTES

David Rosenberg, newly-appointed Frederick C. Dirks Professor of Economics and Political Science, was on sabbatical leave last year at American University's School for International Service, where he taught a graduate seminar on the International Relations of East Asia and conducted research on environment and development policies in Asia. In January, he travelled to Vietnam with an American delegation of scholars for a faculty seminar on "Southeast Asian Relations," held at Hanoi University and Ho Chi Minh City University. His report, "Will Vietnam be the Next Asian Mini-Dragon?" is in the September issue of the Geonomics Journal. ... Su Lian Tan (music) was recently honored at the San Francisco Symphony's Wet Ink Festival which she was invited to attend as a special guest composer. She participated in panel discussions on Pacific Rim composers and on her own work, and was interviewed by Voice of America radio concerning her compositions and her unique perspective on music and composing in Asia and the United States. As part of the festival, she coached members of the San Francisco Symphony, and received a performance by them of By Leaps and Bounds. Ms. Tan's Two Scenes for Brass Quintet was the prize winner in the composition competition sponsored by the First International Women's Brass Conference held in St. Louis. Invited to attend as special guest composer, she received her award at a special banquet honoring women pioneers of the last one hundred years who have especially influenced brass music and performance. As part of the conclusion of the conference, she coached performers and received the premiere performance of Two Scenes at the conference's gala concert. Two Scenes will be performed in upcoming concerts by the Encore Brass ensemble as part of the Aspen Music Festival this summer in Aspen, Colo. Earlier this year, the Princeton University Orchestra premiered Ms. Tan's Somniloquy for orchestra. The work was commissioned by the orchestra and performed on their regular concert series in October. In addition, By Leaps and Bounds was performed by the Chicago Ensemble, a contemporary music group, on their regularly scheduled music series in Chicago in December. ...Matthew Dickerson, (mathematics and computer science), recently received a three year $75,000 grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) for research in Computational Geometry beginning summer of 1993. The grant includes funds for an undergraduate summer research assistant. Dickerson spent the month of July in Northampton, Mass., where he had a faculty research position at the NSF sponsored Regional Geometry Institute. His recent publications include: "The Inverse of an Automorphism in Polynomial Time," in the Journal of Symbol Computation 13 (1992); "Simple Algorithms for Enumerating Interpoint Distances and Finding k Nearest Neighbors," co-authored with Scot Drysdale of Dartmouth College and Jorg-Rudiger Sack of Carleton University Ottawa, and published in the International Journal of Computational Geometry and Applications 2 (1992); and "A Simple Algorithm for Enumerating Longest Distances in the Plane," co-authored with Jason Shugart '91 and published in Information Processing Letters 45 (1993). A fourth article, "General Polynomial Decomposition is NP-Hard." has also been accepted to appear in a forthcoming issue of the International Journal of Foundations of Computer Science. ... Cheryl Faraone (theatre, dance & film/video) reports that the Potomac Theatre Project (PTP) troupe is becoming more and more "Middlebury—even the professional company members are Midd grads," she says. PTP just wound up its seventh season in Washington D.C., repeating its successful "Four for Free" format. The company, directed by Faraone, Richard Romagnoli (theatre, dance & film/video) and Jim Petosa, presented a quartet of theatre pieces: Safari by Pavel Kohout; The After-Dinner Joke, by Caryl Churchill; Plevna: Meditations on Hatred, by Howard Barker; and Ghosts, by Henrik Ibsen. PTP veterans included Alexander Draper '88, Annette Toutonghi '89, and Andrea Schaefer '91. "The days of exclusive lightweight summer fare seem to be over," wrote Pamela Sommers of The Washington Post about PTP. "...the real mecca for theater of ideas has to be Georgetown's Hall of Nations Theatre where the Potomac Theatre Project is ensconced through July 18. Now in its seventh summer season here, the PTP—in residence at Middlebury College during the year—provides local audiences with free, socially and politically challenging offerings by the likes of Harold Pinter, Athol Fugard, Lanford Wilson and other literary provacateurs. Lloyd Rose of the Post described the PTP performances: "The feeling of these evenings is fresh and full of energy." ... Robert Schine (religion) was granted a Fulbright Fellowship for study at the University of Leipzig during spring term '94 as guest professor of Judaic studies. Schine will be the first to teach the field there— "Doing so in the former East," he says, "should be a pedagogical and intellectual challenge." ... Rich Wolfson (physics) spent the spring term as a visiting scientist at St. Andrews University in Scotland, where he did research on the sun's corona in collaboration with scientists from Scotland and Russia. An updated version of his book, Nuclear Choices: A Citizen's Guide to Nuclear Technology, will be published this fall by MIT Press. ... Bill Peterson (mathematics and computer science) has been selected to be the first recipient of the Perkins Teaching Award. The grant was made possible by a generous gift by the children of Dr. Llewellyn R. Perkins, a member of the Middlebury mathematics department from 1914 until his retirement in 1941, and Dr. Ruth Perkins '32. It is intended to honor a member of the mathematics or science faculty for outstanding performance. Peterson was selected from a panel of three professors nominated by the Student Advisory Committee of the department of mathematics and computer science. ... Thomas Huber (German) reports the publication of MAINZ Sales Guide 1992-93. Huber did the complete English version and a substantial part of the consultations of the master plan. The guide lists events, sights, hotels and restaurants with maps and guides to public transportation. The finished product is a colorful book of 100+ pages, available at the Mainz tourist office. Huber published an article, "Middlebury Language Schools and the Bread Loaf School of English" in Continuing Education in the United States, Berichte und Beitrage zur wissenschaftlichen Weiterbildung 43, ed. Prof. Winfrid Herget (Mainz, Johannes Gutenberg-Universitat, Marz 1993), pp. 67-72. During 1993-94 Prof. Huber will be directing the School in Mainz, where one of his projects will be to write/edit a parallel volume to MAINZ Sales Guide, entitled MAINZ Museum Guide. ... Jill Becker (dance) presented her solo evening of dance entitled Portraits of Women: Dances by Jill Becker, to audiences in Bonn and Dortmund, Germany, and Antwerp, Belgium, in June of 1993. Becker was also commissioned to create an original piece for dancers at De Beweging in Antwerp. The program was created during Ms. Becker's four years at Middlebury College and was presented at the Center for the Arts in April 1993. It included Lines of Resistance, a portrait of a French Resistance fighter, which was based on the research of Paula Schwartz, a historian in the French department; Antoinette, a satyric, sympathetic and humorous portrait of Marie Antoinette; and anonymous, a reflection on the pain and loss of contemporary women living in war-torn areas, with Tibetan vocal music. Ms. Becker will be returning to free-lance work and will relocate in Ithaca this fall. ... Setting things straight, Paul Sommers (economics) notes that the article, "Are Supreme Court Resignations Non-Stoachastic?" was co-authored with Shireen S. Tabechian '91 and Andrew Peach '91 (not Katherine Buchan '95 as reported in the summer issue of this magazine), and that the article will appear in the next issue of the Journal of Recreational Mathematics. Buchan and Sommers are co-authors of "Judging Olympic Judges for Political Bias," which was accepted for publication in the Journal of Recreational Mathematics, which has also accepted for publication the following articles by Sommers: "Measuring Competitive Balance in Major League Baseball" (co-authored with Danielle E. Carbonneau '95); "Pitcher Perfect: All Tall Talk?"; "Numbers You Can Bank On" (co-authored with Alix A. Spivack '94 and Kip M. Kirkpatrick '94); "The Vegetable Veto"; and "Tee Tests" (co-authored with Brian E. Smith '95). His article, "The Influence of Salary Arbitration on Player Performance," was published in Social Science Quarterly, Vol. 74, No. 2, June 1993. ... Harold B. Hitchcock, professor emeritus of biology, has co-authored, with Laura Sommers and Wayne Davis, an article, "Longevity Records for Myotis lucifugus," on the survival of the little brown bat, in Bat Research News. Prof. Hitchcock has also published, in Panther Prints, the "Newsletter of the Friends of the Eastern Panther" (spring, 1993), an article, "A Vermont Road Kill Report and Other Selected Evidence." The article reports two sightings of felis concolor in the Northeast—one on Route 7 about 10 miles south of Middlebury, on Sept. 15, 1992, and the second in Monkton, about 15 miles northeast of Middlebury, on Feb. 5, 1992. ... In October, Alicia Andreu (Spanish) will deliver a paper, "El duscurso etnografico en El hablador de Mario Vargas Llosa," at the Mid-America Conference on Hispanic Literature, to be held at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri; and will chair the session, "The Colombian Novel: New Perspectives," at the same conference.

SCATE Comes Home

Crossing the country to raise money for cancer research, "scaters" discover what the heartland of America really means

"...with a little work, we can all use our gifts to help others."

So read the SCATE (Stop Cancer Across the Earth) flyer. And, indeed, that's what the project organizers—Ted Leach '92, Michael B. Sayre '94, Hieu Nguyen '92 and Courtney Mather '92—accomplished. Combining their brain power and ingenuity, with more than a little youthful stamina, they skated on rollerblades 3,300 miles, from Los Angeles to Boston, to raise money for cancer treatment and research.

The four skaters' lives had all been touched by cancer. For Leach, conceptualizer of the project, it was his grandmother's death from lung cancer that made him resolve to do something to make some gains against the disease. "Watching my grandmother in her illness made me realize how much I take my own health for granted," said Leach, adding, "Statistics show that one out of every three people will be touched by cancer in his or her lifetime."

As the project took form and got under way, the crew discovered that SCATE could mean quite a bit more than just raising money for cancer. "We spent a lot of time with the media," said Sayre. "We used SCATE to talk about not only cancer, but also the importance of community service." And they found that, while they had begun SCATE to help others, it was others who were helping them along the way. "That was the biggest irony," said Leach. "Others were helping us from day one. It turned out to be so enriching, it was such a great feeling."

The media was everywhere, thanks to the super organization of Carolyn LaRose of the Sports Information Office in Middlebury. LaRose made media contacts in every town where the foursome touched down. Radio stations, newspapers and TV were ready for them, with LaRose faxing press releases nearly every day. And SCATE kept in touch with LaRose. "Sometimes I would talk to them four times a day," she said.

The crew began its 63-day skate at the University of Southern California Norris Cancer Center as planned on June 5. They left with great fanfare, as the center was celebrating its third "Festival of Life," a day celebrating cancer survivors. Nearly 1,000 cancer survivors, their families, physicians and care-givers, were on hand for the official send-off. USC/Norris Hospital Administrator G. Peter Shostak warmly endorsed the team, saying that their goal was "to show people across the country that we all have individual gifts that can be used to help and inspire others."

Everyone on the team did some skating, with Leach skating the entire 3,300 miles. "It was definitely tough at times, but it was fun, too," said Leach. "Every day was filled with a new experience. The assumption was that it would be a physical challenge but it was also a mental battle—knowing you had to get up and do it day after day."Members, except for Leach, skated and took turns driving the Winnebago.

As well planned and thought out as the trek was, however, there were the unexpected snags. They got through California, Nevada and Arizona successfully, but found that Colorado held a bigger challenge for them than the anticipated hurdle of skating up the 10,500 feet above sea level at Wolf Creek Pass. Colorado had a law against skaters on its state roads and the state police weren't going to allow them to cross the state without a special permit, and that permit might take 60 days. They had to do quite a bit of negotiating with the state police in Durango, who, happily, quickly grasped the urgency of their mission and expedited the paper work in two days instead of 60. Even so, the crew was a little concerned about getting across the state and was worried about the Navajo virus. They had to use secondary roads and it took two and one half hours to go eight miles crossing the Rockies, but they made it. "It made for a long, long day," said Sayre.

Brendan Collins '94, Sarah Johnson '94 and Happy Hazelton '95, joined SCATE members Courtney Mather '92, Michael Sayre '94 and Ted Leach '92 in St. Louis for a day.

It was probably fortunate that they had done their training for the expedition in Vermont, in the spring, where the road surfaces are not particularly level or smooth, so they were prepared for old highways such as old Rte. 66 and, later in their trip, the Old Post Road in the East. They averaged about 12 mph.

When they hit Kansas, it was hard going, with the wind in their faces. Not only that, but the rains were coming. "The wheat was about to be farmed," said Sayre. "Some farmers had started, but the rains began. The real flooding hit when we were in Missouri." This was around the 4th of July.

Nonetheless, Kansas City and St. Louis were high points of the trip beause they ran into Middlebury friends. "We ran into David Moore '92 in the middle of nowhere in Colorado. He joined us in Kansas City and skated with us for a day," recounted Sayre. "In St. Louis Sarah Johnson '94 had us over with other Midd friends Happy Hazelton '95 and Brendan Collins '94, and all three of them skated with us. It was one of my favorite days, having all our Middlebury friends out there."

They crossed Ole Miss east of St. Louis, into East Illinois. The Illinois roads were good and they made good time, with a side trip to Chicago, where Sayre had an aunt battling cancer. In Chicago Mayor Daley declared the day "SCATE Day" and they skated through the city with a police escort.

They found Indiana to be hot and windy and Pennsylvania more hilly than expected. "We were all really tired at that point," said Sayre. By this time they were old hands at media interviews, and at using the radio to tell people why they were there. "We were learning there was a lot more SCATE could do," said Sayre.

In the East they ran into more Middlebury friends, and by the time they were camping in the State Park in Madison, Connecticut, "It really felt like we were home," said Sayre. They skated though parts of Massachusetts, Westboro, Southboro, and reached Winchester, Sayre's home town, on the 6th of August. Winchesterites gathered in large numbers to welcome the team. On August 7th, with about 25 Middlebury friends who joined them in Winchester, they skated into Faneuil Hall in Boston, where they were greeted by Governor Weld, a doctor from Dana Farber Cancer Institute, the benefactor of SCATE, and even a Boston Bruin. And they were interviewed by Channels 4 and 7, newspapers and radio stations.

"SCATE was more than a fund raiser," said Sayre. "We all have personal gifts we can use to help other people. Every person can make a difference somehow."

A Banner Year for the Language Schools

By Annika Hipple '95

This was a milestone year for the Middlebury College Language Schools. Edward C. Knox, who has directed the schools since 1983, retired from that post at the end of the summer, stepping into the position of vice president for academic affairs.

Knox's 11-year tenure as director of the Language Schools and vice president for foreign languages was marked by a series of significant accomplishments, especially in the areas of language proficiency, technology and teacher training.

Because those years were so remarkable, a special surprise was planned at the end of this year's session. Banners, with the colors and name of each school, were created—and hidden—from Mr. Knox, and, on the evening of Commencement were hung from the balconies of Mead Chapel—much to his surprise. The banners will be hung in Mead Chapel in succeeding years, throughout the entire session.

At Commencement, Pierre J. Capretz, director of the Yale Language Laboratory and a critical figure in the audio-visual revolution in foreign language teaching that began in the late 1950s, was honored with the conferral of the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters. A graduate of the University of Paris, Professor Capretz has been affiliated with Yale University since 1956. Prior to that, he taught at the University of Florida and also spent one summer in the late '50s teaching at the Middlebury French School. Capretz, who is director of the "French in Action" program, a cooperative project of Yale, WGBH and the Annenberg Foundation, has been a driving force in the design of new techniques for the teaching of modern foreign languages for more than three decades.

In honor of Knox's 11 outstanding years, we present an overview of his final one as director-- "The Summer of 1993."

The ARABIC School

Enrollment in the Arabic School reached a record high of 82 students this summer, up from 63 in 1992. The School drew students from around the country and overseas, according to director Mahmoud Al-Batal. The faculty included professors from Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, and Morocco, as well as a few non-native speakers from the United States. The school initiated the use of a new textbook, written at Middlebury, in the elementary and high elementary levels. Al-Batal, who is an associate professor of Emory University in Atlanta, described the results as "very encouraging." The materials will now be field tested at a number of institutions around the country before being submitted for publication.

The school's extracurricular life was rich and innovative as well. In July, students were treated to an authentic Arab dinner cooked by faculty members. The school also held an Arabic Music Night, which included a lecture on Arabic music by Dr. Dwight Reynolds of the University of California at Santa Barbara. Each Wednesday the School divided into a number of clubs, ranging from the movie club and the theatre club to the literature club and the political cafe club, allowing students "to use the language in an environment centered on their interests," said Al-Batal. This year students formed a belly dancing club, while another new organization was the Koran club, which involved the recitation of verses from the Koran, the holy book of Islam. The culminating event of the summer was the performance of the Egyptian play Izis in the final week of the session. Based on an ancient myth, the play is about the goddess Izis who cannot stop mourning her husband after he is killed. According to the legend, her tears are the reason for the annual flooding of the Nile.

The CHINESE School

This summer the Chinese School focused on involving students in a variety of "task-based activities," giving students practice in using the language rather than just memorizing grammar and characters. "We emphasized preparation for the real world, for real-life situations," said Chinese School director Richard Chi, associate professor of Chinese at the University of Utah. Contributing to this goal were a series of cultural extra-curricular activities, including poem recitation and calligraphy. The poem recitation was "very important, particularly for many first-years," said Chi,

Below, students in the Chinese School learn calligraphy. Chinese calligraphy not only involves mastering the skill of using the brush, according to Chinese School Director Richard Chi, but also influences "your entire temperament and presumably affects your outlook on life."

French School Director Daniel Jourlait and students present a series of sketches by Eugene Ionesco

since it is particularly useful for learning the four tones of Chinese pronunciation, one of the most difficult aspects of the language. Chi also noted that calligraphy not only involves mastering the skill of using the brush but also "edifies your personality and contributes to your overall well-being...It helps with your entire temperament and presumably affects your outlook on life." Chi believes that this is one reason the activity proved so popular among students at the School.

The summer included the annual China Night, a series of student-designed skits and musical performances. Lecturers included professor Nancy Chapman, who discussed modern Chinese history, giving a new perspective on China's interactions with Japan. In addition to the frequently discussed economic and political relations, Chapman noted the extensive cultural and linguistic borrowing that has taken place as well. Contrary to what many people believe, China has borrowed from Japan fully as much as Japan has borrowed from China, and most of this cultural interaction took place not in the distant past, but within the past two or three centuries. Professor Tam King-Fai talked about the development of the Chinese film industry since the early part of the century, while Mark Berkson, a student at the Chinese School, gave a presentation on the traditional Chinese philosopher Zhuang Zi. Chen-Ching Li, head of the Coordination Council for North American Affairs (the equivalent of the Taiwanese embassy) and former head of the Mandarin Training Center of the National University of Taiwan, lectured on the evolution of the Chinese language, both in terms of lexicon and the writing system. Dr. Li also identified a number of opportunities to study Chinese both in Taiwan and the U.S., as well as opportunities for employment using skills in Chinese, giving students an idea of what they can do after their study at Middlebury.

The FRENCH School

With an increase in enrollment for the 1993 summer session, students in the French School found a wide range of cultural events and extracurricular activities to supplement the academic program. The French choir's end-of-summer concert included selections from Bizet's Carmen and the German composer Hindemith, while the annual cabaret featured the lively French cancan. A group of 35-40 students performed a series of sketches by French playwright Eugene Ionesco; other dramatic productions were a comedy from the Romantic period and Moliere's Tartuffe, which attracted a large audience not only from the language schools but also from area towns. Several instructors and students took advantage of the campus radio station to create a twice-weekly broadcast of French songs and commentary. A popular stress-breaker was the informal coffee break each Wednesday in Battell basement, during which students and faculty could take an hour out of their full schedules to relax and chat over a cup of coffee. Other popular events included a day trip to Montreal and Bastille Day festivities on July 14, kicking off the annual Quebec Week celebration.

The academic life this summer represented French School director Daniel Jourlait's conviction that it is "important for the school to renew its program every year" by bringing in "new blood and new subjects." A series of five lectures focused on women in the literature of modern Quebec, while six other lectures examined the political and economic institutions of Paris in the context of France today and discussed the love-hate relationship between France and the United States. Reflecting a growing trend in language teaching methods, the faculty this year included two new instructors, Jean-Luc Boissel and Louis Scotto, specialists in movie and video. Another new course this summer, taught by Pierre Mari, focused on the French Renaissance, while civilization courses on the various regions of France attracted large numbers of students. According to Jourlait, a professor at the Universite d'Aix-Marseilles, "Students are discovering that Paris is not all of France any more than New York is all of the States."

The GERMAN School

It was a musical summer for the German School. Soprano Jane Bryden of Smith College and pianist Craig Smith of Boston performed in the German School's main concert of the summer. Another musical event featured religious works by Richard Strauss, Schumann, Schubert and Wolff, while various instrumental quartets performed throughout the session. The German School also sponsored a musical evening, featuring vocal and instrumental performance by students and faculty. The German School choir also gave students an opportunity to pursue their musical interests. A highlight was an end-of-session production of West Side Story in German. The show was directed by the School's coordinator of musical activities Brenda Smith and featured students from all levels of study. According to German School director Konrad Kenkel, associate professor of German at Dartmouth, the student production was near-professional and drew an enthusiastic audience.

Students also had the opportunity to attend a variety of lectures, with topics ranging from post-modern literary theory, a poem by Paul Zeran, and Karl May, whose books are read by almost all German children. One of the main events of the summer was a visit by Christa Wolff, who spent an entire day on campus meeting with students in discussion sessions. Wolff read from some of her recent, unpublished works, including Die Nagelprobe and Anna Sigheis. Wolff has been a source of much controversy, with debate raging over the degree to which she was involved in the "East German establishment." Kenkel says that it now appears Wolff was not involved, but "people in the West wrote what they wanted to." Her visit was a unique opportunity for German School students and, according to Kenkel, she was "very well received."

The ITALIAN School

The Italian School offered a number of innovative courses this summer, including "From Italy to America: The Literature of Italian Immigration," taught by Professor Paolo Giordano. Professor Maria Carla Papini offered a new course examining the contributions of women to Italian literature from 1500-1900. Poetry was also emphasized as Papini and Professor Rocco Mario Morano introduced students to Italian poets ranging from the Romantics to the metapoets of recent years. In mid-July, Giovanni Cecchetti, Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Italian at UCLA, visited the campus to lecture on poetry past and present as well as on the art of translation. Another exciting visit was that of Alessandro Vaciago, newly-appointed Italian cultural attache to Washington, D.C., who spent three days at Middlebury talking with students. The Italian School also offered students an extraordinary opportunity in the form of a "Directing Practicum" taught by well-known film director Giuseppe De Santis with the assistance of Professor of Italian Antonio Vitti and Professor of Communications and Theater Michael Frierson.

In conjunction with the visit of De Santis, the Italian School focused its cultural offerings on the Italian cinema, offering many films both new and old by Italian directors. A talent show and school-wide picnic gave students and faculty the chance to interact in extracurricular and social settings. According to Italian School Director Edoardo Lebano, the School is "like a big family. There is an atmosphere of people caring for each other." Lebano, professor of Italian and director of the Center for Italian Studies at Indiana University, stressed that study at the Italian School "is not a vacation," but added that professors come to Middlebury gladly because the students are motivated. The great difference between the Middlebury summer language schools and most academic-year programs, Lebano said, is that students in the classes are all there because they want to be, not to fulfill graduation requirements. This high motivation also motivates the teacher, who "is impelled to give the most of himself or herself....Everyone gives 100 percent of what they can." The 1993 session, Lebano noted, was the most trouble-free summer ever, possibly due to the excellent weather, which helped make the atmosphere conducive to serious study.

The JAPANESE School

The Middlebury Japanese program is known to be rigorous for students, but Japanese School Director Masakazu Watabe, who is chair of the department of Asian and Near Eastern Languages at Brigham Young University, says it is "just as hard for the teachers, who work day and night with students." Faculty not only work with students on class assignments, but also on all the summer events. This year's schedule included a talent show and a presentation night, where students wrote and presented skits. In another series, fourth-year students discussed their research papers. Students also read poetry by Robert Frost and articles about Frost—all in Japanese, of course. Following these readings, the School took a field trip to the Robert Frost Interpretive Trail in Ripton, where students translated the poems on the trail into Japanese.

On July 7 the School held the Star Festival, a traditional Japanese event celebrating the two stars closest to each other across the Milky Way. In Japan, people use a variety of decorations of paper and bamboo; creative improvisation made up for Vermont's limited bamboo supply. Another popular part of the summer was the bon dance, a Japanese type of group folk dancing. Lectures during the 1993 session included Middlebury's own Carole Cavanaugh and Hiroshi Miyaji, as well as Richard Nanto, the head of the Japan Task Force of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress. Other featured speakers were Susumu Ogawa, former president of Nihon Keizai Shimbun America, Inc., and Michael Young, former U.S. ambassador of trade and environmental affairs and director of the Center for Japanese Legal Studies and Korean Legal Studies at Columbia University's School of Law.

The RUSSIAN School

Lectures abounded at the Russian School this summer and included scholars from both the United States and Russia. Together with the Middlebury College Center for Russian and East European Studies, the Russian School, under the direction of associate professor Alexander Woronzoff-Dashkoff of Smith College, sponsored a lecture by Boris Mironov, professor of history at St. Petersburg State University and senior researcher at the Institute of History of the Russian Academy of Sciences in St. Petersburg. Mironov's lecture was entitled "The Origins of Russian Authoritarianism: Family and Society." Vladimir Milovidov of the Institute of World Economy and International Relations spoke on economic reform and the future of Russia. The poet and writer David Shrayer-Petrov gave a lecture entitled "Viktor Shklovsky: The Armored Car of the Avant-Garde," while Andrei Punin, professor of architecture at the Russian Academy of Fine Arts and Director of the International Foundation for the Preservation of St. Petersburg, discussed the architecture of St. Petersburg from the time of Peter the Great to Pushkin. "The Underground Man: A Failed Duelist" was the subject of a talk by Irina Reyfman, associate professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures at Columbia University, while Marc Raeff, also from Columbia, where he is Bakhmeteff Professor Emeritus of Russian Studies, discussed the Russian emigration from 1919-1939.

Musically, the summer was rich. Cellist Dieuwke Davydov performed with pianist Diana Fanning, while the Russian School choir performed its end-of-summer concert. In addition, the Middlebury College Russian choir, a separate group composed of undergraduates from the regular academic year, gave performances throughout the summer. A popular event of the summer was Amateur Night, which featured Russian songs, dances and sketches by students at all levels of study. The School also sponsored "Performing Chekhov," a compilation of short plays adapted and directed by Gregori Ziskin, as well as a wide range of films and videos, including classics such as Crime and Punishment and new releases like Gorod Zero and Taxi Blues.

The SPANISH School

Students in the Spanish school had the opportunity to attend several lectures by prominent speakers. In late July, Mexican writer Laura Esquivel, the author of the critically acclaimed novel and film Like Water For Chocolate spoke about her book, her life, and the position of women in Mexican society. Esquivel so enjoyed her stay at Middlebury that she returned for a pleasure visit later in the session, said Spanish School Director Frank Casa, who has served both as chair of the department of Romance Languages at the University of Michigan and as Chief Reader for the College Board Advanced Placement Program in Spanish. In another lecture, the former Spanish ambassador to the United States, Julian Santamaria, analyzed Spain's recent elections, in which the old government lost its majority and was replaced by a new coalition government. Santamaria analyzed the election, looking at its possible effects on policies and the political scene as a whole. A talk by Luciano Garcia Lorenzo also dealt with change; Garcia Lorenzo discussed culture and democracy in Spain over the past 18 years and changes in the relationship between the government and the arts.

Cultural offerings abounded as well. In addition to a dramatic performance of a Spanish comedy, the School held informal folk music sing-alongs and a concert by the Spanish School Choir. In early August Francisco Alvarez Diaz, a young pianist from Madrid, performed selections by Spanish and American composers. Considered one of the most important pianists of his generation in Spain, Alvarez played in the Center for the Arts in a concert honoring Emilio Nunez, who taught music and led the choir at the Spanish School for more than 25 years. Nunez died in September 1992 after a long illness. During his summers at Middlebury, Nunez also served as musical director for the annual zarzuela, a popular comic operetta featuring students and faculty. The 1993 zarzuela honored Nunez as the man who began the tradition; this year's production was a repeat of the first zarzuela, held in 1975.

And a sense of bravura fills the classroom of noted Italian filmmaker Giuseppe De Santis

By Annika Hipple '95

"Il cinema e movemiento sopratutto. Cinema is movement above all." Giuseppe De Santis emphasizes his words with gestures as he enumerates the principles of cinematography. The students, whom De Santis affectionately addresses as "ragazzi,"sit cross-legged on the floor or perch on chairs around the sides of the studio. Behind De Santis, his assistant and cameraman, Professors Antonio Vitti and Michael Frierson, bend over the camera, making final adjustments before the next "take."

The above was a typical scenario this summer as De Santis, a neo-realist film director, returned to Middlebury's Italian School. De Santis, who is a professor of film direction at the Centro Sperimentale Cinematografia in Rome, spent his first summer at Middlebury in 1991, when he was the Italian School's artist-in-residence. The success of that first visit prompted the School to invite De Santis back, this time to teach a "Directing Practicum" on the art of filmmaking, offering students an unprecedented opportunity to work with an internationally acclaimed director.

Despite its informal atmosphere, De Santis' workshop was an intensive and demanding course. The workshop gave students a general knowledge of directing a film and identified problems involved in filmmaking. Vitti, associate professor of Italian at Wake Forest University, prepared the film students in theory, script-writing, and terminology, while Frierson, assistant professor of communication and theater at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, provided his experience as cameraman. De Santis said that he tried "to transmit to students some of my experiences" and encouraged students to examine the reality of Middlebury, as well as creating some short imaginative stories. "I wanted to transmit the love for reality, for the small things," De Santis said, because it is the small details that make a film realistic and interesting.

In his own films, De Santis generally deals with social issues such as the condition of the working class, particularly of women workers. Several of De Santis' films were shown to the entire Italian School over the course of the semester, including Riso Amaro (Bitter Rice), which was nominated for a Best Picture Oscar in 1949. Riso Amaro tells the story of "rice girls," women from all over Italy who flocked to the countryside for a few weeks to earn a bit of income planting and harvesting the rice fields. Introducing the screening, De Santis told the audience that the film was inspired in a train station in northern Italy when he was returning from World War II and watched the rice girls arriving in droves from that year's harvest. Among the other films by De Santis shown this summer was Italiani brava gente, an epic story about the Italian army in World War II, illuminating both the bravery and the despair of the soldiers.

"Directing Practicum" culminated in a series of short, student-directed films which were screened on August 7 before the whole Italian School. As Professor Davy Carozza put it, the workshop "brought students armed with telecameras into all aspects of the pulsating, family-style life of the Italian School." The student films captured both the vitality and the intensity of life at the School, while the cheers and laughter of the audience testified to the closeness that develops between students and faculty as a result of this intensity.

The screening opened with a humorous dialogue between two students, Nadia Accettulli and John Hill, regarding the confusing rules of filmmaking. Accetulli, of Park Ridge, Illinois, spent the fall of 1992 at the Middlebury School in Florence, while Hill, from Ellicott City, Maryland, was one of the two advanced undergraduates enrolled in the graduate-level workshop. The filming of this scene brought home to students the importance of the "small things" that De Santis repeatedly stressed. During the second day of filming, a minor crisis occured when Hill discovered that, despite his care to dress just as he had for the first part of the skit, he had forgotten his glasses, which he had been wearing during the previous day's scenes. The need to avoid such inconsistensies of detail sent Rachel Campbell '95 scurrying back to Hill's room to retrieve the glasses. Campbell, the other undergraduate in the workshop, is a Middlebury Theatre/Film-Video major from Bedford, Massachusetts, who is preparing for her junior year abroad in Florence. The other students included recent college graduates such as Amanda Frankel '93 from New York, New York, as well as older graduate students Eugenia Felicioni of Miami, Florida, who returned to Middlebury for her third summer of study.

Among the other short skits were "Amami Margherita, Amami Federico" ("Love Me, Margaret, Love Me, Frederick") and "Sfida Infernale a Middlebury College" ("Infernal Challenge at Middlebury College"). The first of these documented the love story of two students that began two summers ago, while the second involved a painful encounter between Joseph Poma of Bridgeton, New Jersey, and Max Creech of Bloomington, Indiana. Poma, who was spending his third consecutive summer at Middlebury, has a bandage wound around his head and crutches under his arms, while Creech, who earned his M.A. from Middlebury in 1988 and spent this summer working as the Italian School's bilingual secretary, hobbles along with his foot swathed in a bandage and his arm in a splint. The two approach each other along the sidewalk, neither willing to move out of the other's way. Creech knocks Poma to the ground, only to have Poma retaliate by jamming one of his crutches onto Creech's mummified foot. Leaving Creech writhing on the ground, the vindicated Poma proceeds on his way.

While these short scenes earned enthusiastic applause, by far the most popular films were those documenting the life of the Italian School as a whole. Students brought their cameras into the Italian School dining hall, capturing on film not only the students and faculty at mealtime, but also the cooks and dishwashers. The addition of dramatic classical music turned the whole sequence into a sort of frenzied dance. Real dancing was the focus of another film, made at one of the Italian School's parties. The audience cheered as they saw close-ups of themselves gyrating to the sounds of Italian pop music. Clips from Riso Amaro showing 1940s-style dancing were inserted amidst the modern moves and music, bringing howls of laughter. Other films included "Desert Storm al'italiana: Forza Italia!" which captured the excitement of the inter-school soccer tournament and the victories of the Italian School team, and "Che bei ricordi!" ("What Beautiful Memories!"), filmed at the Italian School picnic.

De Santis said that he found the Middlebury students and professors extremely patient and helpful. He appreciated the readiness of his faculty assistants to work long hours in the evening and was particularly gratified by the students' willingness to start at the bottom of the cinematographic ladder. So often, De Santis said, he has found that students simply want to start at the top, but his Middlebury students were extrememly flexible and willing to do little things such as carrying chairs and props.

"E meraviglioso studiare con il professor De Santis alla Scuola Italiana de Middlebury!" Nadia exclaims in the opening film of the August 7 screening. "It's marvelous to study with Professor De Santis at the Italian School of Middlebury!" Although the lines were written in fun by De Santis himself, no one really seemed to disagree. At the end of the screening, Vitti gathered the workshop participants together to share a bottle of champagne. As they toasted the completion of their project to the applause of the audience, their affection for one another and for De Santis was evident. And the films they created which so delighted the rest of the School will record this unique experience for future generations of Italian School students.

A Visually Handicapped Student Learns German—With a Little Help From a "Friend"

By Lloyd Burlingame

How does a "legally blind" student accomplish all the work demanded by a rigorous program in a difficult language? A difficult question to answer in general since there is such a wide range of possibilities and impossibilities in each given case of disability. My sister and I have the same condition, Stargarts Disease, which essentially makes it impossible to read and leaves only "far peripheral vision." Thus the world to us has the fuzzy, foggy dazzling quality of a Monet.

I am a teacher at New York University and the chairman of a department. I was for many years a designer in the theatre of scenery, costume and lighting. I have done over forty shows on Broadway as well as in regional theatres, opera, film and television. With failing vision I was forced to stop designing professionally fifteen years ago. I had to stop teaching painting and design ten years ago and easel painting three years ago. It is expected that the situation is now stabilized and that the small amount of far peripheral vision I have will remain. Much can be done with seemingly very little.

Why learn German? I plan a sabbatical in the fall of 1993 to do research in Vienna, Austria, on a central pioneering figure in stage design, Alfred Roller, who was active in the early decades of this century. It seems important to me to be able to have knowledge of the language of the host country in which one studies for practical, scholarly and "good neighborly" reasons. I must ask a lot of help from many people during the course of any given day. I cannot and do not wish to live in a grand hotel in which English is spoken. I want to live closer to the life led by typical Viennese.

I have now completed two sessions here. When I was in my first weeks in Middlebury last summer, a wonderful, serious, totally professional and compassionate teacher asked me, "Warum sind Sie immer so ernst?" ("Why are you always so serious?") I replied, in German of course, "I am not so sure I can finish Middlebury and if I cannot do that I am sure Vienna will not be possible." Well, I did finish Middlebury and here is how.

First, languages are mainly taught and learned through the eye. The challenge was to figure out how to hear everything that everyone else was reading—books, work sheets, on the chalk board and as class notes. I had all five of my text books recorded for me by the wonderful people at Recordings For the Blind. The Middlebury faculty, each and everyone superb, were most considerate and patient, spelling aloud all words necessary to me to know that they wrote on the chalkboard. I also tape on cassette vital sections of the class poems to memorize, difficult articles that require many rereadings, etc. However, I leave what is perhaps the most important to the end here.

I work now daily in my home and in my office as I did when I was at Middlebury, with a wonderful new machine that makes reading and writing possible for me. Named for its inventor Mr. Raymond Kurzweil, this "personal reading machine" is manufactured by Xerox and has essentially two units. One is a scanner which allows over five hundred different fonts to be read. I have English software and also, due to the characteristic supportiveness, generosity and faith of the Office of Students with Disabilities at New York University, German software as well.

The machine has a second component which I think of as the "brains" and the "mouth." There is an excellent Dectalk component with very clear articifical speech. One can slow down, speed up, go fast forward, backward, line by line, word for word, letter for letter and so forth. I am no technical genius, in fact I am close to a technical imbecile but I have learned a lot about my new best friends, the products of modern technology. If I can, I figure just about anyone can. The "brains" has the memory, artificial intelligence, etc.

That is about reading, what about writing? Both summers I generated a drawer about ten inches deep worth of printed homework, essays, tests and notes. I doubt it would have been possible to do this amount of work before this technology was made available. I have learned Braille, levels one and two.

My I.B.M. computer is basically a "talking word processor." I type and a voice says the word and punctuation as I write. I hear what most people see on the screen. I have special software that makes this possible, "Soft Vert" and "QWERTY." I usually create my documents on a disk.

There are very definite advantages to learning a language by ear. At Middlebury only the language being studied can be spoken for the seven- or nine-week period of study. In the classes the teachers speak what appears to me to be normal, relatively fast, German. As they said in the army, one must "listen up" and...lo and behold, as part of the Middlebury miracle each day one is a little better and the gaps in fast German sentences become fewer. I suspect that more can be done with ear training to advantage. At home I "read" an hour of German every morning during my morning routine and also in the evening. I have certainly gotten a great deal from my teachers and tutors at N.Y.U. and Middlebury.

Zum schluss ... to close. I find it very hard to imagine how I would have studied German in such depth in such rigorous programs without all the advantages enumerated above. Perhaps I should underline the miracle of Dr. Kurzweil's Reading Machine and the wonders of my talking word processor. I have found too, that both at New York University and Middlebury College, they have responded in kind to my seriousness of intent and somewhat dogged persistence.

I did get through Middlebury... Ich fahre naechtes Jahr nach Wien. I AM going to Vienna (with Kurzweil, I.B.M., R.F.B., Braulkler and Cassette recorder.)

Danke schoen.

To Russia—With Music

By Lisa Horwitz '93

"You're doing more for mutual understanding between Russians and Americans than all the diplomats put together."

I never thought a few yips and howls in the rehearsal room of the new arts center would eventually elevate me to the status of a diplomat. However that is exactly what we, the Middlebury College Russian Choir, became when we took our act on the road; the Gold Road, that is, around the cities that make up Moscow's Golden Ring. Everywhere we went we heard comments similar to the one quoted above by an audience member in Kostroma. Our audiences were not only old men and women from the villages, but also the young city slickers from Moscow and St. Petersburg, all flocking to hear the Americans sing their songs, songs practically forgotten among their own people.

Led by Associate Professor of Russian Kevin Moss, the Middlebury College Russian Choir has been in existence for 10 years, performing Russian liturgical and folk songs at Middlebury and other colleges in the Northeast. The choir raised money for the trip by giving concerts and selling tapes. This was the first tour of Russia in the history of the group, and Moss hopes to make it a tradition.

The 15 singers and two "roadies" who made the trip overseas were rather an eclectic bunch. Since the only requirements for membership in the choir are a willingness to show up for rehearsal twice a week and a love for loudness, no Russian background is necessary. The range of Russian language proficiency among the students ran from those with a plane ride's study of Russian At a Glance (such as the author) to those who had already studied abroad in a small Russian town for a year.

Perhaps the biggest surprise for the choir was the extent to which Western influence had infiltrated Russian culture. "I was amazed to see that the Russians, even in small towns like Vladimir, were beginning to sense the value of a dollar," said Mandy Blasko '93, who spent her junior year abroad in Vladimir only a year ago. Others lamented the loss of Russian traditions. "I'm still looking for Russia," said Philip Webb '95, "I can smell it, I just can't see it."

Yet, amidst the black marketeers hustling us for dollars (yes, dollars—the ruble wasn't worth much more than toilet paper), and the bus drivers haggling over bribe money, we managed to catch a glimpse of what we called, for lack of a better term, "the real Russia."

One of the most memorable moments for Moss occurred at a concert in the Manezh, the central exhibition center in Moscow. The center was displaying the relics of the family of Nicholas II, most of which hadn't been seen since the Communist Revolution. Dmitri Pokrovsky, who first began writing down Russian folk songs and performing them in concert, invited us to sing with his group. Moss had sung with Pokrovsky when he was living in Russia. After the formal concert, a few audience members asked us to sing on our own. One elderly man fell to his knees and begged us never to stop singing. "These songs have been part of the Russian tradition for thousands and thousands of years," he exclaimed. "They have been almost forgotten by her own people. I thank you humbly on my knees for reviving them. Please, don't let them be forgotten, ever."

The last concert of the tour was one of the most special. We performed in an active church in St. Petersburg in which the members preserved the tradition of standing throughout the service. We solemnly sang the old Russian liturgical music while some of the congregation actually wept. Blasko remembers one woman in particular who was crying, blowing kisses at us, and waving as we said good-bye. Krell felt that the concert had the deepest emotional impact for both the congregation and the choir because, "We finally were singing the music the way it was meant to be sung." The concert represented the culmination of Von Hessert's search for Russia. "Instead of black marketeers, I finally saw human beings who were able to show their Russian soul rather than hide it behind a facade which the rest of the world requires them to wear."

Some of our favorite concerts were the ones that were unplanned. We would spice up a visit to ABC (Another Bloody Church, as our Yaroslavl tour guide put it) by singing a few liturgical pieces for whomever was there. One of our most appreciated impromptu concerts occurred at the Moscow train station. The choir was in a rather festive mood after the farewell banquet from Moscow. In order to make the wait for the train to Kostroma more tolerable, we began to sing some of our loudest folk songs. After the crowd got over the initial shock, they actually began to join in on a few verses. They almost seemed disappointed when the train came. We tried the same thing at Kennedy Airport while waiting in the customs line. Although we were not as well received, the line suddenly did seem to move faster.

For many of us, meeting Russians our age left an indelible impression. Through their experiences we were able to imagine what life might be like for us and what impact the economic crisis would have upon our futures. Despite a few difficulties, all would agree that the trip was an unforgettable experience.

It wasn't the impressive architecture, the beautiful scenery or historical monuments that we'll remember most, but rather the giggles of the children, the weeping of the babushki, and the begging of the old man who heard our music. "I'm glad this was my last Middlebury experience," said Blasko. "It left me with a positive feeling about what I have done here for the last four years and about the people I have gotten to know in the choir and through our performances."

It's easy to tell you're in Vermont, after crossing the Massachusetts line. Almost immediately the hills more than double their size, as the Berkshires give way to the Green Mountains. The undulant giants continue the entire length of the state, in their various shades of sky-ordered greens and deeper greens.

The mountains were host this summer to a Bread Loaf School of English course not quite like any other. It was a course that took 11 individuals—teachers and writers—onto the Long Trail. The trail, described in the Green Mountain Hiking Club's guidebook as a "footpath in the wilderness," extends 265 miles from the Canadian border to the Massachusetts line.

For their trek, which covered approximately 80 miles of the trail, the Bread Loaf students carried with them the necessities of hiking and camping, and a good supply of books, tablets and pencils. In addition to living with and observing their natural environment, they were to write about what they saw and felt. They also were to read related literature: Joseph Bruchac's The Faithful Hunter; Annie Dillard's Teaching a Stone to Talk; Robert Frost's The Collected Poems; Charles Johnson's The Nature of Vermont; Clare Walker Leslie's The Art of Field Sketching; and Henry David Thoreau's Walden and The Maine Woods.

As they shared with one another thoughts, observations, writings, and the great adventure of wilderness survival, the hope was that a sense of educational community would be fostered which would provide a model for writing and learning out of doors—one that the students could take back to their own classrooms.

"The course exceeded my expectations," said John Elder, Middlebury College's professor of English and environmental studies, who conceived and led the course. "The quality of the writing and the intensity of the intellectual community were outstanding."

The course also provided a bit more adventure than anticipated, however, as at the very beginning of the journey they climbed White Face, the steepest climb to be found on the entire 265-mile trail. "Several people were really having doubts," said Elder. "We had some really tired hikers." When they camped that night at Sterling Pond, there was a terrific thunderstorm with lightning striking all around them. Most of the group found the storm exhilarating; a few were shaken. "It was a nervous time at the beginning, and I was wondering myself if it was all a mistake," admitted Elder.

Happily, the rest of the climbing was less intense and the course began to take shape. They hiked during the day in small groups with a "sweep" at the rear, stopping for one or two hours to write and study the plants and land forms. At night they shared their experiences and read from their journals. "The levels of writing became extremely energetic," said Elder. "The people were inspired by the progress of their own writing and had a strong interest in each other's work, as well. The discussions became charged and productive.

"The hike ended with two days and nights of intensive workshopping at Skyline Lodge. The final written projects from their journals were often excellent."

First I was etonee by the mere fact of my solitude on the trail. A false sense of solitude, of course, with David ahead, Karen behind. But I've never done this. I've never put a big pack on my back and hiked up mountains. Even one mountain. On the way up Whiteface I had questions. Was I on the trail? Would I get too separated from the others? Which mountain was this? —NG

Shelter—Carrying it on your back seems to be Thoreau's ideal, but he is missing a whole and essential dimension of human life: a sense of place. of belonging somewhere. Roots, family, traditions, home. I suppose native people feel at home wherever on the earth they find themselves. Loyalty to their people makes space and opportunity for a sense of belonging, for traditions. Perhaps they are better off.

I didn't bring my camera on this trip, to force myself to draw more, to force myself to linger longer, to remember more clearly the places I pass through, the details I notice as I go. Annie (Dillard) writes, "I would like to live as I should, as the weasel lives as he should." And I suspect that for me the way is like the weasel's, open to time and death painlessly, noticing everything, remembering nothing, choosing the given with a fierce and pointed will (Teaching a Stone to Talk). Sometimes I feel like I notice things intensely in a moment, forget them in the next. I read that way, underline voraciously, leave a trail of breadcrumbs in ink, mark my path with blue black blazes in the most beautiful or striking parts so that I can return to the emerald moss-covered stone, the waterfall pool at Duck's Brook, a particular tree. But I usually forget about the beautiful tree, rock, pool, and depend on broad strokes of my pen, dark underlines, to lead me back. Often I can't remember why I underlined what I did; so lately I've begun writing little notes to myself. When I return to those notes, I feel stupid, for usually on second reading, my judgement has improved, I am days or years older, perhaps wiser and the questions seem ludicrous, the criticisms trite. So I try not underlining at all for a time but then I am lost. I look back over hundreds of pages and there is no evidence I've been there. Like the astronauts on the moon I want to stake that flag into foreign soil and make my claim. The claim shifts like all matter each time I return. Like the great sand dunes in Colorado, they remain trapped, at the base, yet with each gust of wind their contour changes slightly, grains of sand roll downhill, masses shift upward against the mountains, like a child on mother's lap.—N.G.

A big furry fly just landed on me. How many legs do they have? How are they different from angels? I love it when they rub their front legs together like the witch about to eat Hansel. I want to draw their wings. How will I make one stay still? They're probably all different. I'm going to draw flies. Who'da thought? —N.G.

I got lost yesterday. Actually, I've been lost for quite some time. When you decided at age 53 to take a course involving a hundred mile hike through the Green Mountains, you know, though not quite consciously, that you're casting your soul into deep waters. Before I even got to Middlebury College's Bread Loaf campus to begin the course, the hike—"the trail," I was having dreams of living on the lam. I bought a new pair of boots, the most expensive footwear I've ever owned, and waterproofed them three times. I packed and unpacked my pack and waterproofed my tent fly.—R.A.

This is the second day of sun and warmth in a row. At least it has put people in better spirits, if not better writing modes. This is an interesting problem with a course like this—how do you keep focused with so many variables, so much to focus on. It's ironic that we come out here to the wilderness to simplify our lives and they just seem to get more complex, only on a more elemental level. It takes practice, experience and concentration to become efficient at working outdoors in the wilderness,

—J.W.

A lone—Walking alone along the ridge this morning made me think about all the Disney characters I used to wish to be. Snow White, Cinderella. Fairy tale characters. My walking stick reminds me of Heidi and her grandfather. Try to remember all the important relations in those tales, fairy godmothers, wicked stepsisters, old fathers who weren't too bright. A mushroom made me feel like Alice. I've passed by a lot of caterpillars with hookah pipes who made me feel both too small and larger than a house. The dead, wind-whipped trees make me feel like Red Riding Hood; their scratchy grey fur branches and long teeth remind me of the wolf. The shining trees are wolves in grandmother's clothing. I pick up a stick, which is at once a slingshot and a wishbone. Slingshot, wishbone. A wish, a weapon. Broken, the slingshot is powerless. Broken properly, the bone makes your wish come true. —N.G.

I am fascinated by the seemingly infinite variety of ferns and I am pleased that they no longer all look the same to me. When I look at a large patch of hayscented fern, it is impossible for me to focus my eyes; that plus the sweet smell is a heady combination. —Z.P.

Talked with John about walking yesterday. He mentioned that Thoreau, in his essay on walking, argues that the true walker is a "saunterer," and traces the word, in what may be a bogus etymology, to the roots Sant Terr, i.e., holy land. John said that for him, the side-to-side motion of walking is very important. Somehow it reflects the way the mind works between opposites, one idea setting off another, so that the alternation leads to a meditative rhythm. In talking with him the idea of water seemed to be important in walking, too, especially in finding the easiest way down a hill. And of course, breathing.—R.A.

I am trying to learn to respect mountains. A "flatlander" as my brother John calls me, I do not come by such respect naturally. It may be in me, but I have to rediscover it. Part way over the top, before the rain began to really pelt us, I squooshed down beside one of those thickets of little dwarf spruces, half guarded dead wood and half tough, green, lopsided little country church spires barely moving in the buffets of wind. The trees hissed without fury, routinely gauging the wind's assaults and singing them. Those trees are the natives up there. They sing all types by winds, all weathers. They were singing twenty years ago when I went up, but I've only begun to listen. If you respect the mountain, she will open her hands to you.—R.A.

—R.A.

Beavers-We hiked past beaver ponds today. It occurred to me that these creatures are the animal version of developers, but they work the other way; instead of building on wetlands with fill, they build on dry lands by flooding. Rather than cutting trees, they surround them, water log them, so they die a slow death, a more dignified one, perhaps. Today the trees stood like masts, black and still in the mist over the pond. The beavers built the dam we walked over. Their lodge on the pond by yesterday's bathing stream was a perfect representative prototype Beaver Lodge.

A dragonfly's wing is hard to hold, hard to see, hard to draw. Fragile yet strong enough to make the insect airborne, the wing between my fingers is one of four, illustrated perfectly by one large blue-tailed whole dragonfly who landed just behind my left shoulder as I held a wing and sketched on the opposite page.—N.G.

Here in stillness beyond compare. Mute ripples. Slabs of pods, trees mirrored upside down. Four years ago when Sara and I were here, the pond was smaller, but a beaver lodge across the pond explains how it has grown. Islands of grass too. I have felt cold and constrictive the last few days, as if only getting warm and comfortable mattered anymore. I would like to get lost in more things. Especially rocks with their metamorphically bent and rippled sedimentary waves with now and then an igneous white. Not white at all really, but with white highlights. Walking this a.m; I'd been puzzling about how to draw pine needles, dirt and small woodchips. Amazing how much red there is in pine needles and rotting wood and dried leaves! I can see where Van Gogh and Gauguin got their colors.—R.A.

John noted a while back that he tends to think his way past this zone of transition and enter the next activity or season, circumnavigating these tricky waters. This is natural, and perhaps an intersecting point to look more closely at. Why do we tend to falter here, splash our way through transitional waters and never look back? I suppose it's partly out of necessity and partly out of convenience. And yet, it's these very waters that can be, and have been, the most fertile zones of production. We talked about it on the trail today—the way new things come out of these zones where two ecotones or systems intersect. The subject was alternatives to traditional western medicine, but I kept thinking of our zone of transition as both individuals and members of this collective community that has developed from life on the trail in nature back to the society at Bread Loaf and beyond. This is really a series of transitions framed one inside the other. There is the individual, the group, nature, Bread Loaf, the outside world, our own individual communities and finally our collective community, as well as perhaps our global community. With all this to navigate, it's not hard to see why we sometimes jam the engines, take a bearing and keep the mark, never once glancing around or backwards, just hoping to sail into the next leg of our journey around the sun with the seasons.—J.W.

Alone—I love to be alone. Looking down the yellow throat of the whorled mountain astor in magnifying glass, or finding myself at the end of Sterling Pond at dusk with a beaver arrow heading in at the joint of a vee to check out the intruder, or picking up the twit! Twit! twit! of that little slate gray backed bird with white breast, or just working muscles, breaking a sweat, taking a lope or risky step up Mansfield—in all these I feel my soul sing, glad to be alive. Perhaps the essence of being alone is discovering you're never alone, that if you seek openly to know your life—a place, its denizens, or the body you're given stewardship over—if you live openly, you discover you're part of a vast company of miracles going on incessantly all around you.—R.A.

Despite ... differences, though, we have daily enacted a basic rhythm of walking, eating and sleeping in a band that links us with the native people of these mountains. The Abenaki may not have chosen to spend their noon hour in pursuit of worldly views, but at morning and evening they would have followed many of the same paths as we do to water and, having found it, would then have searched for level ground to pitch their tents, dry branches to kindle fires. These tiny springs, with the asters and lilies blooming and berrying around them, have blessed and been blessed by many centuries of humankind.

I've been digesting two of Ralph's comments about the Abenaki perspective. One was his remark that, as in the Azaban tales, they look at the life of the woods with a freshness, an innocence, even a silliness difficult for many non-Indians to register or appreciate. Dave's comparison of the tale he read to a Bugs Bunny cartoon captured the antic quality of the Abenakis' masked trickster. The second point was that, unlike certain white hermits, pilgrims and adventurers, the People of the Dawn would almost never have chosen to live alone. Rather, they would usually have travelled through the mountains in groups of 20 to 30.

In both of these respects, our "Stories on the Trail" experience has actually been much closer to native traditions than my own usual outings into the wilds. Generally I've either been alone or have hiked in company with one or two friends or family members. One of the central facts of this present expedition, however, has been its social dimension. Both while walking and in camp we have continually told each other stories and clowned around. In this way, as in our sharing the labor of cooking, washing, breaking camp and carrying common necessities, we have rendered mutual support against the various weathers—physical and emotional—sweeping across our party, and in retelling classic movies, crooning and panning the Golden Oldies ("You know you make me want to ...Shout!") and recommending favorite books, we're keeping in circulation the tales that make us laugh at the end of a long day and knit our present diversity into a shareable past.

Such a sense of social connection with the Abenaki also bears on our recent discussion of Thoreau and on Pegeen's proposal that his Celebration of Solitude may actually be a cultural construct not shared by many peoples, as well as a gendered value related to certain Western male models of the Quest. I need to think further about those ideas while re-reading Walden, but I feel there's a confirmation of them in Thoreau's own eagerness to learn more of Indian language, woodsmanship and daily life in The Maine Woods. He wanted to catch a glimpse of natural knowledge that surpassed his own individual experiments and transcendental impulses. He hungered for the accumulated and inclusive wisdom of the tribe. Tromping along and bivouacking in our group of 11 has often been a noisy experience, and sometimes a confusing one. But it's also offered a chance to learn from each other's insights and share our own. I wouldn't always want to hike in a community this large, although I'm grateful for the connections it's offered with our Abenaki ancestors and neighbors.—J.E.

I am sitting on moss ... this time I'm on the kitchen rock from last time overlooking the pond. Zoe, Jeff, and David had dinner waiting for Karen and me when we got in. I am so excited about yesterday's hike. We went along a ridge for a while, up Whiteface Mountain, which I thought was difficult, but I kept moving. Karen behind and David ahead, we wandered along at first admiring mushrooms and berries.

One image I want to remember is the birch bark peeling from the trunks of trees like tattered flags from an empire of sun orange, yellow tones inside, but cool colors, not harsh.

David's rainfly serves as a spinnaker (gold and blue) for my ship rock moss. I think that's Lion Couchant up there with cloud mist creeping up its back.

On one tree, the bark was peeling away more like a woman slipping out of silk. Another looks as if it had been stabbed, split open in a violent act, but still standing. Still standing. We are all still standing.—N.G.

The end—Everything seems foreign. Minutes ago, I was a woman without personal possessions of any great monetary value. Now, after a celebratory leap into Johnson Pond which came upon us suddenly, the last miles of the hike sped by amid songs and jests. Marshall played an old marching song from Ireland and "You are my sunshine" as we walked. Karen and I sang "Laurie Anderson" and "Billy Joel." In a large cardboard box I found my camera, wallet and car keys. My own picture on my driver's license startled me.

Looking up at the mountains surrounding Bread Loaf mountain, I realize I have never understood any place I've lived. I haven't slept on the land, chopped wood, carried water, watched and listened to the birds, wind in the trees, insects, fungus. I don't understand much of what I see in the natural world. I don't own a field guide. But a Rusella mushroom is in my vocabulary now. The bird books are on my list of things to look at when I go home. Abenaki traditions are in my train of consciousness. I'll know a lot more in years to come. Mountain aster, agrimony, chicory—N.G.

Here we are, less than 48 hours before we enter the turbulent transitional waters of Johnson Pond and beyond. Surely it will be a refreshing leap, as well as the beginning of another deep cleansing cycle.

How does this pond, this group, this individual, experience of the individual, this writing, transfer and relate to that pond, that group, and that individual's collective experience? This is what I am interested in mostly. Or do they translate at all? Once again the zone of transition, the cultural external environment of our mind, seem so important. Will we, after spending two weeks propping our eyes open with toothpicks to permeate our minds with what is all around us, go back to what is familiar and return to our own narrow vision. Again the loon's laugh echoes in my mind, for it has gone; gone in search of summer skies no doubt. It is hard to maintain levels of intensity and we are often lulled into a sense of security by the familiar. We must be fierce like the dragonfly and water lily, accept the inevitability of change in the wind, and maximize on these transitional zones if we want the fruits of this season's growth to proceed to the next.—J.W.

The course was designed as a prototype, since the Orion Society, in cooperation with the Geraldine A. Dodge Foundation, is providing stipends to every student in the course who wants to carry out some project related to environmental writing or experiential education in the coming year. One aspect of the Orion grants will be a conference in the summer of 1994 where all students who received stipends will gather together for a conference to discuss their experiences in the courses they have been leading. A side benefit of this conference, said Elder, "will be the chance for a reunion for the people who formed a community in the mountains.

The 11 climbed 20 mountains, at least one every day. "At the end our community found it hard to split up," said Elder. "It was a strange, wonderful course."

A FEW WORDS FROM THE MCAA PRESIDENT

Middlebury alumni are as busy as ever... It seems that more events take place each year around the world where we get together to learn or just catch up. President McCardell has been on the road and in the skies, travelling to dozens of cities in the past six months. Professors who are visiting other cities also are getting together with alumni to discuss current topics. Alumni helped steer potential students to the College through recruitment and interviewing, and more and more people are using the career services provided through MiddNet. All of this goes to show that Middlebury's Alumni Association is strong and vibrant. A warm thanks goes out to all the volunteers who helped make these events and activities successful.

This year has been one in which the MCAA has focused on fulfilling the role of alumni as outlined in the last issue of Midd Update. The reach of the College is spreading west, and I am proud to announce that in May, San Francisco was formally elected as a regional chapter. It joins the ranks of Boston, Hartford, Burlington, Midd Vermont, Tri-State, Washington, D.C., and Denver. We wish the new chapter well and hope that the continuing enthusiasm it has demonstrated will become contagious.

Several chapters have reached out to their communities through community service projects. Washington folks were involved with Christmas in April for the second year, and Burlington was involved with Habitat for Humanity. Both chapters have found that these activities involve a diverse group of alumni and provide them with another way of drawing friends together. Several other chapters are developing projects for their areas.

During the past year the MCAA board of directors worked closely with Career Counseling and Placement on communicating what services are available to alumni. This resulted in the mailing of information regarding the "job hotline" and career services as well as the names of MiddNet representatives across the country. If you are interested in becoming a MiddNet representative, please contact the CC&P office.

To further support interaction between students and alumni, the directors of the MCAA committed to joining one of the five Commons. We hope to spread the word that there is life after Middlebury and act as advisors to students.

We intend to spend the coming year refocusing on regional activities. The most important issues that face the MCAA are ensuring we are meeting the needs of alumni and that we continue to involve more alumni in activities. One of Middlebury's strengths is that its past students continue to stay involved with the College long after they have left the campus. There are many ways in which you can become involved again, from interviewing prospective students, to planning local events, to phonathons. If you would like to become involved please call the Alumni Office at 802/388-3711, ext/ 5202.

CLASS AGENTS HONORED AT ALUMNI LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

At the annual Alumni Leadership Conference held in September, class agents in five classes were honored for their superb work for the College. Class agents in the Class of 1951 were presented with the Walter E. Brooker '37 Award for the non-reunion class with largest class gift. Head class agent Anthony R. Romano led the effort to raise over $25,000 in Annual Fund gifts and over $1 million in deferred and capital gifts from his class. Class of 1932 agents Elizabeth Brown Hearne and Josephine Saunders Taggart accepted the Robert A. Leonard '37 Memorial Award for attaining the highest percentage of living class members giving to Middlebury. Almost 80 percent of the Class of 1932 made a gift to Middlebury last year.

In addition, agents in two classes graduating in the last decade were awarded prizes. The Class of 1986, with 48.2 percent of the class giving to Middlebury, received the National Alumni Chairman for Annual Funds Award for the highest rate of participation of any class of the last decade. Christopher L. Peters, head class agent, accepted the award for his class. The Alumni Association Award went to the class of 1989 for the non-reunion class graduated in the past decade with the largest class gift. The class contributed $27,648 to Middlebury, led by the efforts of head class agent Cathryn A. Schiller.

Susan Schweickert Macy '67 was awarded the Class Agent Award for her outstanding work as head class agent. Sue was presented with a plaque, donated by Sidney G. Kay '50, in recognition of her significant contribution of time, energy and leadership in securing support for the College from her classmates. Sue maintained the high level of participation and enthusiasm in her class this past year, following their substantial 25th reunion contribution in 1991-1992.

PHONATHON UPDATE

As we move through the '90s, the telephone continues to be a very effective means of communicating with our alumni and increasing participation in the Annual Fund. Two hundred student and alumni callers received pledges from 2,310 alumni, totalling $128,000 this past fiscal year. Phonathons accounted for 25 percent of the total alumni participation in the 1992-93 Annual Fund.

Looking forward to the 1993-94 year, the Annual Giving Office will receive extra support from one of our most successful student callers. Kelly Strade '94 will join the Annual Giving staff as a student assistant, working primarily on student phonathons and the senior class gift program. Kelly will lead the first round of student phonathons which will begin in October. Please take the opportunity to talk with the callers about student life or any issues concerning Middlebury.

AFTER THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS AND SIX HUNDRED GAMES, A TRUSTED TRAINER RETIRES

Athletic trainer Dick Waterman hasn't missed a single varsity football game or freshman or JV home football game since he arrived at Middlebury on September 1, 1956.

For Waterman, who retired in June, those were years of 60 or even 70 hour weeks—years he wouldn't trade. "Long ago," he said, "Duke Nelson told me that athletics is the greatest fraternity in the world. It's true. There's really nothing like competitive athletics. It's very rewarding. And, the kids never forget to say thank you. After the football, hockey, lacrosse or basketball season, there'd be a steady stream of players coming in just to say 'Thanks for the things you did for the team this year.' That's really what it's all about."

In the early years, Middlebury's training department was Waterman, working alone in a 9-by-10 room with two tables, a small whirlpool and a heat lamp. Today the trainers and physical therapists inhabit 2,700 square feet, packed with high-tech equipment, from electrical muscle stimulators to ultrasound machines.

Over the years Waterman has watched his field become a profession. A longtime member of the National Athletic Trainers Associations, he helped found, in 1982, the Vermont Association of Athletic Trainers. Waterman and his staff have also expanded their role at the College, and work not only with the members of JV and varsity teams, but with any student with an athletic-related injury.

Waterman will be back this fall, working parttime with the football team. He's not sure what retirement will bring after that, but says he and his wife may head south for part of each winter. He likes to fish, and said, "I don't really have any other hobbies. I haven't had any time to develop any, becaause I've spent most of my time in this building."

In honor of Dick Waterman, "The Waterman Weekend" was held June 18 and 19 at Bread Loaf, with 170 in attendance. Director of Athletics Tom Lawson presented Waterman with a Middlebury Clock and the Middlebury football team made arrangements for Dick and his brother-in-law to go on a fishing trip to Montana, and he was presented with a purse by Development Officer Gordie Perine '49.

In an unanimous vote by the College Board of Trustees, the training room has been named "The Dick Waterman Training Room" in his honor.

One hundred sixty-eight alums and friends attended the Saturday night banquet at the Dick Waterman weekend. Will Graham '76 was one of the speakers. Here are some excerpts from his talk:

"Dick has been taking care of everyone else's body parts over the years and it is great to be here talking with him while all of his body parts seem to be working okay.

"I want to thank Middlebury for bringing us together to honor Dick and do it right. It is an important occasion and I appreciate being included. This is a weekend of stories. I hope everyone gets the chance to remember a few and get them out before we leave. By unlocking those stories we measure the true distance we have travelled together through Dick's 37 years of service to Middlebury.

"Dick's in the pain business. When pain can't be prevented, his medical knowledge, his humor, his temperament, the snap of his lighter, his high shrill voice are the tools of the craft skillfully combined to help us from giving into the urge to blame opponents, coaches, or others, and face the pain of set backs and take responsibility for healing over the long haul.

"Measuring wins each season can be like measuring short term gains and losses, and looking at your feet. It is one thing to have a good practice or a good game. Dick's career is measured in countless practices, games and seasons, a standard for long term investment, a strong finish, a job well done, time spent but not wasted. There were Training Room hours filled with people like Duke, Stub, Dr. Parton and hundreds of athletes. It is a record of stories told and retold, full days, full of life, full of lives. It is a daily record of effort, a job of overtime, not quitting, not taking the easy way, and late nights away from home, It is a record of caring, and teaching us that we can carry our own load, and life should not go our way just because we went to Middlebury College. Dick has shown us through example the difference between making a living and making a way of life. When one measures commitment, selflessness, care for others, and service, Dick's record will not be broken. He is truly in a league of his own."

ALUMNI IN THE VISUAL ARTS SHARE TALENTS WITH MUSEUM

Twice this year Middlebury College has been honored by the participation in the life of the College Museum of Art by alumni noted in the visual arts field. From May to July (which included Reunion weekend), fourteen works in bronze, steel, aluminum and wood by sculptor J. Pindyck Miller '60 were exhibited—and—running through October 17, the museum will host The Artist as Native: Reinventing Regionalism, an exhibition of 52 works, which has been curated by Alan Gussow '52.

The Artist as Native: Reinventing Regionalism is an extraordinary and far-reaching survey of contemporary painting that looks and responds to the land in a manner quite different from the regionalism school of the 1930s. In assembling the show, Gussow met with artists from all over the country whose works were involved with the landscape. These artists were not interested in promoting their geographical locations but instead, saw themselves as part of the ecosystems they inhabit.

This new regionalism, said Gussow, "is informed by rage against environmental destruction." The artists use their work as a "weapon against the degradation of the landscape."

More than 20 years ago, Gussow, a painter and a sculptor, organized an exhibition, A Sense of Place, which created a long lasting awareness of artists, sites and affinities. The Artist as Native: Reinventing Regionalism was inspired by the desire to explore how the impact of A Sense of Place had matured or withered through two decades.

Miller's show was the fifth in a series of alumni exhibitions here. His highly refined and elegant three dimensional works express a distinctive and personal vocabulary. One of his works, Red Cloud—a painted relief of disparate materials with the name of an actual place—has been given to the museum's Permanent Collection by his wife, Lynn Ewing Miller '60.

J. Pyndyck Miller '60 after his Reunion talk in the Museum of Art, where his work was exhibited.

Miller is currently museum preparator at the Frances Lehman Loeb Art Center at Vassar College. His work has been exhibited widely in New York, and in Westchester and Fairfield counties.

Museum Director Richard Saunders would like to hear from more alumni who are active in any branch of the visual arts—artists, art historians, critics, teachers, museum professionals. Resumes and representative slides (where appropriate) are kept on file and help to determine future exhibit plans. You can get in touch with Richard Saunders through the Middlebury College Museum of Art.

FOR JEAN SEELER '60 PLANNING SMART MEANS DOING GOOD

To Middlebury classmates, friends and acquaintances, Jean Seeler '60 is known for her perceptive and quick mind. And now, with a little help from the planned giving people at Middlebury, being smart will be paying Jean some big dividends.

After an outstanding career with IBM in Westchester County, Jean decided to retire and was planning a move from New York to Florida. She wanted to sharpen her tennis game and continue her vigorous life style in a new part of the country.

At first she thought she would sell her home in Armonk, N.Y., reinvest the proceeds in a new home in Florida, and acquire some dependable investments to provide necessary income. Jean was, in short, contemplating the traditional home "buy-down," so called when a person sells a home and buys a less expensive one.

She quickly recognized that she would have to confront a serious capital gains problem. Either she would be forced to purchase a Florida home worth over a million dollars —which she did not want or need - and forgo the income investments, or she would lose well over a quarter of a million dollars to taxes.

Consulting with Midd's Planned Giving Department, Jean found a fine solution to her "problem," one that would provide her with a lifetime income with a hedge against inflation, avoid over a quarter million dollars in gains tax, and create a charitable contribution deduction saving her more than $60,000 in income taxes.

Here's how: In July, '93, she transferred 75% of her home to Middlebury College to fund a unitrust that will pay her 7% for life. Through the unitrust, Jean not only will be paid an annual and increasing amount, but her contribution deduction will offset much of the tax due on this income for the next few years. She will also avoid the capital gains tax.

Jean can then use the one-time capital gains exclusion for people 55 years and older and avoid tax on the 25% she had remaining from the sale of her home. She can offset the remaining capital gains by purchasing the house she really wants in Florida when she moves south this fall.

Not only does Jean receive sizeable benefits from the deal, other members of her family are protected within the trust arrangement.

And, Jean's favorite charity — Middlebury College — will ultimately receive the proceeds from her trust to support its theatre program.

Jean did well by doing good.

CC&P—ON THE JOB FOR YOU

The Career Counseling and Placement Office will be hosting Career Night programs in both New York City and Boston on the evening of Thursday, October 21, 1993. The agenda for these informational programs will include a panel presentation by alumni discussing a variety of professions of common interest to Middlebury graduates, followed by an informal networking reception. Current students and young alumni from the classes of 1990-1993 are especially encouraged to attend. Complete details are available from CC&P.

With the introduction of its 24-hour JOBS Hotline this past spring, CC&P has made it even easier for job seekers to stay abreast of opportunities listed through the College. Directions for accessing the weekly recording are as follows: 1) dial the College number, 802/388-3711; 2) at the prompt, request extension JOBS (ext. 5627) and you will be connected with the phone mail system; 3) when you hear the phone mail instructions, immediately re-enter JOBS and then punch pound (#); and 4) listen to the recorded jobs summary.

The JOBS Hotline has greatly enhanced CC&P's ability to quickly announce openings to graduating students and alumni in transition and, as such, has proven helpful to employers needing a fast turn around to generate qualified applicants. If you know of a position opening in your organization, please be sure to share the information with CC&P, telephone: 802/388/3711, ext. 5100, or fax 802/388-6207.

At press time, results of the Class of '92 One Year After Graduation Survey were being compiled. CC&P wishes to thank all the members of the Class of '92 who have responded to date and remind those who have yet to return the survey that their completed information is vital to helping the College develop an accurate picture of our graduates' experiences. Copies of the survey are still available by contacting CC&P.

RECORD of GIVING

1992 • 1993

Message from President McCardell

On behalf of the trustees, faculty, staff and students of Middlebury College, I would like to express my gratitude to the more than 13,000 individuals and organizations who have contributed to the exceptional success of this year's Annual Fund and to other endowment and capital projects.

Through your generous gifts, you have provided Middlebury the resources to continue the tradition of providing a quality education despite challenging economic times. Your contributions to the Annual Fund support today's funding for faculty, students and programs. This would not be possible without your continued support.

Each year, I am impressed by the increasing number of volunteers and their extensive efforts to support Middlebury's Annual Fund. I applaud the efforts of the Annual Fund Executive Council, class agents, reunion gift committee and parents committee members for their remarkable leadership in helping us achieve our goals and promote Middlebury.

Last year, the College Community completed a comprehensive long range planning process that articulated our priorities. We have before us the challenging opportunity and responsibility to transform these ideals into reality. I am confident that as we strive toward attaining these goals, we will preserve our valued educational traditions and community spirit so vital to the Middlebury experience.

Your philanthropy and volunteerism are critical. As we approach a new century and the College's bicentennial in the year 2000, let us not forget the importance of offering exceptional educational opportunities to outstanding students in preparation for meeting the challenges of tomorrow. With deep appreciation for your generous commitment to Middlebury, we thank you.

I would like to thank you for your generous support of your alma mater. During the past year, more than 9,400 undergraduate and 1,300 graduate alumni have contributed to the Annual Fund and other special projects. Middlebury's Alumni Association can take great pride in knowing that the total gifts donated by alumni increased significantly by 28.8% and the rate of participation increased by 1.3% over last year.

Your thoughtful financial and volunteer assistance demonstrates your commitment to preserving the Middlebury experience. Through your exemplary support, today's students continue to have access to an exceptionally qualified faculty, a diverse range of excellent programs and a culturally enriching environment.

On behalf of the Alumni Association, I thank you for your continued support that allows Middlebury to offer such an exceptional educational experience.

The Class of 1993 joined the ranks of Middlebury alumni on May 23, 1993. Announced at their graduation was the Senior Class Gift of $4,585 which will fund a small park in honor of a deceased classmate, Matthew M. Slautterback, and other designated projects. Sixty percent of the class contributed to the effort. Class Solicitors are noted (!) in the list of contributors.

We are saddened to report the death of Margaret Brown Houston on March 18, 1993. Peg spent two years in a nursing home where her husband, Brad, had been able to spend time with her each day. Brad now lives close to son Dave in Madison, Conn. Peg's three sons paid tribute to their mother at a memorial service at the North Madison Congregational Church. We share a few excerpts: "Mom expected of us, her sons, that we be good solid citizens and that we do our best at whatever we set out to do. She liked young people—her students, the neighborhood children and her grandkids could always count on her for a ready ear. She kept up with the times.... I remember the 1938 hurricane. Dad was in Concord and couldn't get home because the bridge was unsafe. A big elm hung over our house and the branches were flailing and crashing onto our roof. In that storm Mom was like a safe port, calm, reassuring. She told me much later how worried sick she was about Dad, but it never showed as she held Dick and me and told us it would be okay. 'Don't panic, stay calm, things usually are not as bad as they seem,' was the lesson learned that day.... Those of you who knew Mom well know that she had a crippled hand. I was outside with Dad as he worked on a circular saw rig. When Mom came out to call us to supper she tripped and fell on the blade and nearly cut off her hand. Dad ripped off my overall strap, tightened it around Mom's arm and raced to the Concord Hospital and saved her life. It was a long time before I could put that memory away. How she handled this was a lesson in courage to us. She never once complained about her disability, but accepted it, as she did all tough times, with amazing grace. Many of her students never even realized she had a problem. The grandkids, one by one, discovered it. Once, when one of them tried to pry open the frozen fingers, Mom exclaimed delightedly, 'Oh, you've found my secret, and now it's our secret—just yours and mine.'... Mom used to take us on long walks, exploring the woods, fields and swamps. She delighted in anything new we found or could show her. We learned to read books, journals, papers and to talk to experts.... She never took herself too seriously and loved a funny tale. She was so much fun to be with and always listened." Those of us who knew Peg in college days can remember her as the "pretty one with those charming dimples, with smiles and laughter, but also the dependable one to share problems with or just have fun with. Accomplished, clever, an excellent student, achieving Phi Beta Kappa, and a staunch friend, she will be missed. ...Helen Cleveland Elder says she doesn't feel any different since reaching the 90 mark, except for slowing down. "I doubt if any of us are as speedy as we used to be! Have seen squirrels in the woods out of my windows as I write and a bird that didn't stop long enough to be identified. We had two real snowstorms this year, the like of which I hadn't seen in many a year. When the ground settles I hope to be able to start walking."...Helen LaForce Lewis Henshaw writes, "The days are too short, as at 92 years I slowly ramble through joyful days of family overnight visits for birthdays and holidays with my big Maryland family, for trips, bridge, TV, radio, church, reading—but much sadness too as many old friends die. A third great-grandchild, Jennifer Lyon Meeker, was born in September in nearby Maryland. My best to all Middleburians, including Ron Brown '62!" ...Arthur N. Ferry reports: "At almost 91 I get around quite lively and still drive my car. My friend, Connie, and I attend the activities of our retirement village here and go downtown quite often to meals. My brother and son often visit, which livens up my life. Best wishes to the other survivors of my class." ...Your secretary, Amy Hunt Meek, joined the ranks of the 90-year-olds in May. She still walks on the golf course when her daughter is playing, but less actively this year than last, and still drives her car in town, although not on the main highways. She celebrated her birthday in Lexington, Mass., with a family dinner at her son's home. The next day, a Sunday, she attended the service in the Hancock Church where her son is senior minister. The usual coffee hour following the church service turned out to be a surprise birthday party carefully planned by Amy's daughter and daughter-in-law, with many friends from the Boston area as well as a few from Vermont and New Hampshire. Amy's daughter had also contacted friends from over the years and all across the country for a card shower. Some friends evidently contacted others so that over 130 cards arrived over the week, plus a few gifts of flowers and plants. It was quite a celebration!

HIGH NOTES

Jane Rupp Cooke '52 was named to the 1993 U.S. Alpine Masters Ski Team as a result of her performance at the U.S. Alpine Masters Championships at Mammoth Mt., Calif., in March 1992. There she received medals in all three events: downhill, slalom and giant slalom, in Women's Class 8, which gave her the overall combined first place. This year in March, at the Masters' National Championships at Jackson Hole, Wyo., Jane did it again! She won the Women's Class 8 Downhill and Combined events. Jane says that "it was a very close and exciting series," as she won by less than two FIS points over Betty Strong Kent '53. Congratulations to you both!

Dr. William Admirand '55 received the 1993 Distinguished Physician Award, the highest honor bestowed by the Nevada State Medical Association. Dr. Admirand has been in the practice of gastroenterology in Reno for 17 years.

On January 1, 1993, Charles MacCormack '63 became president and CEO of Save the Children, a leading domestic and international child assistance organization based in Westport, Conn. A board member of that organization since 1977, he also served as VP for programs from 1974 to 1977. He has most recently been serving as president and CEO of World Learning (formerly The Experiment in International Living).

Charles Bennett '65 recently received an award for Corporate Environmental Programs from the National Water Alliance. He was also recognized as an environmental manager by the National Association for Environmental Management. Formerly with Coors in Colorado, Charles is now senior director of environmental affairs with Nabisco Foods Group in Parsippany, N.J.

John Martin '67, president and CEO of Taco Bell, won the prestigious Silver Plate Award from the International Foodservice Manufacturers Association last March.

Andrew Wentzel '73 is singing in Carmen and The Marriage of Figaro at the New York City Opera in October and November.

Peter Kunhardt '75 produced and directed a four-hour documentary for ABC, chronicling the life of Abraham Lincoln in vintage photographs, which aired last winter. The documentary was written by Peter's father and brother; the pictures were from his great-grandfather Frederick Hill Meserve's collection. James Earl Jones narrated the documentary and Jason Robards spoke Lincoln's words.

Associate producers at CBS include Katherine Davis '87 at CBS News and Karen Benfield '88 of Connie Chung's show, Eye to Eye.

"Early this year," Don Banks writes, "I had to arrange care for my dear wife at a nursing home in Great Barrington, Mass., 25 miles from here. I visit her several times weekly and miss her no end. In early March I had a knee replacement—quite successful, but it further complicated my life." We wish Don and his wife all the best and we are grateful to Don for taking the time to share the following recollections of Henry Happ Jr., who died in August 1992: "Having served in the Army during World War I, Hank was a bit older and more sophisticated than most of us entering Middlebury in the fall of 1921. We looked up to him for counsel and advice which he gave in a modest way. A review of his activities and responsibilities during his four undergraduate years indicate his valuable contributions to life on the campus. One of his many duties was managing the College Store, along with assistants Ernie Adams and Jack Britnell. Together, they formed a great team and kept the atmosphere in the store friendly and well under control. This was necessary inasmuch as the residents of the far side of the hill had to pass the store going to and returning from the library. Many friendships originated as a result. My last contact with Hank was during our 55th Reunion. I well recall 'shooting the breeze' with him after all the other members of our class were comfortably tucked in their beds. He recalled his many problems while managing the store. He worked very closely with Prexy

Moody and relations were often strained when major decisions had to be made. Hank admitted it was a valuable experience and helped him no end in later life. Hank's success in his chosen field after graduation is well documented in his memorial which appeared in the spring issue of the magazine. ...Marian Rogers is now a resident of Indigo Manor in Daytona Beach, Fla. Although quite disabled physically and requiring a wheelchair, she is exceedingly alert and in excellent spirits. ...Ward L. Oliver was elected chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of Richmondville in May. An article by Dr. Oliver on the life of a prominent Albany surgeon was recently published in the County Historical Review. Dr. Oliver and his wife, Ginny, are the proud grandparents of Jane Cavalier, born recently in Pittsburgh, Pa.

As I (Elizabeth Goodale Murray) write, lilacs in many shades of lavender and purple (planted by my late husband, C.A. Murray, in 1959-60) are in gorgeous bloom and their fragrance perfumes the air. On May 28 our son, Bruce, brought his riding lawn mower up to cut the grass on the three acres of land surrounding his 89-year-old mother's red house and garage. ...Richard Allen of Hartford, Conn., reports seeing Gordon Hoyt '36 now and then. ...Viola Palmer Houghton, 88, of Concord, N.H., and Cheabeague Island, Maine, died March 23, 1993, at the McKerley Health Care Center in Concord. She was born in Bristol, Vt., the daughter of Horace and Maud (Dwyer) Palmer. In college, Viola was a member of Delta Omega Delta with classmates Elizabeth Kelley (Beck), Miriam Colby (Sunderland), Hazel Hughes (Moore), Ruth Piper (Heartz), Catherine Matthews (Thompson), Charlotte Raymond (Rothwell), Marion Swift (Carter) and Helen Woodworth (Gwin). Viola's memorial appeared in the Summer issue. ...Francis S. Irons of Montpelier, Vt., died on March 19, 1993. A native of Keene Valley, N.Y., he was the son of the Rev. John and Jessie (Smith) Irons. After doing graduate work at the Univ. of Vermont and New York Univ., Francis began teaching in the high school in Closter, N.J., in 1926 and soon became an administrator. Highlights of his career and a list of his survivors appeared in his memorial in the Summer issue. After retirement, he worked for the sergeant-at-arms during several legislative sessions in Montpelier and remained active in a number of volunteer services.

The Class of 1928's 65th Reunion weekend was filled with wonderful moments for three classmates, Zella Cole Hibbert, Edward "Hank" Ferry and Mimi Sweet Coombs, who were delighted to be able to be there to represent you. Dorothy Ferry, Breck and Susan Hibbert Lardner (both '60) and John Coombs '60 were our support group. The highlight of the weekend was the Saturday afternoon dedication of the Paul Dwight Moody area at Kirk Alumni Center. We were joined for the ceremony by Gordon Perine '49, by Jean Blanchette St. Clair '64 and daughter Aimee (daughter and granddaughter of Ruth and Nap Blanchette, respectively), and by David Rice (son of Margaret "Tib" Moody Rice) and his wife, "Dino." As they saw the area for the first time, their response was especially gratifying for Hank and Mimi, who had planned the space two summers ago with Nap and Bill Donald. It exceeded our expectations. The area is across the hall from the original Moody Room. The original brass tablet identifying it as the Moody Room is on the door opening to the lounge. We saw it as an open area, but it can be enclosed by means of a folding partition. Breck had arranged mementos and books by 1928's authors in the display areas so that we could see photos of all classmates who ever attended reunion, through the 50th. John Walker had taken the photos and put them into an album which his sons gave to Jane Carrick Oviatt. Breck had taken it apart and arranged a photo spread which could have kept us gazing for hours. We brought albums and portfolios which will be safely kept in the cabinet cupboards, with the display changed upon occasion. You will remember that Bill sent us photos of the cabinet, which he had helped to design. He took the pictures on his visit last fall, photos which he knew didn't reveal its beauty. Our portrait of President Moody, the cartoon revealing his passion for golf and Carleton Simmons' grandfather clock are all in the area. Nap's framed views of early campus scenes have been mounted in an easel-type structure, visible from both sides. (His daughter, Jean, who had delivered the collages before Nap's death, was pleased with this arrangement.) Before his death in March, Bill Donald had started to make souvenir wall plaques with a photo of Mead Chapel, framed in blue, and inscribed: "65th Reunion, Bill." They were in the clay stage when his daughter, Diana Bates, found them. She took them home to California, fired them and mailed them to us. It is fitting that one of these plaques is in the cabinet. Recently-elected Class President Edward Ferry (note respect) welcomed classmates and guests to this ceremony and Mimi paid tribute to the classmates who had been so dedicated to this memorial to Prexy during these 17 years and who could not be with us: John Walker, Adelma Hadley Lardner, Nap Blanchette, Jane Carrick Oviatt and William K. Donald, all of whom were represented in some way. As he had done 10 years before at the original dedication, David Rice, representing his mother, Margaret Moody Rice, who is recuperating from a recent illness, told personal stories about his grandfather. He also accepted an appropriate gift as a very new grandfather himself. Then it was time to extend special thanks to Gordon Perine '49, who has been with us during all the vicissitudes of the project. As he will be giving up some of his responsibilities, Breck Lardner, now on the development staff, will be the keeper of the cabinet keys, literally and figuratively, keeping our treasures and accepting future Moody Era gifts. ...Alumni Convocation on Saturday morning provided more special moments. We were practically engulfed in the big 1928 parade banner as we processed into the Chapel. (We didn't have to climb the hill.) We three followed the '33 Class and were, in turn, followed by three members of the 70th Reunion Class. As Hugh Marlow '57 (director of alumni relations) introduced our class, we proudly stood and enjoyed the applause as "our" banner was hanging above us. Class Agent Ferry had another proud moment when our annual giving amount of $13,000 was announced. Our 57 percent class participation was enhanced by gifts given by husbands and wives of former classmates in their memory. As was fitting, the 50th Reunion Class of 1943, with 97 percent of living members present, received an ovation that tested the chapel structure, which had already been threatened by the stamping accompanying Gamaliel Painter's Cane, played over and over again as the processional. It happened again as President McCardell recalled the obstacles and disruptions caused by the war and administration changes. (Storrs Lee will remember these.) Margaret Dounce Dale '43, one of the authors of Walls of Ivy, the current Alma Mater, received recognition from President McCardell. ...After Convocation, school buses took the '23 to '38 classes to the President's house for lunch. Our class photo with President McCardell was taken there. We, in turn, had a chance to photograph David Rice in his grandfather's former home. ...Our class banquet in the President's dining room at Proctor had a family atmosphere. We were joined by Beatrice Lavery Crowell (Grant Lavery's widow) and her daughter, Granthia Lavery Preston '59. It became a mini-reunion for Granthia '59, Jean St. Clair '64 and Class of '60 members John Coombs and Breck and Susan Lardner. We also enjoyed the company of Beryl Gaynor Kalin '25 and our excellent hostess, Elizabeth Heald '95. We're not sure that Bill Donald had had any part in planning the menu, but he would have loved that strawberry shortcake. ...Chapel on a sunny Sunday morning with its message of encouragement to choose love and the alumni choir's beautifully-performed The Lord Bless You and Keep You, by Lufkin, was a perfect ending to '28's 65th. ...Emily Lobdell Smith's daughter, Diane, writes that her mother is now in a nursing home near her son, Jerry. Her address is now c/o Jerry F. Smith, E1710 59th Ave., Spokane, WA 99223. ...We recently learned of Alice Brown Nielson's death on December 15 in Sun City, Fla. "Al" was one of the great Worcester, Mass., group, coming to us from South High. At Midd she was at home in the kitchen at Weybridge House, the biology lab, or as freshman adviser at Hillside. A dedicated athlete, she helped us keep our '28 field hockey, volleyball and track teams respectable. A member of Tri-Delt, she found time for YW activities and the Spanish and dramatic clubs, while being always friendly and cheerful. These qualities made her an effective remedial reading teacher in a 22-year career in Simsbury, Conn., where she met and married Peter Nielson. Al was active in her community and her church. She wrote children's stories and we hope to have some of her published ones for our Moody collection. Mimi Coombs recalls with joy their 1930 slow boat trip to Europe, including shipboard shuffleboard competition with all comers. To her husband, Peter, and grandson, Peter Heath, we express our sympathy. Her memorial appeared in the Summer issue of this magazine. ...On April 30, 1993, we lost another classmate, Gertrude Parsons Crehan, who died in Hartford, Conn. At Midd, "Trudie" excelled in all things academic. Phi Bete and class valedictorian testify to that, but we remember marvelling at her math skills and her devotion to Miss Wiley. She loved sports also and was a member of our baseball, volleyball and field hockey teams. Active in Phi Mu, she was a member of the Pan-Hellenic Council. Dramatic Club, German and French clubs. The Freemans were important to her, too. She was a superb organizer and we find that evident in her career after college, which you will find in her memorial elsewhere in this issue. She and Mark, whom we remember from reunion visits, had been married for 61 years. We thank her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burr, of Essex Meadows, for telling Zella of her death. Our sympathy goes to Mark and her family. ...A class directory is in process but, in the meantime, here are birthdays to remember: August 3, W. Storrs Lee; August 27, Margaret Moody Rice; August 28, Eva Marshall Douglas; October 13, Elizabeth Hayes Balch; October 23, Helen Revere Hatch; November 9, Helen Northrup Grippin; November 13, Marian Hinman Kemp; and November 17, Zella Cole Hibbert.

There have been nice notes recently from Grace Cheney Greene, Morris ("Johnnie") Johnson and Newton ("Newt") Baker, all recalling Middlebury with affection. Grace is at a retirement facility (Briarwood) in Worcester, Mass., where it happens there are three other Middlebury graduates (of later classes). She is looking forward to Reunion in 1994. Johnnie Johnson (self-styled "farm boy from western New York") is still in Batavia, and writes fondly of Middlebury and of the U.S. in the 1920s. Newt Baker has a vision problem, but the "touch system" of typing that served him so well in Old Chapel in our day enables him now to write fluently on his computer. You will remember that he could type so fast they had to cut the per-page fee for typing, lest he bankrupt the college! Space limits prevent reproducing his letter in toto, but you would be as moved as I was by his interesting and insightful letter. ...Once again, don't forget that our 65th Reunion is coming up in 1994.

This year, Glastonbury, Conn. observed its 300th anniversary, as did Ginny Knox's church in Glastonbury. In honor of this occasion, a "History Tour" was scheduled to visit Glastonbury, England, from May 13 until 24. The tour included Devon, Cornwall, Plymouth and the Isle of Scilly. That explains why I could not reach Ginny in mid-May! How wonderful that she could take the trip. Ginny is a very loyal member of our class. She is a class agent for 1930 and is assisted by Howard Huntress. ...Although Capt. John Owen has undergone heart surgery, he was still hoping to visit Nova Scotia again in 1993. ...Larry Wilson and his wife, Eleanor (who grew up in Worcester with us Kendalls), have moved into a big complex with meals available. There are several levels of care and nice residential cottages. As the result of an auto accident last November, Eleanor falls frequently and must wear a neck collar much of the time and Larry requires help. ...Thelma French Walker eats at her senior center one or two times a week. (Beecher and I go five times a week here in Corinth, both for a good meal and for fellowship.) Thelma enjoys her work of making crafts, gifts and clothing for the housebound. She is treasurer of one of the two senior centers she is affiliated with. Although she has given up bowling, she took part in the Cortland games in January. She rides her bike and attends senior dances. She was delayed in starting her spring gardening because of frequent rainfalls. ...Fred Dirks had a busy summer. He likes mountains and enjoyed going to Austria in June. His high school reunion took him to Portsmouth, N.H., in July. Fred finds walking more precarious now and he prefers to drive only in daylight. He goes less often to opera and concerts in Washington. However, it seems he got to the coast of Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands. ...Royal Knowlton gets out very little with his wheelchair. A nurse's aide comes to his home twice a week to give him treatments that make him comfortable. He doesn't see any of his classmates. He hasn't even seen Larry Haskins for a couple of years. ...The second of the Kocher twins, Margaret Kocher Nozell, died in February '93. Her sister Eleanor Kocher Wallace, died in 1978. We have also learned of the death of Ralph Hammersley Jr. in February 1992; of Marguerite Brown Shay on December 23, 1992; of William A. Shepard on January 2, 1993; of Thomas M. Hoffnagle on March 20, 1993; and of Muriel Johnson Thorn on April 10, 1993.

News from you '31ers has been scarce for our June first deadline. So do WRITE. A promise: your news will be published but it may seem tardy because the production of the magazine takes time. ...We've a new address for Virginia Cole: 1 Spring St., Apt. 2E, Montpelier, VT 05602. ...It is good to learn that Dick Fear continues to make his annual trip to London. On his 20th trip last winter, he enjoyed the wonderful British theatre. His work as a management consultant took him to Phoenix, Ariz., in the spring. He did report, all too briefly, on his Amazon trip. He found the tribes that he visited had been touched in one way or another by civilization but, he adds, "my guides told of a people far back in the rain forest that spend almost all their days in the canopy of those 200-foot-high trees, eating the fruits and killing monkeys with their blow guns. They wear no clothes but they do come down at night to sleep on the forest floor. They must certainly represent a true evolutionary link." ...When Mary Evans Thornhill sent word, she and Fred were getting ready for another May trip to France. They have a house near Orleans where Fred enjoys gardening. Mary is recovering from some severe bouts of arthritis but hoped to be able to visit friends in Mannheim. She is fortunate to have her daughter, Lou Thornhill McCluskey '66, living nearby in California. ...Paul Daland and Thelma, 60 years married, keep busy with church work, choir and board of trustees. They visit their daughter and her family in North Carolina a couple of times a year. Formerly they traveled more extensively, with eight European crossings to their credit, as well as trips to Hawaii, Florida and the Caribbean (most recently to Bermuda in '92). Paul says that all in all he and Thelma are doing okay. They are thankful that they are able to continue to enjoy their cottage at Orient, Long Island, which now sports a new roof, the old one having been lifted by Hurricane Bob. We hope to see them at the next reunion. ...Middlebury Tri-State meeting at Lake Morey Resort brought together Priscilla March, Helen Legate Roberts and Mary Stolte Toomey. We all missed Marian Tolles Chase and Phil, who unfortunately had a prior commitment. Borden and Louise Roberts Avery, both '39, are outstanding hosts. ...We are sorry to report that Lucy Saunders passed away on June 17, 1993. Our sympathy goes out to her sister, Josephine Saunders Taggart '32, and the family. A memorial appears elsewhere in this issue. ...Phil Brewer says he'll be a home ec major the next time at Middlebury! Due to a family situation, he needs some additional skills and Professors Haller and Voter only taught him to boil, filter and wash. So if you have some good, quick and easy recipes, send him your favorites. He hopes that "when the bugler sounds an assembly for our 65th, I can obey the summons." ...Mary Stolte Toomey can't resist adding that her lovely Deborah just presented her with a completely reversible quilt, its design composed of innumerable stitches. It represented the work of five years. On May 16 her eldest grandson, Sebastian Toomey, graduated summa cum laude from Marlboro College, so she is basking in reflected glory. ...At this writing Parker Calvert and Deedie are off to Raleigh, N.C., where son Jack, a retired admiral, is now business manager for a law firm. A great family reunion was planned. ...Elwin Warren writes cryptically that he is "back home after breaking right thigh last November," with the added good news that he is "no longer on crutches." Good news, indeed, but we could have used more details. No doubt Elwin presumes that a broken bone at our age is hardly newsworthy, but details are important. ...As for details, Philander Bates wrote a letter prompted by reading last spring of Harold King's death. Phil is sure that he was the one to sponsor the appellation "Duke" when we were all together as freshmen in Starr Hall. Phil and Betty are both well, still leading active social lives on the Cape and trying hard to keep up with their peripatetic children around the world. And keep on clamming, Phil! ...It is with sadness that we report the death of Florence Portman Canedy of Bernardston, Mass. She was not only an honors student at Greenfield, Mass., High School but also graduated cum laude with majors in French and Latin from Middlebury. She attended summer sessions at Harvard and at Northeastern State Colleges. From 1943 to 1945 she served her country as a lieutenant in the WAVES.

As part of his birthday celebration in April, Mat Hess played a round of golf—on the Executive Golf Course, no less!—in which he missed shooting his age by one stroke. Now I ask you, what does that tell you? The greetings from Mat and Katy in the southland reached us just before the blizzard of '93 struck here. Mat says he's glad that they live in the land of sunshine and warm weather. ..."I will follow directions and pile up all the birthdays I possibly can." And Scrap Melbye is doing very well by keeping busy carving more and more birds. He writes that "the living room is quite a sight with new birds." How we would love to see them all on exhibit. He promises to have son-in-law Paul Godfrey (a professor at the Univ. of Massachusetts) take some pictures when he comes down from Amherst. Daughter Melinda '64 (married to Paul) got her master's at Duke; son Gordon went to BU. ...Ella Congdon Purple had a great trip to Turkey last February, spending time in Istanbul, Izmir and Antalya. She returned home in time for the Big Blizzard of '93—three-foot drifts in her front yard! ...It appears that durable Freddy Weaver is finally slowing down—well, just a little bit. He's trimmed his schedule to only two classes at Farmingdale State Univ. and one at Adelphi. But supervising 10 students in math and science must keep him hopping. If there's truth in keeping busy for long life, Freddy will be on Willard Scott's NBC birthday program at 110! ...We have been deeply saddened to learn of the death of four of our class members. Lester "Sandy" Claflin died on March 18. He had been in ill health for the last five years. He and Theta (Conant) '31 were married in 1933. Sandy had spent most of the subsequent years teaching in New Hampshire. He and Theta lived for several years in Shell Point Village, Fort Myers, Fla.

...Ralph Williams died August 1, 1992. Though he transferred to Franklin and Marshall College before Midd graduation, we've always considered him one of our classmates. He worked with the Columbia County Highway Department in Hudson, N.Y., retiring in 1971 after 42 years of service. He served in the Ordnance Department of the Army in World War II. He was very active in political, community, and church activities with his wife, Bernice. ...John R. Sherman of Westport, N.Y., died on March 10, 1993, at age 83. We are grateful to his widow, Isabelle, for writing to share some memories of John. He taught for a few years in a one-room school before serving during World War II in Iran, Jericho, Bethlehem, Jerusalem and Nazareth. John and Isabelle were married in 1971. They raised beef cattle on their farm and did quite a bit of traveling around the U.S. ...Eveline Vinton Wells, born in Hartford, Conn., and a member of Middlebury chapter of Sigma Kappa sorority, died on March 24, 1993, in South Windsor, Conn. She had lived there for 22 years after the retirement and sudden death of her husband, Norman C. Wells. Eveline worked as secretary and volunteered with the American Red Cross and Meals on Wheels, in addition to leading a Brownie troop and serving as president of her garden club. ...The Class of 1932 sends sympathy to the families of all four of the deceased. Memorials for Sandy and John appear elsewhere in this issue. Memorials for Eveline and Ralph appeared in the Summer issue.

During the memorial service held as part of our Saturday reunion program, Lyle Glazier read a poem, entitled There Shall Be Green Hills, which had been written by his wife, our late classmate Amy Niles Glazier, soon after graduating from Middlebury.

There shall be green hills far away,
There shall be mountains blue,
From which our hearts in dream shall come,
Our college, back to you.

Through all our days we still shall keep
With loving tenderness
The golden treasure of thy gift,
Four years of happiness.

We yet shall bring with loving hands
Our homage and our fame
To lay them at thy hallowed feet,
To wreathe with them thy name.

Oh, Middlebury, unto thee
In twilight song we pray
Thy smile and love to follow us
Through each succeeding day.

Our co-agent Ring Pratt led the memorial service and all 29 of us gathered there (36 percent of our 80 living members) shared Amy's sentiments. Our group also included 11 spouses and three members-by-acclaim (spouses of deceased classmates). Nostalgia was abundant, renewing friendships with special pals was great fun, and learning ever more about them and those less close to us while in college was a real pleasure. We did miss those unable to come, for sure! Our wonderful 50th Reunion yearbook, put together by the Carpenters, is a great post-reunion help in renewing our Midd memories and those from '33 to '83. Highlights of the Convocation included the presentation to Pete White and Ginnie Whittier Warthin of the cup for the largest class gift from a reunion class other than the 25th or 50th (traditional "big givers"!) and the awarding of an Alumni Plaque to our retiring class secretaries Phil and Helen Easton Carpenter, in recognition of their many years of superb work for the Class of '33! We can never thank Helen and Phil enough, nor Ginnie Warthin for her enthusiastic support of all our reunions over the years. She has really provided the "glue" to hold us together as a class! Next was a lovely luncheon for the four oldest reunion classes at President and Mrs. McCardell's home. Following a delicious repast served both indoors and out, our class picture was snapped outside. (A few skirts had a "Marilyn Monroe look!") A display of previous reunion "portraits" made us wonder, "Was I EVER that young?" Our banquet, hosted by Eleanor Benjamin Berry at her lovely home in Shoreham, was a fitting finale to a happy weekend. "Bill" pulled out all the culinary stops and we thank her sincerely. Krissa Bolton, coordinator from the Alumni Office for our entire weekend, joined us there, and we surely appreciated her help. Some classmates joined us only for Saturday's daytime events, and some stayed to attend chapel service Sunday morning (possibly to sing once more in the choir!) and to enjoy a box lunch at the home of Dot Cornwall Cheney in Middlebury. Given the glorious Sunday weather, it must have been possible to eat outside on her "Dot-cut" lawn! (We missed it, being among the folks having to get an early start for home.) Clark Corliss was unable to join us, but Clark and Mim both trust you to be certain to send all the news of your lives, loves and families to your new secretaries—not only regularly but also promptly. We'll need your help as we succeed to the Carpenters' "hard act to follow"! ...Retiring secretaries Phil and Helen Easton Carpenter report: Dick Roberts and wife Mary wrote with good news: "Our six grandchildren, born after we turned 70, are our greatest joy. Three boys live in New Jersey; twins, age 4, and a boy, 7, live in Iowa City, Iowa. One of the twins is our only girl. So we are always 'on the go.' Our involvement keeps life interesting. A great old age and a busy one." ...Ro Martin Hubbard had "a bad winter—in and out of the hospital four times since early December, and finally surgery, which seems to have corrected the problem, though I am still shaky." ...Ken Dodd reports that "most activities seem to center around doctors' offices and the local hospital. We are, however, able to get around a bit and enjoy a pleasant existence." ...Reg House was unable to make the 60th Reunion because of his wife's serious illness. He said, "We have been lucky up to this year, but events are now catching up to us." ...Ev Gould wrote in mid-April: "We had a warm day or two awhile back and I got out to take a walk up the road a ways. It was good to get out after being confined to a house all winter except for trips to the doctor about once a month. I seem to be holding my own, which may not be saying much, but it is better than it might be." ...From Aaron Schefkind: "My wife and I are now snowbirds, spending our winters in Florida, where we are now residents, and returning to Botsford, Conn., to escape the subtropical heat in the summer. I have reached the ripe young age of 82, swim each day as the weather permits, and participate in the social and educational programs in a retirement village complex. Our new address is 13155 SW 7 Court, Kingsley E102, Pembroke Pines, FL 33027." ...Phil and Helen Easton Carpenter thank their classmates and all others who made such a noteworthy occasion of their trip to Middlebury at reunion time. After nine months of an essentially housebound existence it was especially exciting for Helen to see so many old friends, and both of them appreciated the many notes they received after returning home. They wish Mim Barber Brown and Clark Corliss the same pleasure they enjoyed as class secretaries: the many cards and letters sharing family activities and joys in the accomplishments of children, grandchildren, and other family members.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Ruth Ells Crane, P.O. Box 1077, Coe St., Winsted, CT 06098.

Received notes this time from some classmates we haven't heard from in a long time. That's good! Keep them coming! ...Toivo Aalto reports on a vacation trip he and wife Barbara took. They had a visit with Travis and Margaret Leach '36 Harris who were on vacation at Myrtle Beach, S.C. They spent some time at Brookgreen Gardens, including an archaeological session on the home of Aaron Burr's daughter. Toi says, "I am back playing golf after a January aneurism operation." He also said they were going to Callaway Gardens in Georgia in April to see the azaleas. (Please remember that notes submitted in the spring are published in the fall, so the news is obviously history by the time it is printed.) ...Terry deTransehe Skinker (805 South U.S. Hwy. 1-T816, Juno Beach, FL 33408) says she doesn't mind getting older but the realization that her baby daughter (age 48) is now a grandmother was a shock to her system, so she and her husband decided to take a trip while still able. They flew to Amsterdam and cruised the Baltic countries on the S/S Statendam, a new Holland America liner. They also planned to stop in St. Petersburg, Russia, where Terry was born. ...Betty Brown Hoffmann (81 Lindon Ave., #421, Rochester, NY 14610) writes that her first great-grandchild was born in February. In March Betty's grandson, Jason Rucker, placed third in the New York State high school wrestling tournament. Betty said she expected to have a knee replacement operation in May, but in the meantime has kept busy doing watercolor painting and recently sold a couple of her works. Good to hear from you, Betty. ...Bill Stull and wife Betty recently moved into a retirement community. It will be their permanent home, but they hope to continue to go to northern Ontario for the summer for a few more years as they have done in the past. Their new Florida home is on an island in the Caloosahatchee River called Shell Point Village. It is near Sanibel Island and they hope that any of you who are in the vicinity will turn north on Shell Point Boulevard about a mile before the toll booth to the Sanibel Causeway and drive the two miles to their new home (634 Coquina Court, Fort Myers, FL 33908). ...I'm sorry to have to report the death of Donald R. MacQuivey on April 30, 1993, in Palo Alto, Calif. He was a communications specialist with the State Department, SRI and Stanford Electronics Lab. He transferred to Stanford and had a distinguished career in the field of communications. His memorial appeared in the Summer issue of the magazine.

As missions chairman for her church, Natalie Dunsmoor initiated a relationship with a missionary in Japan more than three years ago. This missionary recently visited her church for three days and Natalie was in charge of all the events, including three dinners (one at her home), a brunch with Japanese students, visits to other churches and also scenic trips. It was a busy but fulfilling experience. Her 80th birthday was celebrated twice, once with her sister and family in Milford, Pa., and once with 17 of her family members in Bloomfield on Easter day. ...Elizabeth Loomis Baseler's town of Glastonbury is celebrating its 300th anniversary. Among the festivities planned was a trip to Glastonbury, England, where the townspeople will entertain the visitors. Elizabeth also planned to visit Stonehenge, Bath and other places of interest. She was hoping to have her garden well established before her trip. ...Ruth Damerell Ahler suffered a bout of pneumonia last year, but after a whole year she feels she has fully recovered. She is enjoying a watercolor painting class once more and recently joined an arthritic exercise swimming class at the local Y. Water exercise is surprisingly pleasant. ...Jean Wiley Zwickel pursues her peace work, especially Puerto Rican independence and prisoner release. She still visits four prisoners at Pleasanton. The Spanish edition of her book, Independence, has been distributed in Colombia. In addition to a spring cleanup at the regional park, the Sierra Club-Delta Regional Group planted six native oak trees in honor of Jean and her husband and three other members whose interest and contributions have been outstanding. ...In a chat over the telephone Grace Bates and I exchanged information about Aid for Friends (her project) and Meals on Wheels (my project). Though slightly different, both projects provide meals for people who need them. She still plays the piano for Pennswood residents, though not as much as she used to. According to Grace, her life is not spectacular—but at our age that is the norm and we like to hear that others in our class also live uneventful but fulfilling lives. ...Your secretary (Alma Davis Struble) had a touch of pneumonia and a cataract removed, both of which were much more time-consuming than exciting. She is still supervising Meals on Wheels but is earnestly trying to become an Indian instead of a chief. The herb gardens at a local historic tavern have been an enjoyable responsibility. The work at the Mental Retardation Center continues, as does the effort to find suitable community living situations. ...Jerry Barrett's wife writes that Jerry is in a nursing home. ...Rudy Bona and Penny have been doing a lot of traveling in the past year, all in the U.S. They have visited relatives in Maryland, New York and Connecticut. A seven-day cruise which took them to Mexico, Jamaica and the Cayman Islands, also included a short voyage in a submerged submarine. In the autumn of 1992 they toured the Great Smokies of North Carolina when the leaves' color was at its height. This year they celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary with a party given by their daughter, Gayle, and her husband. Nearly 100 guests, both family and friends, attended. ...Jim Brock (R.R. 1 Box 3760, Montpelier, VT 05602) is still practicing law, "although not as strenuously as sometimes in the past." He adds that he is "thinking about full retirement, but I'm scared to death that I will wake up in the morning and have nothing to do all day long. Many people say that they are so busy in retirement that they don't know how they ever had time to go to work. If I could be sure that that would be the case with me I might retire." It might help Jim to hear from you about your experiences. ...Don Brown and his wife celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in June by taking a cruise to Nassau and some of the Caribbean islands. The trip was the gift of their children, who accompanied them on the cruise. Don says that he has only 10 percent vision in his right eye, but he plays tennis several times a week despite the handicap. In hot weather he exchanges swimming for tennis. ...Tony Costaldo writes that he and Marie are well, "but moving at a slower pace." They no longer do any traveling. ...Dick Cushing reports that he "keeps busy every moment." He goes to the office every day, "but takes some liberties." He serves on the board of a nursing home in Gardner, Mass., and the board of a home for girls which provides a home for 30 girls at a time. Dick also still golfs several times a week. ...News of Wy Smith is saddening. "I am running down," he writes. "The last cobalt treatments did not stop the pain and so I am on narcotics the rest of the time." He goes on to say, however, "My mind is still functioning and I am reading. Professor Kingsley used to tell us that we had to read a book a day to keep up with the world. I'm trying to catch up." Despite his physical condition, Wy went to Alta, Colo., as usual, to ski last winter. It snowed all six days of his stay, except for two hours of sunny ski time. Wy managed to fall and sprain his left wrist! "This may be my last trip," he says. He attended an Elderhostel in Florida in January. The subject for reading and discussion was Thoreau's Walden. "I have concluded," he writes, "that Walden is for adults what Winnie the Pooh is for our grandchildren." Wy plays bridge every Thursday with three other men. It is good therapy, he says. He could not help out with the "sugaring" this year, leaving the task to his son and grandsons. He and Grace have signed up for Alumni College in September and hope to see some of us there. For anyone who would like to write Wy a note, his address is 325 College St., Burlington, VT 05401. ...Bob Stafford was honored by UVM in May, when a large building housing laboratories for advanced studies in microbiology and molecular genetics was dedicated as Robert Stafford Hall. Bob also writes of his involvement in an effort to get the U.S. back in UNESCO, from which we withdrew in protest against certain practices and policies with which the government was in disagreement. In 1989 Bob headed an international panel to determine whether or not the U.S. should resume its membership. This year UNA-USA, an American group interested in the UN, asked Bob to reconvene the American sub-panel to conduct further review. The sub-panel has recommended a return to UNESCO. ...The thinning ranks of the men of our class were further reduced January 28 by the death of Les Benson in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Les came to Middlebury from Dover Plains, N.Y. He was a member of Alphi Sigma Phi and was a member of the basketball and baseball teams all four years in college. Les taught in the Bolton Landing, N.Y., Central School from 1935 to 1941, when his teaching career was interrupted by World War II service in the Army Air Force. He served from 1942 to 1946 in Europe and North Africa, attaining the rank of captain. After the war he earned a master's degree (1946) at Cornell and served as principal of Bolton Central School, 1946 to 1958. He was superintendent of Ockawannick Central Schools in Philmont, N.Y., (1958 to 1971) and then superintendent of Copake-Taconic Hills (N.Y.) Central Schools (1971 to 1977). His career was again interrupted by two years of active duty as an Army Reserve officer in Germany (1950-52), during which time he was promoted to the rank of major. Les was an enthusiastic hunter and fisherman, played golf and, for a time, played on a semi-pro basketball team. He and his wife traveled extensively, especially during his military tour of duty in Germany. They toured all of the Scandinavian countries and Finland, and many countries in western Europe. He was active in the affairs of the Methodist Church, was a long-time member of the Masonic Order and, in his later years, an avid reader. After retirement he divided his time between a summer cottage on the Rhode Island Shore and a winter home in Florida. Les and his wife gave up their retirement home in Ft. Lauderdale to care for Les' mother in Dover Plains for several years prior to her death at the age of 99 last November. Your secretary (Lee Hunt) sent his widow a message of sympathy from the class. The Hunts also attended a memorial service held in the Baptist church in Dover Plains on June 13. We extend our sympathy to his wife, Kathryn of Tamarac, Fla.; three sons, George of Albany, N.Y., Jeffrey of Auburn, N.H. and Steven of Charlotte, N.C.; and five grandchildren. His memorial appeared in the Summer issue of this magazine.

We have reached or heard from about 83 percent of the members of '36 still on the top side of the sod, since a few smooth talkers maneuvered us into this secretaryship. That other 17 percent is, as far as we know, still out there. We would be very happy if we could reduce the figure of the silent 17. Indeed we will sweep the house diligently to find even one of the missing. Remember, if you were there in the fall of '32 as a freshman, you are a member of '36. Of course, if you have elected to have your name removed from the class register, we respect that decision. ...Continuing the countdown, the days until '96 Reunion are now under the magic number 1,000. Hang in there! In the same vein, Gus Brooks advised me that there is a budding idea re a mini earlier reunion, perhaps in late '93 or '94. Marion Cole Morhouse and Gus may have been in touch with you by the time you read this. ...From Marty Tierney, "My wife, Karline, has retired from Ciba-Geigy and we are now planning to visit a high school exchange student we had with us in '65-'66. She married a New Zealand sheep farmer. We are going to see many sheep!" He closes with, "I still play a mean game of tennis." Beware, the man is into the racquets! ...From Bill Dawes, "They tell me I have completely recovered from my triple bypass and valve replacement. It's great what the doctors can do today. I feel great but seem to tire easily [Your secretaries report a like syndrome]. Spent the winter at Key Colony Beach, Fla. Two-day visit with Frank Boyce on the way north. Also saw Bob Robbins in Jacksonville." ...Doug Rubb reports seeing Frank Boyce (who sprang for lunch) and in addition saw Don and Carol Wheeler Easler. Don and Doug were freshman roommates. Doug was disappointed at missing James Michener in St. Petersburg Beach. They had worked together on histories of the Pacific War. Doug spent four weeks in the Sarasota area. Hope we hear more from him and his reactions to today's conditions in the U.S. ...Dick Hubbard shared some observations on the college/fraternity situation which will not be news to many of you, but will serve to clear the picture to others. "The College is trying to disband fraternities. It recently gave Chi Psi its walking papers because it wouldn't or couldn't, due to a mandate from its national office, oblige the College by conforming re minorities, etc. Chi Psi is now off-campus. I wonder what kind of position that puts active members in? As you know, the College bought the fraternity houses a number of years ago and they have since been established as social dorms accommodating both sexes." Why does the thought keep nagging me that somehow or other someone set out to fix something that wasn't really broken—and look what happened. Undergraduate days were certainly a lot less complicated in our day, weren't they? ...More of that tongue-in-cheek wit from the House of Ham (Shea, that is) on the subject of fraternities: "I'm not sure that I understand the current situation with fraternities at Middlebury. I mourn their loss, if we have lost them. And I regret more than I can say that the administration back in our day never insisted that we take in girls at DU and let them live in the house, right across the hall from my room, and play a full part in the daily and nightly life of the fraternity. I have always loved my time at Middlebury, but that would have been without parallel, as icing on the cake. And it would have beat the hell out of trying to get up to Pearson early enough to get the sofa behind the piano!" Thanks for your observations, Ham. I hope your transition to the laid-back life is complete and that both the living and the breathing are easier. Think '96! ...A bit of news about a former member of '36 who became a member of '37, Red Harris, who has had a rough bout with illness and major surgery. Red survives and is still serving his New London, N.H., community and hospital and is receiving ongoing recognition for his efforts. Hang in there, Red! You are one among the few good ones left! ...Jean Barton Cotton and Dan have returned from a three-week driving trip through Canada, covering the Gaspe Peninsula, Quebec province, and north to Settio to see the hydro electric power plants and dams in that area. They had intended to visit Quebec City, Chateau Frontenac, etc., but were just too tired to face another city—and Quebec is a walk-through city, so it was just too much. Jean started playing outside tennis on May 31. Her bowling was over for the summer and she and Dan were about to move to their summer "camp" on Cohasset harbor, a delightful spot. ...Margaret Leach Harris and Travis planned to celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary with a trip through Ireland and England, with their son accompanying them and serving as chauffeur. In Stamford, England (in East Anglia near the fens) they planned to visit the people with whom they exchanged houses in '86. Maggie reports that Agnes Harris Finger Taylor and her husband are fine. ...Louise Hubbard McCoy is excited about the new Center for the Arts but is not too-too pleased with the modern architecture (but the architect likes it). Some great innovative ideas are included, however. The Concert Hall is gorgeous, and the Music Library with a full-time librarian is a marvelous resource. In fact, the acoustics in the Concert Hall are so good that some professionals from New York are going there to record. ...Mavis Jones Little rented a car in Key West, drove to Marco Island where she stayed with Dode (Doris Wall Roberts) for two nights and played lots of cards. Then off to Ft. Myers to stay with Is Kinney Frakie and then to friends in Sarasota. Saw Natt '34 and Jo Knox Divoll '35 in Inverness. Div is able to drive with automatic transmission and plays some golf, but many of his activities are curtailed. They expect Doug Jocelyn '34 in Middlebury for his grandson's graduation in June. Jonie returned from Florida in late March. Although the March 13 storm did little damage where she was, she had to wait three days before she could fly home and upon arrival she found 30 inches of snow waiting for her. ...I talked with Barbara Wishart Erickson who is now living in the Avery Nursing Home in Hartford, Conn. She has had a really tough time. Her husband, Ralph, had a leg amputated and then developed cancer of the hip bone and died a year or so ago. Without going into great detail, Barbara broke an ankle as the result of a fall, then two weeks later broke the other ankle getting out of her wheel chair and while at the hospital having the second ankle put in a cast, she suffered a heart attack. As she said, she was just ready to give up. But she didn't! Knowing Barbara we would guess she would never give up with that fighting spirit of hers. She has a "wonderful" nurse's aid who takes care of her and gets her meals. Barb is able now with a walker to get from her bedroom to the bath and considers this progress just "amazing." Take care of yourself, Barbara. We all wish you well. You've had enough. ...Katherine Chaffee Robinson's life now revolves almost completely around caring for her husband, Ray, who is handicapped and also legally blind. In January Kath had eyelid surgery again at the John Dempsey Hospital in Connecticut. She still does volunteering at Bloodmobiles, the Clock and Watch Museum, and the Carousel Museum. They got to Hyannis last fall to her 60th high school reunion, a happy occasion. Their sons visit often and occasionally she gets to Massachusetts to visit family. As she says, and we all iterate, "One day at a time!" ...Ruth McNulty Howard and Ed enjoyed a good winter keeping fit with golf, swimming and our usual activities. We spent some very enjoyable days in Plano, Texas, with long-standing friends. We planned only a few short jaunts here and there in the summer—we are vacationing right here, enjoying golf, swimming, bridge, tennis, cook-outs and all those summer fun things. While looking forward to a visit from daughter Janie from Connecticut, we celebrated Memorial Day by Ed's playing golf, my swimming all morning, and then watching the Knicks and Bulls fight it out on TV, and out to dinner. From both of us: Good health to all of you. May God keep you tightly in his big fist and lightly prod you to keep in touch with one another and your secretaries, 'til we meet once more. ...We have address updates for Dick Dempewolf (RD 1, Box 29E, Henryville, PA 18332), Barbara Wishart Erickson (Avery Nursing Home, Room 99, 705 New Britain Ave., Hartford, CT 06106), Marion Hook Nyberg (P.O. Box 13, West Milbury, MA 01586), Ham Shea (1924 Camelia Circle, Midlothian, VA 23112), Barbara Lyons Steele (Parker Ridge HC-64, Box 27056, Blue Hill, ME 04164) and Arch Tilford (43 Chipman Park #A, Middlebury, VT 05753).

Class Secretary: Mrs. Barbara Hopkins (Barbara Gregory), 1021 W. Devonshire Road, Delafield, WI 53018, and the Rev. Loring D. Chase, 10 Surry Hill Drive, Keene, NH 03431.

Our thanks to Charlie Hamlin for bringing us up to date. He retired from his medical practice about 10 years ago and has since been keeping busy living in a condo on the 12th fairway, playing golf and bridge, and going trout fishing. He is fortunately situated about two and one-half hours away from his two married children, one in New Hampshire and one in New Jersey. Charlie and his wife, Annette, are enjoying some traveling. They recently sailed on a small ship (accommodations for 40 passengers) to Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands, where they saw numerous sea birds, turtles, tortoises, sea lions and seals. Charlie and Annette celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary by inviting their immediate family of 14—ranging from four years to 28—to a Mohawk Mountain hotel for three days of mountain climbing, swimming, golf, horseback riding and fun for the "grands." ...Sue Hathaway Hopper had a rather miserable winter, having a severe case of flu which kept her homebound for some time. But later she traveled to the Boston Flower Shows and was planning a trip to Pennsylvania to visit Winterthur and Longwood Gardens. Sue follows the new administration with interest, as she has one granddaughter working for President Clinton in the old Executive Building and another who is working for Hillary Clinton's Deputy Scheduler. Sue is keeping busy in Middlebury and enjoys seeing classmates and other Middlebury friends returning to the campus from time to time. ...Betty Knox Hunt writes that her husband, Lee '35, is finally retiring from his part-time work in the church and is hoping Betty will also retire from her part-time job as microfilmer! Other than her osteoporosis, Betty feels fine. She and Lee have done all the traveling abroad they have wanted to do and now just want to be quiet and stay home. ...Joyce Kingsley writes in his "inimitable fashion" that since our last reunion ('92) he has undergone surgery for pancreatic malignancy, which was diagnosed early so there is no apparent spread. In spite of a "voracious" appetite, he has lost weight and feels the lack of his usual strength and endurance, limiting his golf game to some extent and minimizing his garden for the summer. King thoroughly enjoys his 14 grandchildren, ranging in age from one to 25 years, in particular the one with whom he reads, does arithmetic and grammar (which he sees as a weak subject these days). ...Alice Crosby Loomis says she is keeping very active with her church work, R.S.V.P., Hospice, Putney seniors and good neighbors. Now and then she also enjoys visits with her son, daughter and granddaughter. ...Elizabeth Vanartsdalen MacArthur recently moved and is happy with her new home (The Pines of Mandavein, 10790 Old St. Augustine Road, Jacksonville, FL 32257). She was planning a trip to Savannah and Jekyll Island for the annual meeting of the Victorian Society. ...Red (Harry) Harris reports that things have improved a lot during the past year. The black topping of his driveway has made it possible to walk laps daily and his leg—or, as Red says, "what is left of it"—is behaving very well. He is sorry to have missed our 55th, but is really hoping to come to the 60th. ...Robert Jewett wrote an interesting letter regarding his decision to spend the summer retracing some of his early steps, going back to military stations from Newfoundland to Presque Isle, Greenland, Labrador, and time spent studying French in New Brunswick. At the age of 78, Bob felt that his dreams to return should not be put off any longer. He was really anticipating "going back" to see how things may have changed. ...Margaret Dow Ludington and her husband have been in good health since our 55th Reunion. They were planning a trip to visit their two daughters and their families on the West Coast. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last August and are enjoying their five grandchildren. ...After undergoing cataract surgery and a lens implant, Ruth Furness Lombardy has decided it is not a "nothing process" as people had said. Furn is involved in her church and senior citizens. With her family nearby, life is pleasant. Aside from being lame, she considers herself in good health, although she doesn't attempt long trips anymore. She enjoys occasional day trips to visit friends and family and going to dinner theaters. She manages to live alone in her townhouse and finds it "isn't all that bad." Furn included in her letter news of Mildred Moore Sheehan who, after recovering from a broken foot last January, fell again and broke her hip in four places and is now walking with a cane. ...Dottie Mathison Scott and husband Bob recently had a great trip to Egypt, as part of the Middlebury-sponsored trip, which proved to be educational as well as fun. There were three marvelous lecturers on the trip—John Spencer of Middlebury and two well known Egyptologists—who added valuable information as they visited many sites. Dottie's daughter, Joanne, who lives in Middlebury and is a teacher of finance at St. Michael's College, had a baby boy in September, so now there are many reasons for frequent visits to Middlebury for the Scotts. Dottie and Bob recently attended a dinner and reception in New Jersey where President John McCardell spoke most eloquently of some of the plans and directions the College will be taking in the next 10 years. Plans are also in the making for a reunion of the New Jersey contingent of '37ers in the near future. ...Doris Downing Daley is still going to Great Barrington several times a week to visit her mother, now aged 99. Doris still enjoys traveling as often as possible. She went to Alaska last summer and is now planning a trip to Texas and New Mexico. Her six grandchildren range in age from newborn to 21 years. Doris does volunteer work, plays bridge and in general enjoys life. ...Marion Gerling Church is suffering with severe arthritis, which limits her traveling and physical activities, but she still plays bridge often. The death of her son last December was very difficult. Since she was not able to send cards, she asks her friends to forgive her and to please stop by if ever traveling through Glens Falls, N.Y. ...Barbara Weaver Street's exciting news is the birth of her first grandchild—Nicholas Matheu Street—in March. She was anticipating a Garden Club Tour through the gardens of England and Wales. ...Marshall Sewell has returned to work part time as a writer for National Healthcare Publications. He is also busy as program chairman for his adult community in New Jersey. Marsh and Joyce recently celebrated their 50th anniversary—in Florida and South Carolina—"shelling" on Gulf beaches and "birding" at wildlife refuges. ...We are sad to report the recent deaths of two of our classmates. Richard A. Lucas died on March 1 at his winter home in Vero Beach, Fla., after a long hard struggle with diabetes and heart trouble. We remember Dick at Middlebury playing freshman football and later managing both the freshman team and the varsity. He was a member of Chi Psi and Kappa Phi Kappa. After graduation from Middlebury, Dick taught chemistry at Gloversville High School, and then became chairman of the Fulton County Board of Supervisors, resigning in 1982 for medical reasons. In 1992, he was awarded a plaque for his years of service to the township of Bleecker, where he and his wife, Marion, lived. Various town and county officials spoke of Dick when they learned of his death: "Gentleman, a real gentleman" was the most frequent word used. "What he said was always something you could bank on. When he talked, he wasn't giving you a line." Those of us who knew Dick in college were not surprised! ...Edgar P. Berry, who was a leading plastic surgeon and a former president of the New York County Medical Society, died on April 26, 1993, at a nursing home in Sandwich, Mass. The cause was Alzheimer's disease, his family said. Dr. Berry retired in 1984 as the director of plastic surgery at Lenox Hills Hospital in Manhattan. Previously, he headed the plastic surgery departments at the Brooklyn, Wyckoff Heights and Brooklyn Veterans Hospitals. He served as president of the New York Regional Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons and of the New York State Medical Society. His career is briefly traced in a memorial which appeared in the Summer issue. We send our condolences to his widow, Dottie; son, William; daughter, Dorothy; and four grandchildren. ...As for your "aging" Class Secretary, Barbara Gregory Hopkins, I somehow weathered a long, dreary winter in Wisconsin—not boasting of extreme cold, but rather constant clouds—so it was more a psychological survival than physical. Now, as I write am about to head to the "Northwoods" and our cottage at Three Lakes, Wis., where I boldly hope for blue waters, lots of boating and swimming—and most of all, sunshine! It's a great way to renew one's "batteries," both mental and physical, as I find it more and more necessary to just "keep up" with my two grandkids who have convinced me we are living in a "New Generation!"

It was a great and wondrous 55th Reunion! A little bit wet at times and a bit cool, but the sun came out on Sunday and the campus, the village and the Vermont landscape never looked nicer. At the luncheon at the President's house on Saturday there were 64 of us, including husbands and wives. By the Class Banquet Saturday night a few more had arrived, bringing the total to about 45 classmates, about 40 percent of our class. That was not bad considering the distance for some and the age of all. Jim and Florence Hulme Miner—along with their class helpers, the student host and hostess, and the people in the Alumni Office—did a great job of taking care of us. Emory Hebard was toastmaster at the Banquet. The Hon. Robert Stafford '35, former Senator from Vermont and husband of Helen Kelly Stafford, said a few words. Walter Brooker '37, former Middlebury vice president, conducted an entertaining trivia quiz on Middlebury history. The weekend finished out with a brunch at the lovely home of Marjory Arnold Cady, two miles outside of Middlebury. ...We regret to report the death of Jean Walker in Acton, Mass., on March 2. A native of West Somerville, Mass., Jean attended Middlebury from 1934 to 1936. She graduated from the Modern School of Applied Art in Boston in 1938 and became a commercial artist in New York City. Her memorial appeared in the Summer issue. ...Beulah Hagadorn adds to her item in the Reunion Newsletter that the best thing about her new apartment in Bronxville, N.Y., is "that the building likes dogs." ...Dorothy Dunbar Wilson has a new address: 208 North Road, Sandown, NH 03873. ...Virginia Fischer Ellison has reluctantly decided to retire from her co-secretary's position after five years. The press of local involvements was too strong. Ginny was a wonderful co-worker, always helpful, strongly dedicated to the Class of '38. We welcome Madeline Buttles and Emily Barclay Jackson as her successors. ...Remember to keep the news coming. You don't have to wait for the postcard from the Alumni Office.

A good phone conversation with Bert MacFadden completed the information missing from his card. Petra and Bert spent the 10 coldest days of the winter at their cottage on Lake Dunmore. The snow was beautiful and the Huskies revelled in it. More recently they took in a New Orleans infectious disease conference. The experience of hearing all that great Dixieland music and the exotic eating was wonderful. Bert hopes everyone sent in Annual Giving gifts before the end of June. ...Duncan Rollason sent greetings from Williamsburg, where they were enjoying a five-day trip with other retirees from the Amherst area. They are looking forward to our next reunion. ...Ruthie Coleman Skinner spent April in the Carolinas. She saw John and Betty Reixinger Mettler in Charleston when the dogwood and azaleas were in bloom. They had lunch at the country club with a view of Fort Sumter in the distance. She went on to visit her other sister in North Carolina. Ruthie enjoyed the change from the 50 inches of snow in Danville during February and March. She was able to get in some cross-country skiing during the snow season. ...We made our annual phone call to Coco Farrier Wade on Patriots' Day. Coco was enthusiastic about a recent trip to Ellis Island. She recommends the experience to everyone. ...We congratulate "B.G." Heldman de Veer, who has been "on top of the world" for her Honorable Mention Award by the Keene, N.H., Art Association. Her award-winning oil painting is entitled Together and Alone. B.G. gave her slide lecture on early American painting at the Chester Inn in Chester, Vt., in mid-May. ...Dot Wing Davenport called from Halifax, Nova Scotia. She is enjoying B.G.'s book, Sunlight and Shadows: The Life and Art of William L. Metcalf. ...We received a card from Jean (Dot) Briggs Fisher and we were sorry to hear of her health problems. ...Len Anderson sends regards to all. They hope to get to the 55th—health problems permitting. ...We were saddened to hear of the death of classmate Helen Cole. After Middlebury she received her M.S. in social work from Simmons College. She retired from the Department of Health in Massachusetts in 1971. At the time of her death, she was a resident of the Island Terrace Nursing Home in Lakeville, Mass. ...We were also sorry to hear of the death of Audrey Dimm Foster on February 4, 1993. We remember Audrey fondly and send our condolences to Paul '37 and the family. ...Bob Cushman has been keeping a low profile while making a slow recovery from surgery. He had little Midd news to report, except that our class tree weathered the hard winter in good shape. ...When these class notes reach you, we will be only months away from our 55th Reunion, June 3-5, 1994. Start making plans now!

After a record winter snowfall, Lake Champlain crested in the spring at 101.7 feet, breaking all records and causing millions of dollars in damage. ...Elizabeth Miller Palen had an exciting time in the spring, attending her grandson's graduation from the Air Force Academy in June and then his July wedding in Denver. After all that, a vacation in South Bristol, Maine, was planned. ...Esther Korn Kerscher and Ira made a Lenten Pilgrimage to the Holy Land last March. Their church sponsored the tour and it turned out to be a "once in a lifetime experience." They were looking forward to having two of their grandchildren from Germany visit this summer. Esther says her life is seldom quiet and never boring. ...Don Noonan reports that nothing earth-shaking has happened and that he enjoys the regular routine of life. In mid-May he opens his cottage at Rushform Lake, Allegheny County, N.Y., and in October he closes it for the winter. Two grandchildren were graduating from college and one from high school. ...Regretfully we report the death of Dr. Gordon Ellmers of Fort Edward, N.Y., on April 9, 1993. Gordon graduated from Bogota High School in Bogota, N.J., and entered Middlebury with our class. He subsequently transferred and graduated from the Univ. of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine in 1941. Gordon and wife Claire (Halbach) had celebrated their 50th anniversary on December 12, 1992. He was a member of the Capital District and New York State Veterinary Societies and the American Veterinary Association, a church trustee, a member of the Lions Club, a skier, a hiker and a member of the Eastern Ski Coaches System. A memorial appeared in the Summer issue. ...Remember the great time we had at our 50th? Well, our 55th will be coming along pretty soon, so let's all plan a gala celebration. Please fill out and return your news requests card when you receive one. Otherwise we will have no column!

Tempus fugit! Two years and a bit to go until our 55th Reunion! Begin to think about it and let us know if there's anything special we can do to enhance the occasion for you. Meanwhile, on to the news. George Clark "licked prostate cancer during two hospital stays, T U R and an orchidectomy. Office business stinks, so seriously thinking of retiring." ...Charles De La Vergne had a total hip replacement in Baltimore and then spent the winter with his daughter in Columbia, Md. He's now A-OK and gardening as usual. ...John Hicks, still the devoted scholar, recently edited a memoir of Robert Maynard Hutchins, written by Milton Mayer with a foreword by Studs Terkel. John has also been chosen president of the Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation. For Am lit fans, the unique Jeffers House and Hawk Tower provide a center for poetry and literature extending the Jeffers legacy to American letters. ...John Nugent sent word that Helen Rice Nugent is recovering slowly from a second stroke, while John is also recovering slowly from his second cancer surgery. At present, travel plans are on hold. Their children, John Jr. of McLean, Va., Jeffrey of Toronto, Ont., and Candace of Marshfield, Mass., are all doing well, as are the five grandchildren of whom all are very proud. ...Walt Knight returned to Berkeley, Calif., from Marlborough, N.H., in November to resume parenting Nathaniel (18), who expected to enter Bard College. Their plans for the spring included a trip east in April for sugaring, then on to Washington, D.C., to visit sister Paula Knight Jeffries '45 and to attend the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences. At the end of May, they planned to go to Crete, then Athens, and back to Marlborough in June. Walt admits "it is hard to stop doing physics after all these years," although he claims to have relaxed since retiring. ...Ray Unsworth is alive and well in Burlington, Vt., and fuming at the national administration. Ah well, some of us are happier than others, it seems. ...Jim and Marge Smith Storer spent a "lovely, warm tropical" week in Barbados in April. It was a welcome relief from coping with the rigors of getting around in a walker or crutches in the Maine winter. She is slowly but surely recuperating and, by summer, was busy with many guests. ...Down in Destin, Fla., Ruth "Packy" Packard Jones escaped hurricanes, tornadoes and the many rainy days which other parts of the deep South suffered. She walked the beach every day but one and had lots of guests—some stranded by the Blizzard of '93 as they were about to leave. ...Alice Noppel Knight is a volunteer at the Fairfield Tropical Garden near Miami. Since the hurricane destroyed so much, they have been very busy, reinventorying and remapping every plot. Some trees that were originally presumed dead are reviving, but total recuperation will take years. Hank and Ellie Gillett Blauvelt paid a visit and they had a great chance to catch up. Miggles Whittlesey also came and Alice accompanied her back to Vermont, where she reveled in a Vermont spring after many years. Even those of us who live here revel in it! ...After visiting Alice, Ellie Blauvelt had a cornea transplant. She had had a hip replacement prior to that. All is going very well. She and Hank planned a summer trip to New England followed by a trip to a nephew's ranch in Idaho near the Grand Tetons. They have seven grandchildren, aged 4 to 23. ...Another orthopedic patient is Blair Chase Ohaus. One knee done in '92 and the other a year later in February '93. Just prior to all this surgery, they went to Singapore, Indonesia and Thailand. In late spring '93 they were en route to China. This September they were taking an Alaskan cruise, including a visit to their youngest son and his daughter (age 2) in Sitka. ...Ellen Currie Hill went to the Vermont Music Festival at Midd. Her grandson was in the chorus. Barbara Wells joined her in the audience. Ellen says the young peopl really liked the new Center for the Arts building. ...Margaret Shaub has been on the road again. In February she spent eight days in Europe with a St. Michael's (Vermont) College group which gave concerts in Cologne, Bonn (Beethoven House) and Brussels (home of the American Ambassador). Sightseeing was superb, winding up with three days in Paris. Later in the spring she visited Audrey Hope (Wouters) in Arlington, Va., for several days. While there they had Marge Barkdull and Jane Skillman Sara over for dinner one night. They also took a trip to Williamsburg with Carol Hubbard Newcomb and Olive Holbrook Nagle '39. Shaubie was planning an 11-day trip to Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia in August. Along with entertaining, enjoying the companionship of old and new friends, and taking advantage of the many D.C. area attractions, Audrey is tending her large vegetable garden and contending with the persistent goose grass. ...Jack and Helen "Westie" Burbank were able to make connections with Priscilla and John Hicks at Carmel, Calif., as they motored to the West Coast. Had a wonderful dinner together. ...Ruth Hardy Scheidecker spent 10 days in Tequesta, Fla., with Dodie Lathrop Riggs. Dodie even had Ruth out hitting golf balls. Later, when Ruth was visiting her daughter in S. Burlington, she and Topsy drove to Midd for lunch. It was the time of the spring floods and Otter Creek was magnificent from the footbridge. Ruth and Dodie were in the process of rescheduling their sadly-postponed trip to Milan, Italy.

Santa wants to write them a Christmas letter. Tony's address: 20 Provencher Drive, Plainville, CT 06066. ...Elinor Dickie Rankin had a great trip to Costa Rica with a visit to the rain forest and some bird watching—a perfect place to do it. ...Phil and Betty Blanchard Robinson are busy as usual. Phil chaired the 55th reunion at Northfield-Mt. Hermon. He hoped to get to Maine afterwards to rest. ...A note from Dave Emmons tells us that he and wife Mary are in the second year of a sabbatical in Cambridge, England. Their main mission is to look after the house which serves as headquarters for the Orleans, Mass., Glorias Dei Cantores professional choir when the singers are on tour in England and Europe. Mead Chapel was a focal point during the Middlebury courtship of Charles and Ruth Taylor Clapper, both '42. Unfortunately, disruptions caused by World War II made it impossible for them to be married at Middlebury, so they were married in Claremore, Okla., on February 28, 1943. Fifty years later, the Clappers were back at Middlebury to celebrate the renewal of their vows in a beautiful ceremony in Mead Chapel on July 10, 1993. The reception brunch which followed at Kirk Alumni Center was attended by more than 70 relatives and friends from many states and as far away as the Netherlands. Class Secretaries: Mrs. J.G. Krieble (Amanda Sanborne), 3646 Tolland Road, Shaker Heights, OH 44122, and Dr. S. Peter Nikitas, 41 Stonehenge Road, Pittsfield, MA 01201.

Class Secretary S. Peter Nikitas reports: What a marvelous turnout for the 50th Reunion! Never was the true meaning of "the pleasure of your company" better demonstrated. The regulars, the every-timers, the first-timers made the party a memorable one. Kay Sempepos Silliman and I thank everyone who had any part in making the weekend such a heart-warming event. Most of all it was your presence that made the day. See you at the 55th! Reunion comments speak for themselves. ...Nelson Roberts: "Had a great time renewing friendships at our 50th Reunion. It was really a recharging moment in time." ...Betty Young Ives: "Appreciated and enjoyed all reunion efforts. I'll be visiting my son and his family in Nova Scotia during the summer. Anyone coming to the Vineyard please call. I have plenty of room."...Dorothy Stewart Stein: "Ben and I had a wonderful meeting and vacation in Arizona the week before reunion. It produced the expected sketches and pictures, and I knitted on the sweater. Botanic Gardens, zoo, and Heard Museum." ...Phil Backup: "Great reunion! Retired from medical practice."...Chick Johnson Doe: "Have just had the best reunion weekend! So enjoyed renewing friendships and being proud of the honor our class received at Convocation. The tutoring I did last year paid off. My student will graduate. Pick your own apples starting Labor Day and cut your own Christmas tree in season! ...Louise (Skip) Wilkin Dimond: "The 50th was the best yet. Leaving on the perfect Midd sunny day—May 30—to go back to Connecticut and Cape Cod. Finishing up an active year of 'helping' the theater: will pick up in the fall. Otherwise the usual." ...Dumont Rush: "My first attendance at a class reunion, the 50th, enriched my loose association with the College and renewed friendships with classmates. Peggy and I moved to Chipman Hill upon my retirement after a career in engineering, and now devote most of our efforts in support of the Guiding Eyes for the Blind puppy-raising program. Since 1989 we have coordinated the raising and socializing of 89 pups in northern Vermont and we continue this fun project. ...Mary Hickcox Lecko: "Have just attended my first reunion—my 50th. It was wonderful meeting former classmates, experiencing the unpredictable Vermont weather, especially that glorious last day, and yes, even loving Middlebury College food." ...Harry Walch: "Grateful to be one of the living, and I'd like to continue for several more years." ...Ed Grosvenor: "Not much new. Enjoyed the super reunion. And many thanks to the committee for a great job. My first visit to campus in 25 years was a wonderful experience." ...Robert T. Wood: "First priority now is to continue to recover from a bad back. Second is to await the arrival of a third grandchild. Third is to begin to catch up on about three years of house maintenance." ...John Barmby opines that the reunion was a success. ...Stuart Walker: "'Old friends are good friends.' Fourteen-month-old grandson took first steps. New book on low level wind flow progressing well. Emphasis is on thermal winds: coastal, mountain, valley winds." ...Frank Goldsmith came to the 50th, his first reunion. For the Goldsmiths 1993 has been a great travel year, and it isn't over yet. In March they had a great Elderhostel trip to Sicily. In April they had a trip to Virginia (the Northern Neck) and to North Carolina. They will be visiting friends in England (Cornwall) in August, and will top it all off with a trip to Costa Rica. ...Webster and Carolyn Stanwood Whiting were making plans to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on September 25, 1993. They have two sons, one daughter and five grandchildren. Their summer cottage is on Casco Bay at South Freeport, Maine. They recently enjoyed a trip to Paris and London. ...George Nitchie: "News! News! There's a singing trip this summer with our Weymouth-based chorus to Wales (St. David's), Scotland (Edinburgh), and England (Canterbury). ...Russ and "Bounce" (Margaret Dounce) Dale are still keeping out of mischief, still working and loving it. They take time out for 50th reunions, vacations and other good things. Both are involved in community and church affairs. ...John Lundrigan found the 50th to be a newsworthy event which brought back many wonderful memories. "It also demonstrated that our class has not lost its spirit, in spite of age, war, politics, taxes, etc." ...Al and Lonnie Herron Hadley are still sailing and spending winters in South Carolina. ...Roger Easton says that some years after graduation Red (Dr. John) Barmby asked him a question that resulted, after many other inputs, in the Global Positioning System. "This result shows that often the question is as important as the product." ...Evelyn Young Shepard is already looking forward to the next reunion. ...Bill Hawkes exclaims: "What an absolutely glorious way to celebrate one's first day of semi-retirement!" ...Scott and Lenore (Putt) Wolff Eakeley are looking forward to having a granddaughter enter Middlebury in September 1993. "This starts the third generation of Midd graduates and a good excuse for us to come back once again." ...George H. Grant just managed to celebrate his daughter's wedding in time to come to Reunion. "And a great Reunion it was!" ...Fred Booth: "Just finished moving into our new home, from Duck to Kitty Hawk, N.C. The Outer Banks of North Carolina is the best place to live for swimming, fishing, boating and relaxing for five and a half months of summer life." ...Donald (Chunky) Gale enjoyed the Reunion. "Summer 1993—two Colorado granddaughters to visit us in Tennessee, followed by D. Gale clan 'fourteener' climbing in Colorado. Nine months in Tennessee, three in Winter Haven, Fla., works out fine." ...Elliot (Ed) Baines came up from Florida for Reunion and enjoyed the occasion. He adds: "May 'the strength of the hills is his also' be our guide to keep us healthy and well for that big 60th." ...Scotty Lacey Thornton: "I'm here with Joe, thoroughly enjoying the 50th Reunion. Our entire family—four children, spouses and nine grandchildren—will gather in the mountain resort of Sky Valley, Ga., to celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in August." ...Bing and Ann Cole Byington's new address (as of September 15) is 3394 Eldorado South, Austin, TX 78734. They will continue to summer on Cape Cod. Son Russell and family—wife and two children—recently moved to Austin from California. ...Keith Cranker: "50th Reunion most enjoyable I've ever had. Had a wonderful three weeks at Siesta Key. Had the unhappy task of having to put 98-year-old father in a nursing home." ...Rod Hemphill couldn't make the Reunion. His daughter and son-in-law had invited him and his wife to take a cruise along the inside passage of Alaska's panhandle on dates coinciding with Reunion. "I'll have to enjoy the Reunion vicariously and in retrospect." ...Ed Shea had planned to make it to the 50th but was untracked by a medical problem. He found the yearbook interesting. "It showed a group of achievers who have lived through a very difficult time in history. Our Midd experience did prepare us very well." Ed looks forward to the 55th. ... We regret to report that William Purcell died on March 3, 1993, and was buried in Brandon, Vt., his home town. During WWII, he served in the Army in the European Theater of Operations. Upon his discharge he completed a doctorate in mathematics and taught mathematics at Chicago State Univ. for 40 years, until his retirement in 1988. His memorial appeared in the Summer issue. ...Incoming Class Secretary Amanda Krieble reports: What a splendid party Kay Sempepos Silliman and Pete Nikitas masterminded for '43's 50th Reunion, aided and abetted by the College in the guise of Betsy Gleason '58. Backed up by the '43 handbook edited by Charlotte Johnson Doe and Roger Easton, when one adjusted to the 50-year faces and shapes, the Class of '43 proved to be the class with real class. It was great to be included in the party of the year with 65 percent of the guests on hand. Bob Adsit and Ginny Clemens Lowman led us to the LaFlamme '37 Cup, while Kay and Nick promoted '43 to receive the McCullough Cup. Warm memories will include President John McCardell's hospitality and address to the Class of '43, Vance Richardson's dry presentation of life in Maine, Jane Botsford Armstrong's bust of Robert Frost, Howard Friedman's lecture and slides of mountain climbing in the West, Russ and Margaret Dounce Dale's Then and Now, the Chorus Line on Saturday and Dottie Forsythe Dale's poetry, courtesy of DePodwin publishers. ...Cut and Kay Silliman left to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with their family, as did Jim and Mandy Sanborne Krieble on June 6. The Sillimans look forward to an Elderhostel in Thailand in November. Ed '40 and Bobbie Roberts Ormsby celebrated their 50th on June 5 and look forward to a trip to Switzerland and Austria in September. ...Bill and Yvonne Golding Weinhardt were back for Yvonne's first reunion since graduation. Lunch with Dr. Stephen Freeman and Philippe and Denise Aubuchon Ouellette was a special bonus for their trip from Dallas, Texas. ...Tommie Thompson Smith, bursting with pride at the quality of our class turnout, reports a granddaughter, Magnolia (Maggie) Jennette, born in July 1992. ...Betty Brigham Barrett writes, "Nothing can top this reunion except the weather." Fred and Betty will enjoy good weather at their new winter address: 175 Fairway Drive, Lake Placid, FL 33852. ...Lois Groben Gilmore cordially invites '43 to stop at the Fruitlands Museum in Harvard, Mass., where she is working part time. She and John are enthusiastic about the Alumni College at Bread Loaf in late August. ...Mil Carson Bonow, who returned from Israel and Turkey in time for Reunion, is deciding on an itinerary for '93-'94. ...Having sold her business in Brewster, Mass., Kit (Katherine) Kurtz Hodges crossed the U.S. on Amtrak, visiting family and friends en route, before arriving at our 50th. ...Bob and Ruth DeLong Rude are enjoying their retirement. Ruth is committed to Hospice volunteering. ...Win and Peggy Bowles Smith are preparing for their annual cut-your-own Christmas tree sale which is enhanced by Peggy's mulled cider. The Smiths live on the family farm, as does Anne Willis who has lived her lifetime in her ancestral house in Manchester, Mass. ...Helen Bouck Hildebrandt adds the 50th to her many blessings, which also includes her grandson, Evan. ...Roy and Janet Hooker Laine were returning to their beautiful garden on Cape Cod. In August they were to sail from Rhode Island to New York and up the Hudson River to the Erie Canal, on to Canada and the Saguenay and home to the Cape. ...Jack and Dottie Forsythe Dale's oldest grandson enters Hope College in September. ...Dottie and Jim Clark returned from Italy in time for Reunion. Then they were headed home for a summer of gardening and the Alumni College at Bread Loaf. ...George Steel took time off from training for a trip with his grandson, Shawn Steel, in July. They traveled down the Mackenzie River from Yellowknife, NWT, Canada, to Inuvik on the Arctic Sea. ...Howard Friedman is editing an electronic and hard-copy journal on the philosophy of peace and other global concerns. He would welcome contributions from others in allied disciplines. ...Giles and Nancy Cowgill Zimmerman, who live at Kendall at Longwood, have returned from a trip to England to investigate their Quaker roots. ...Migrants to warmer climates include Bing and Carolyn Cole Byington (Condo #140, Lakeway World of Tennis, Austin, TX 78734), Don Gale (2090 San Marcos Drive SE, #170, Winter Haven, FL 33880), John T. Jensen Jr. (1100 Ponce De Leon Circle, N111, Vero Beach, FL 36290), Elva Tarbell Procopio (337 Oak Harbor, Haines City, FL 33844), Edward F. Shea (Ebb Tide #402, 4493 S. Atlantic, New Smyrna Beach, FL 32069) and Marty Newton VanGaasbeck (2400 S. Ocean Drive, 532 Capstan, Fort Pierce, FL 34949). ...We have new addresses for Armand Annunziata (Rockville Nursing Center, 41 Maine Ave., Rockville Center, NY 11570), Barbara Councell Atwood (P.O. Box 803, Manchester Center, VT 05255), Beatrice M. Barrett (State St., Box 27, Brewster, MA 02631), Rita Smith Burke (still Duanesburg, NY 12056, but new R.D. 1 Box 251), Beth Warner Carney (721 Bay St., #40, Santa Cruz, CA 95060), Robert F. Fulton (Green Mountain Nursing Home, Colchester, VT 05446) David Wood (Nantucket, MA 02554).

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Charles A. Brown (Elizabeth Broadbent), 1190 Princeton Lane, West Chester, PA 19380, and David Stebbins, 5 Brennan Drive, Bryn Mawr, PA 19010.

44's Fabulous 50th in '94!

Charles "Chuck" Baird writes that 1992 was a banner year! A new grandson, a 45th wedding anniversary and a 70th birthday were all celebrated over Christmas week at the Greenbrier Resort with four children, their spouses and their seven children. Platform tennis is one of the activities that keeps Chuck in shape. In March he and his partner won two national platform tennis championships—the 60-plus and the 65-plus. Chuck and his wife enjoyed a Mediterranean cruise which took them to port and inland cities in Italy, France and Spain, as well as Switzerland and Austria. He says that in '93 his age will remove him from his corporate boards but he will remain chairman of the "Navy's Think Tank" and continue as a trustee of Bucknell and two other organizations. ...It was good to hear that Paul Davis will be joining us for our 50th in '94. He is still enjoying the good life in Mexico and his home in Michoacan. ...Mildred Brandner Naugle and her husband had a wonderful trip last year through the Burgundy Canal on a barge. They then toured southwestern France by car making use of those skills learned many years ago when she spent a month there. The Naugles also had a "most enjoyable" reunion with Jean Voss Fenn and her husband at an Elderhostel trip in Maryland. ...Irv and Muriel Roome Wakeman and Charlie and Betty Broadbent Brown were startled to meet at a North Carolina I-95 rest stop in March. All four were returning from a month of leisurely visiting in Florida. Rummy and Irv were en route to Atlantic Beach, N.C., for a little golf with friends before returning home to Wayne, N.J. ...By now we hope that each of you has sent in your autobiographical form (with pictures, hopefully) for our 50th Reunion Yearbook, in response to Tommy Ring Hennefrund and Brick Upham's letter of May 5, 1993. In addition to editors Tommy and Brick, there are nine committee members, several of whom were able to convene at Middlebury in April and August to work on this important project. They are Edie Lee Beckwith, Molly Sparks Cook, Malcolm Collin, Jean Voss Fenn, Pete Harris, Shirley West Johnson, Helen Beardslee Johnstone, Janet Harris de Moll and Hal Parker. Betsy Heath Gleason '58, our 50th Reunion director, commented as follows in her letter to committee members after the April meeting: "Many thanks for returning to Middlebury to help with your Class of 1944 Reunion Yearbook. You take first prize in accomplishing so much in such a short period of time. What a team!" ...You will also be hearing soon from our Class of '44 50th Reunion Gift Committee, being co-chaired by John B. Cadwell and Marjorie Jollivette Manning. By the time you read this, several classmates will have participated in a three-day conference at Bread Loaf, September 16-19, to make plans for activities leading up to and including Reunion on June 2, 3, 4 and 5, 1994, and will have learned firsthand from our new president, students and faculty about what is happening on campus today. ...It is with regret that we report the death of George Wiemann on February 3, 1993, of cancer. While at Middlebury George was active in sports, especially baseball, and a member of Blue Key. He was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, waited on table at Gifford Hall and worked in the College Bookstore. He served as a heavy bomber pilot and received the Distinguished Flying Cross, two Presidential citations and the Air Medal with Oakleaf Clusters. After earning a business degree at Columbia Univ., George spent most of his business career in the motion picture and television industry, and served on various civic and church organizations. A note expressing sympathy on behalf of the class has been sent to his widow, Dolores Balzac Wiemann '46. His memorial appeared in the Summer issue of this magazine.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Winslow Wetherbee Jr. (Barbara Boyden), 1642 18th St., Cuyahoga Falls, OH 44223, and Alan Wolfley, 22 Canaan Close, New Canaan, CT 06840.

Ken Moore of Pittsford, Vt., sent news that he and Martha were spending most of May in France—a familiar haunt to the Moores. On one of their trips Ken visited the University of Grenoble where he studied 45 years earlier, courtesy of the U.S. Army. Leave it to Ken to recall that in March 1942 Midd beat St. Mike's in basketball 47 to 46 and Audrey Nunnemacher Peril and Nikki Lacey Patterson were ski meet winners! ...Howard Quirk, whom many will remember during college days as a stalwart member of the Black Panthers (the dance band), now lives in Montclair, N.J. He is the author of The Living Cathedral: A History and Guide to St. John the Divine, New York's hallmark church and reputedly the world's largest. Published by Crossroad in New York City, Howard's book was to be available this summer. ...Edwin Fancher, a resident of New York City, was one of six psychoanalysts who recently lectured and conducted training classes for 70 health professionals at the Copernicus Academy in Krakow, Poland. ...Al and Jo Higgins Wolfley were recent hosts in their New Canaan, Conn., home to Pete '44 and Barbara Busing Harris '46 during one of Barbara's annual book fair treks. They also hosted Lee VanLeuven Morehouse on the occasion of her visit to New York City. ...Paula Knight Jeffries, Ann Robinson Walker, Alice Frederikson Porter, Betty Casey Wallace, Mary Elizabeth Wisotzkey McClellan, Lee VanLeuven Morehouse and Joanne Higgins Wolfley met for lunch at Sardi's in New York City on a perfect spring day to rekindle old friendships, review the world, grandchildren, travels and our forthcoming 50th Reunion. They were joined by Barbara Rupp Lister '46. This ad hoc group, which has met over the years at the end of April in the theater district (but never on matinee day), is looking to expand—so remember the date and contact any of this year's attendees for particulars. ...Jean Bender Heermans is retired. She is enjoying volunteer work and has been on several trips with her church senior group, including Williamsburg, Charleston and Savannah. She also enjoys visiting her children and six grandchildren. ...Jean Lacey Patterson writes that she is constrained by the thought of our 50th Reunion in '95, for after that it's all downhill! Jean swims one third of a mile in an indoor pool three times a week. She recently enjoyed the iron sculptures at the Guggenheim Museum in New York and went to Longwood Gardens in Pennsylvania. She reports the gardens are vast in scope and design. Jean continues to live with this as her motto, "Dum Vivimus Vivamus."

Leila Taylor Baggett and Howard, of Jacksonville, Fla., had a trip to Middlebury planned for July '93. Leila walks daily, keeps grandson Nicholas whenever she can, does housework inside and out, sews, reads, teaches Sunday school and plays bridge weekly. ...Jane and John Perry are enjoying their retirement in Blacksburg, Va., spending three winter months at Jekyll Island, Ga., and two summer months at their cottage in Franklin, Maine. They travel a lot and recently enjoyed a two-week Elderhostel bicycle trip in the Loire valley of France. Sounds good! ...A note from Savina Vicini Brooks includes very sad news. Her son, Robert, was killed in a helicopter crash two years ago. He was Eric Clapton's agent and was in the crash that killed Stevie Ray Vaughn. Separate from this tragedy, Savina herself retired in 1992 and has become housebound with emphysema. She will be unable to make our reunion but says she often thinks of Middlebury. She is a crossword and jigsaw puzzle addict and keeps herself entertained with them. Our thoughts go out to you and your family, Savina. ...An inspiring note from Winifred White Nucho: "Although retired, my husband who is a physician and I are spending eight months each year back at the hospital in Hammana, Lebanon, assisting where needed. Lebanon is now peaceful and a great place to live. The sea is beautiful and so are the mountains. So also are the people, and they are in need. We help where we can and are grateful for the privilege!" She sends her love to all. ...Ann Curry Munier reports that she and Emile are enjoying their new condo home, with golf and tennis right outside their door. "We don't miss the house and landownership that took so much time and energy before. We're still near family and had a happy ski weekend at Stratton in March to celebrate my husband's 70th birthday. We were 17 immediate family—all skiing, except three babies and one non-skiing husband." ...I wish I could include in its entirety an incredible letter from Jeanne Picard Johnson. It was written in December 1992 and covers travels ranging from vacationing in the Virgin Islands to time in Sweden and Denmark, plus high school reunion time. "Pic" and her husband, Arthur, have spent a lifetime involved with the American Field Service and it has given them a worldwide spread of friendships. In September 1992 they and friends from abroad toured New York, New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and Washington, D.C. En route, they visited Ozzie and Betsy Barclay Wales and Jack and "Etta" Miriam Edmunds LeBaron. Another trip to New York City for 10 days was followed in October by a four-week stay in Egypt—including Islamic, Coptic, ancient and modern Cairo, the pyramids, mosques, churches, museums, Memphis, Sakkara, Luxor, Aswan and Aby Simbel. Then three days at the Siwa Oasis near Libya, stopping also at the World War II cemeteries near Alamein.

Everywhere they went they spent time with the people, being invited into their homes and having meals with them. It sounds like a wonderful way to travel, with the opportunity to absorb the culture bringing an extra depth to the experience. ...I (Sheila Schmidt Rowland) had the pleasant surprise of meeting Lois Brigham Selnau in the checkout line of central Connecticut's most excellent food store in Farmington, where Lois lives. She is another grandmother who has the daily opportunity of being with her grandchildren. "Briggie" is involved with adult education at her church and continues as a class agent for Midd. She and Connie Smith Carpenter were celebrating their 50th high school reunion in Burlington, Vt., in June 1993. ..."Etta" Miriam Edmunds LeBaron has had a difficult time since she and Jack were at our reunion. She lost both her father and stepmother during 1991-92 and Jack was hospitalized with emphysema for a considerable period. Jack was recently fitted with a pacemaker, which is periodically checked via telephone/computer in Bloomfield, Conn. The wonders of technology! She has retired and she and Jack are considering a move south, possibly to Virginia where two of their children live. The winter of 1992-93 got to them, as to many of us in the north country. They have six grandchildren ranging in age from 3 to 20. ..."Breezie" Marilyn Arey McGeehan writes of a wonderful trip to Hawaii, staying with "Cas" Mary Caswell Jones. They visited Becky Fraser Cremer and Tom on the Hilo side of Hawaii. Cas, who is described as being a wonderful tour guide, showed her every inch of the big island and they also flew to Maui and visited Cas' daughter, Dorrie. Breezie then went on to Honolulu for a three-day tour of Oahu, swimming at Waikiki Beach, watching the "orange sun go down" while enjoying a maitai. Vava Stafford Brown was there at the same time on what she calls the "granny gallop," but plans to get together with Breezie didn't work out. However the Hilton Head gathering occurred in April with Va and Ross Brown, Breezie and Jack McGeehan, Cas, "Cam" Joan Campbell Shaw and Doug joining Cindy Darby Westmoreland and Neal. Bill and I missed the cut, so to speak. My son, Greg '79, and his wife had twin daughters on April 22 and son David received his master's from Antioch New England on May 1. Those two most happy events kept us from one of our favorite times with Middlebury friends. ...A telephone call to Elaine Gavagan Eichorn in Charlotte, N.C., elicited the news that the youngest of her six, Martha, was married in Chicago over the fourth of July weekend. Elaine keeps in touch with Phyllis Hewson Evans and reports that she is well. Jane Laux Holt and "Terry" Schnyder Jarrell visited her last year and they had a great reunion. ...Word has arrived from the College of the death of Steve Spear in February 1993. I spoke with Steve not too long ago and included his news in a recent issue of the magazine. I know that those of us who knew him well will want to send our condolences to his widow, Shirley.

Class Secretaries: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kellogg (Marya Steele), 7 Murdock Court, Middlebury, VT 05753.

As your new secretaries we want you to know that we did not seek this position, nor were we ever nominated or elected by Robert's or any other rules. We are eminently unqualified, as neither of us has taken any secretarial course, and we are both poor typists. Still, in the tradition of those who have served—Fran Van Cleve Smith and Stew Washburn, Bob Andersen, Bunny Lehman Stillman, Ben and Judy Friend Bradley (10 years!) and how many others (?)—we will put our hands to the typewriter. Congratulations to our class for winning the Gordon C. Perine '49 Cup at Reunion! This cup is awarded to the Reunion class (other than the 25th and 50th) that has contributed the largest gift. The amount we contributed was $23,900, with 61 percent of the class participating! Thanks to all who participated and to the '48 Reunion Gift Committee for their efforts. The committee included Perry Maurer Thompson (chair), Adele "Stemmy" Stemmler Taylor, Jean Huey Gustafson, Nan Weale McGuire and the late Don McGuire, Nancy Cheesman Baetzhold, Robert Andersen, Jack Kofoed, Sanders Rosenberg and Stew Washburn. The reunion booklet you all received by mail included news which Fran had received by her deadline. What arrived afterward was sent here and we put it out as addenda. Those of you who went through the formidable registration line of locals—Trish McCabe Perkins, Judy Friends Bradley, Bunny Lehman Stillman—have your copy. You may skip below. All others read on. ...Leonard Chernus: "We are retired and seeing our magnificent country in our motorhome. Will miss 45th as we're on way to Alaska with grandsons. ...Janet Edwards: "Enjoying retirement for 11 years after working at Rochester, N.Y., Public Library. Very busy, living in my childhood home and fixing it to my artistic taste." ...Eleanor Flanagan Branch: "Retired three years ago from Duke's faculty (physical therapy dept.), cared for my mother in her last years. Now busy with grandchildren (dance, skating), also a teacher aide in granddaughter's class (so different from college students). They're great." ...Iris Forst Brucks: "Retiring after 27 years as librarian in children's residential center, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. We have traveled extensively in Europe and Far East. Enjoy four grandchildren. ...Louis Gerlitz Ebner: "Still enjoying volunteer work at 'John Onkerberg Show,' editing TV programs and books for the organization. Vacationed recently at Phuket, Thailand and Chian Mai with its Hmong and hill tribes on the Myanmar border. If in Tennessee, drop by." ...Mary Forbes Hawkins: "Last September we moved to a new senior retirement community near our former home. Husband Bill now living in nursing center there. Thankful for great supportive friends. I visited daughter and family in Dallas and roommate Betty Colladay Sword." ...Charlotte Hoose Murphy: "I'm still working part time and Jim is still harvesting and selling hay. We are now great-grandparents—not really ready for that! We drove to Michigan to visit daughter and see her work in Ann Arbor Flower Show. We're planning a 45th anniversary trip to Ireland and, of course, reunion in May." ...Irmy Nierhaus Stebbins: "Dave and I enjoy contacting classmates of 'yore' as co-chairmen of Reunion '44 and '48. We expect to see many of you at both events. Life has been good except that many dear Philadelphia friends are retiring and moving to other states, some to Vermont. Another excuse for going there. We have three children and three grandchildren. One son lives near, others in Connecticut and Colorado." ...Gloria Tanner Assie: "My news is sad and glad. My husband passed away shortly before our son married a lovely Normandy girl. Now I have a beautiful grandson. I retired in 1991 after working as office manager for Boeing, Paris—31 years. I crisscrossed the U.S. for seven weeks last summer. I am grateful to be blest with the joy-of-my-life grandson." ...Lawrence Willard: "Retired 1990 as associate prof. of media at Manchester Community College. Continuing freelance writing and photo. Contributing editor Yankee magazine. Live with wife Helen in Yalesville, Conn. Four daughters (hospital MD, psychologist, industrial educator, electronics worker), five grandchildren, one pesky cat." ...Bob and Bushy Steele Kellogg: "Here we are, retired, back where our wonderful college years together began. Like us, both the College and town have matured with some qualities better and some worse. We enjoy so many wonderful activities, clean air, friendly people in this picturesque setting. And we will walk (maybe jog) to Reunion." ...REUNION NEWS: For those of us who were there, it was a bittersweet event with 45 years of compressed news and recollections of four sweet years. Credit your committee: Irmy Nierhaus Stebbins, Stew Washburn, Sue Cooke Turnbull, Fran Van Cleve Smith, Dick Caswell, Trish McCabe Perkins and many more. We are beholden to Joan Todd of the Alumni Office for her talents and efforts. By our count, 67 came for the whole program (with husbands, wives, companions) and probably a dozen more for dinner. We enjoyed visiting with Prof. Erie and Mary Volkert (remember those wonderful plays in that primitive playhouse?) and Prof. Emory and Diana Egbers Fanning '71 (remember the alumni choir singing that seven-fold amen we heard every Sunday 1944-48?). ...NEWS COLLECTED AT REUNION: At last, a missive from the real Frank Nash (cajoled from him by Dick Caswell: "Age cannot wither me, nor custom stale my infinite varieties, tho' I'm old and gray and full of sleep." (signed) Sagacious Ignacius, Bishop of Antioch. He has spent 30 years as English chairman at Albany Academy, with 20 as visiting lecturer at Russell Sage. ...Roy Wilcox, now widowed and retired from district insurance manager in Connecticut, lives next to Wethersfield and does what most retired people do: rise, eat, read news, putter, volunteer for worthy causes, exercise, eat, sleep. He looks in fine shape. ...Niels Fischer does something with or for insurance companies. He has parlayed this into trips into London (expense paid) where he talks to Lloyds while wife Ginny shops at Harrods. They look very well and, with this life, why not? ...Those who read the business pages find that more and more employees take work home and stay there. Jack Hale is a case: He works at home with his computer doing software in the little town of Auburn, near Sacramento. Push a key and work appears in main office. Former jobs: architectural photographer, back-pack trip leader from Mexico to Canada. ...Marcey (Shirley March) Randall has not been to our reunions before. Yet she remembered so many people and adventures that she was delighted. Her husband also had a great time. Marcey taught high school English until a daughter signed up for law school. For those legal fees Marcey turned to real estate and doubled her income. ...What would Bob Andersen do in retirement? Volunteer, of course. He has done much for the historical society in Troy. With his interest in English as a second language, he is finding many orientals and Russians in the Troy area who need help in English (proof that the U.S. is becoming more multicultural). As a director of a nursery school he was assigned to give a speech at graduation. A small child on seeing him said, "I hope he doesn't speak very much." ...Jean Webster Skoien has been to reunions regularly, partially to enjoy the Green Mountains. She is considering exchanging her Florida flatlands for the Northwest or the Northeast. ...Peg Curtis Burckes would love to sell a fine early American home near Montpelier and move to Middlebury where the skiing is free. Send any inquiries or offers to her. ...Sandy Rosenberg was one of those slightly familiar faces with a legitimate '48 badge. Come to find out he lived off campus. That shows how reunions 45 years later help us to meet each other! He lives in Sacramento and travels to universities for Aero-Jet. Come again, Sandy. ...Slats Slater was in fine fettle at reunion with white hair and beard. For news he sent a resume to Stew, so if any of you want a "Human Factors Psychologist" call or write to him. Or perhaps visit his nice location on the East River in NYC. ...Swapping stories at Reunion about those golden years, we heard some worth retelling. We expect to hear from Sally Finley Burton, Joan Tyler Gilbert, Seab Short and Janet Goeltz Robinson, who left before we could corner them that wonderful day at the Thompsons' with old classmates and the magnificent view across Lake Champlain. Do send your stories. New secretaries require considerable support. What do you think of your aging Alma Mater? Who was your most memorable professor and why? Without your copy we will manufacture some!

While class secretary Polly Asworth Anderson was recuperating from surgery, Bob Trimmer, your other class secretary, was back for Reunion '93. (Wife Kaye Sturges Trimmer '48 may have had something to do with that!) While Bob scouted out locations and activities for next June—our 45th!—Kaye visited with former classmates. Prexy John McCardell gave an inspiring talk at the Alumni Convocation honoring the 50th reunion class. Equally inspiring were the three members of the class of 1923 back for their 70th! Both secretaries would like to have your ideas and suggestions for the 45th Reunion next June. Send anything you come up with to either of us at the above addresses. Also, any nominations for class secretary, PLEASE. ...As usual, Gordie Perine was much in evidence during the reunion weekend. Starting July 1, Gordie is semi-retired from his position as senior development officer of the College, shifting to a half-week schedule. He and Alice '47 will still be at 22 South Street to welcome returning alums. ...Bob Seixas and wife Norma are busy raising their granddaughter, Angelina, who is almost five years old. Bob claims she keeps them young! Bob, who is still involved with the annuity business, has been playing with a 20-piece rehearsal band called "Old Kids on the Block." Al Jakeman and Bill Tracy '51 have been in touch with Bob, hoping to form a small combo for the '49ers reunion next year. Seix (11 Adams Drive, Randolph, MA 02368) would like to hear from any ex-Black Panthers who are interested in playing. Bob is also the C.O. of a 68-member association of ex-Navy aviators. ...Don Craig retired in 1990 as comptroller for a three-county mental health center in northern Vermont. Don lives in Newport, Vt., a rural area with a state college nearby, plus St. Johnsbury Academy. Active in the Unitarian Universalist Church, he also serves as secretary for the Synapse Society, a discussion group made up of business professionals. Don occasionally sees Andy Pepin '50, who is still lawyering in Newport. ...Ben Bond sounded a lot closer than Honolulu, where my phone call caught him in the shower. He's recovering from a broken rib incurred while wrestling with a heavy vine in his yard. Ben was chairman of the board of Territorial Savings Bank until his retirement 10 years ago. Recently he has gotten involved in developing new crops for the family's 740-acre macadamia nut farm. According to Ben, the bottom has dropped out of the macadamia nut market! Ben and wife Mary Mae have three sons. Ben reports that fellow Hawaiian Tom Metcalf has retired from teaching and is very active in the Nature Conservancy. Janet Hubbard Metcalf '48 is still teaching. Ben reads about Anita Liptak, editorial director of the Tongg Publishing Co. We had a good time chatting about Ben's Midd pals Chuck Pope, Bob Harris and Jack Valentine. Jack is chairman of the board of Boston Univ. Hospital, serves on the Health Policy Institute, and is director of Entrepreneurial Management, which provides seed money for worthwhile innovative medical applications. Jack and wife Betty own a 185-acre spread in Carlisle, Mass., where they raise and breed Hereford cattle. Although none of Jack's seven children seems to be interested in becoming farmers, his four-year-old grandson is "crazy about it." ...Reunion '93 attracted Kyle and E.J. Barker '48 Prescott, familiar faces on campus. Kyle completed his term as trustee of the College in June. He and E.J. moved to Toronto (from Montreal) about a year ago. They also have a home in Middlebury which helps them maintain strong ties to the College. ...Dave and Perry Maurer '48 Thompson hosted a brunch for the reunees of the Class of '48 at their home in Panton, Vt., on the nicest day (weatherwise) of the weekend. The outdoor party afforded the guests a view of Lake Champlain and the Adirondacks. A term trustee of the College, Dave is on the board of directors of Porter Hospital and recently served as chairman of their building committee. ...Virginia Dunn Beach and her husband "appreciate gifts of good health; time for friendship, reading and study; the opportunity to tutor; proximity to fine free musical and dramatic programs; and our family." Her mother is quite well at 101 years in Concord, N.H. Their daughters live in five states rearing their children—in two cases, home schooling them. ...Beverly Dutton Treibs and husband Herold made a major decision when they agreed to close on the sale of their Richland, Wash., home in December 1993. They had previously planned to retire there. Westinghouse transferred Herold from Richland to Idaho Falls in 1987. They now own a cabin in Island Park, 40 miles south of West Yellowstone, Montana, and near Henry's Fork River, home of bald eagles. In the winter, they ski from the deck. Bev has been involved in St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Idaho Falls and the United Methodist Women. Recently, she joined a steering committee to learn how their 200-member church can work with a 75-member church as a local mission. Bev has visited an elderly woman in a retirement center for five years, doing personal service because the woman has no local relatives. Bev knows the importance of these efforts because Middlebury residents Kay Beers and Dave Washburn check on and make it possible for Bev's 91-year-old mother to live alone. Bev visited her at the end of April. ...After having six granddaughters, Tom '51 and Marilyn Mulholland Jacobs received congratulations on the birth of their first grandson, John Thomas Jacobs, in March 1993 in Salt Lake City, Utah. His proud parents are Susan and John F. Jacobs '78. Marilyn says: "See you at our 45th reunion!" ...Genevieve Karmazyn Capozzoli, who retired from a New York City law firm in January 1993, has relocated to Richmond, Va. ...Ruth Davis Kaufman, after six years as a political science/history editor at Yale Univ. Press, moved to Washington, D.C., in 1969 with her husband, Herbert Kaufman, a political scientist who was leaving a Yale professorship to join the Brookings Institution. Since then, she has done occasional free-lance editing, but has devoted more time to volunteer activities: deacon, trustee and moderator at various times in two churches; a reader for Recording for the Blind since 1978; volunteer and member of the board of directors of the Creative Arts Workshop in New Haven, to which she and Herb returned in 1986. She enjoys walking, swimming, cross-country skiing and returning to Vermont as frequently as possible, usually in the summer. Not much foreign travel except for visiting her brother, Paul Davis '44 and wife, who live in the beautiful city of Morelia, Mexico. She keeps in touch with Dot Britton Mauk and Betty Linsley. ...Constance Kelly Law retired in 1989 from a seasonal job at a local wholesale nursery. She enjoys travel, skiing, golf, boating, swimming, reading and gardening. She and Duncan summer at their camp in Embden, Maine. For the past three winters they have skied at Banff and look forward to returning in 1994. Another annual winter trip is to the beaches of the west coast of Puerto Rico. Each of their two children has two children, for whom Connie and Dunc babysit when needed. Their son, Duncan Jr., is Midd '77. Connie keeps in touch with Mickey Clarke Sharp, Pat Riley Sweeney, Betty Chappell Klischer and Joel and Bambi Ellsworth '50 Lamere. ...Judy Mitchell Plummer and Betty Linsley see each other at the meetings of the Board of Governors of the Connecticut Society of Genealogists. Judy has less time for genealogy now that she is the primary caregiver for her mother, Helen Littlejohn Mitchell '24. ...Jean Holmberg Sutherland and her husband retired from his consulting actuarial firm at the end of 1990. She had worked with Jack since 1977. They have traveled 65,000 miles since January 1991 and met their goal of being in every county of the continental states in September 1992 when they entered Carter County, Montana. They were headed to Alaska, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories in summer 1993 and plan to visit every county of the Canadian maritime provinces by late 1993 or early 1994. In spring 1993, they traveled to Arizona via Florida. Another event of the summer was a week at Chatauqua to be with Pat McFarland Bowers and Mary Hosford Cathcart and her husband, Will. They visited Ellen Taussig six months before the California earthquake devastated her cozy and charming home. Two children and a son-in-law are Midd graduates. All four children live within 150 miles, but since their retirement traveling, "home is wherever they touch base."

There are eight grandchildren, six girls and two boys, ranging from 3 to 12 years. Jean has held all offices of the Worcester Women's Midd Club and of the PTA; served as a Girl Scout leader, hospital volunteer and United Way Women's chairperson.

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Robert Kingsland (Elly Flett), Foster Hill Road, West Brookfield, MA 01585, and Mrs. F. R. Young (Anna Sherwood), 24 Whitehall Ave., Edison, NJ 08820.

Vermont District Court Judge George Ellison stepped down from the bench in February 1993. A native of rural northern Pennsylvania, where he attended a one-room school for eight of his early school years, George served in a naval construction battalion during World War II and took part in the campaign to secure the Japanese island of Okinawa. On his return he attended Midd and then Cornell Law School, returning to Vermont in 1953. During his 23 years on the bench he saw and effected many changes in the law and took a particular interest in protecting the rights of women and children. George's first wife, Nancy, died in 1985. Three years later he married Molly Lofgren. He has two sons, a daughter, a stepdaughter and a stepson. One of his sons has been enthusiastic about birds since about age five and is now pursuing a doctorate in ornithology. Equally enthusiastic on the same subject, George will now be able to devote more time to birdwatching and plans to put together a book on birds. He also plans to continue his education, taking college courses in music, art literature, philosophy and religion. ...Al Craz "continues immersed in litigation as a paralegal on Long Island." When he wrote, he and Jo were preparing to "do" Alaska in an RV, fishing and exploring in Denali and Kenai Peninsula. ...Don Baker's wife, Diane, died unexpectedly on December 29, 1991. His daughter, Meredith, a Midd 1988 graduate, is an intern-student at the Circle in the Square, off Broadway; daughter Susan graduated from Western Connecticut State College. Don is still at the Ridgebury Congregational Church. ...Christine White Man has owned Chris' Cleaning Service (a commercial cleaning service) for 14 years, employing approximately 20 people. She is also on the faculty of the Music and Arts Center for the Handicapped and runs a program for them in Stamford and New Canaan, teaching basic music and piano. She is planning to move in the near future to St. Augustine, Fla. ...Jean Simmons Arnold's first great-grandchild was born March 5, 1993. Jean quips she "always was a great grandmother, hence no change in status." Since her retirement, Jean claims she does nothing, which is more time consuming than working, and she never knows when she's finished. "Last summer we traveled the Mediterranean and Black Seas. This spring we do the Panama Canal and next summer Alaska." ...To celebrate retirement, Lon Eustis and wife Anne took a winter vacation trip to Honduras to visit their son, Dick. Dick has run a water-rafting business in Colorado for 10 years and lately, during the summer, in Honduras. Lon and Anne "took an exciting trip down a boulder-strewn river with him. About 40 miles off shore there are three islands surrounded by coral reefs. People come from all over the world to snorkel and scuba dive. People are friendly and the best hotels cost $35." [Secretarial note: When I finish with Alaska and the Mediterranean I'll be right over!] ...Paul Skudder married Elizabeth (Betsy) Jayne in December 1992. They took off on a wedding and golf trip to New Zealand in February. Paul is still working part time at New York Hospital after a bilateral knee replacement in 1991-92 and is still repairing Hurricane Andrew damage (and playing golf) at Ocean Reef in Key Largo. ...Andy Namm's daughter, Whitney, is college bound in 1994, and Andy was "about to visit campus and get an education! Hopefully Midd will be on her list of choices." He wishes Fred Neuberger were still involved: "At this stage, Fred, I wish I didn't have to be involved either!" ...James P. and Mildred Moore '46 Sheehan are both retired. The number of grandchildren "seems to have leveled off at 15." They too have their first great-grandchild. ...We're sad to report the death of Leonard Rice of New Hanover Township, Pa., on April 18, 1993. His memorial appeared in the Summer issue of this magazine. ...Called Dave Wallace to say hello after seeing his picture in a recent F.W. Dodge report of "Major Players on the Central Artery Project" (Boston). Dave's firm, Wallace, Floyd Associates, is responsible for the architecture, urban design and planning for that project. He has no plans as yet to retire because, as he says, "architects are late bloomers, and they have to work longer." Dave is active in Midd-Net and has offered advice and a helping hand to alums, students and children of alums. He and his wife, June, have three children and three grandchildren. They recently enjoyed a trip to Japan with daughter-in-law Heidi and son Gordon '82, who is an architect living in Hawaii. Their daughter, Susan, lives on the Cape with her two children and husband, who built a home in Westport for the Wallaces. Son number two works for BayBank in Boston and has one daughter. The Wallaces get together for an occasional reunion with Maurice and Priscilla Powell Lauridsen, as they are all former classmates from high school days in Queens. ...Thanks to all who send along their news! The women of '50 are not as great at corresponding as the men it would seem. Admittedly there are fewer women than men in our class, but come on gals, we'd like to hear from you. Let's get a little networking going here!

Class Secretaries: Helen (Reid) and John Gilmore, 128 Bungalow Ave., Greenfield, MA 01301.

William A. and Lois Rapp '50 McIlwain still live in Malvern, Pa. Now retired, Bill spent many years as VP and director of personnel for Grey Advertising. Lois is employed one day a week, as advertising director of Main Line Parking Rentals. Their son, Rob, has two boys (1-1/2 and 4) and lives nearby. Daughter Shari has a daughter (6-1/2) and lives in Lafayette, La. They planned a drive to Louisiana in February, hopefully in time for the Mardi Gras. ...One further note to add to the list of Betty Nelson Esterson's activities in the Summer issue: Betty is also on the Council of the Open University and the Royal Society for Arts, Manufacturer and Commerce. ...Eleanor Wampler Majer, now divorced, reports that her two adult children, Ned and Lynn, are both married with two children each. She keeps in touch with Middlebury roommate Caroline (Stevie) Wheeler. Eleanor is still an accounts administrator for a direct mail service in Front Royal, Va. Although this is a long commute, Eleanor feels that at her age it would be hard to make a change. ...Polly Upson Kahler is gradually recovering from a six-vessel coronary bypass surgery performed during summer 1992. This surgery was, unfortunately, complicated by heart failure and diabetes. Husband Fred is also recovering from the repair of an aortic aneurysm in 1991. They enjoy gardening and computer programming, and Polly is still an avid genealogist. ...Don Axinn reports that his fifth volume of poetry, Dawn Patrol, was published in November of 1992. A bilingual book, the poems are in Italian and English. He also notes that he has attained his pilot's instrument rating which suggests that we may anticipate evening flights over the campus at our 45th in 1996. ...Russ Wyman is semi-retired from the Twin States Distributing Co., distributor of maintenance products to nursing homes and hospitals. Russ, who lives in Richmond, N.H., does some surf fishing off the coasts of Long Island, New York and Nauset Beach, Mass. The Wymans have two children who live nearby. Russ also does oil paintings and has some of his works hanging in various shops in the local recreation areas. Doug Ladd, who lives in Walpole, N.H., has been on Russ' "to see" list. ...Latest word from Len Inskip is that "there is a piece in the Addison Independent on how the highway engineers are screwing up Route 125 from East Middlebury to Ripton. I think Len is telling us that it is going to take longer to get to Ripton from Burlington Airport to visit his mother. ...Dick Perry just left my office (we are two of the non-retirees) with the news that he skied in the Killington Mountain Dew runoff race. He was pleased with his performance, coming in third and almost second (I will not reveal the number of entries). Anyway, he met Tom Jacobs who did not enter the race, even though his skis were honed to perfection with a reliable racing gadget. Dick and Tom enjoyed the recreational skiing. ...News from Tom Jacobs: "After six granddaughters—finally a grandson. John Thomas Jacobs (class of 2011) was born to Susan and John F. Jacobs '78 this March in Salt Lake City, Utah." Tom expects to see us at the 45th Reunion. ...Gordie Perine '49 gave us an update on the Class of 1951 Fund which was established in 1976 at the 25th Reunion. The income from this fund is to be used in support of financial aid, with preference given to children of Middlebury alumni from middle-income backgrounds. As of February 25, 1993, the principal in our class scholarship fund was $77,902.68. As of this writing we do not know the 1993 recipient of the scholarship. ...Betty Gale Woods is still active in Northgroup, Inc., one of Vermont's larger banks. The number of banks has shrunk dramatically in Vermont, as in the rest of New England. Betty says there are only five major banks in Vermont now. Betty is chairman of the board of the Vermont Health Association and is also active in the Vermont Chapter of the American Red Cross. She and Joe went to Corpus Christi, Texas, and to Jupiter, Fla., last winter. Betty has seen Bill and Phyl Cole Deming only in passing. She has seen the family of the late Judge Albert Coffrin '41, whose obituary appeared on the inside front cover of the Middlebury Magazine, Spring 1993 issue. Judge Coffrin was the father of three Middlebury graduates who frequently join Betty for tennis. We remember Betty's skills at the 40th Reunion. ...Gail Haskins Bogie is still (21 years) a clinical social worker at the hospital in Torrington, Conn. Although Gail is working on plans for retirement in December 1994, she can't seem to finalize anything as yet. Since the Bogies have a vacation house on a lake, much of their free time is spent on normal upkeep. Gail was planning to attend a Buddhist wedding in Colorado in July. She noted that the bride would require eight changes of clothing. She hoped to connect with Gretchen Storer Evans while in Denver. ...While talking with Neil Myers a year ago he asked about Louis "Jeff" Francisco. Here you are, Neil! Jeff spent 61 days skiing last winter and was still counting, as of April 15. Although most of the skiing was in Vermont, Jeff did ski at Lake Tahoe in California. In between ski trips he played golf in Pinehurst, N.C., and at home in Long Island, N.Y. Jeff says that "retired life is almost as good as the years at Middlebury in the early '50s." ...My office assistant, Tina Canon, who lives in Leverett, Mass., near Amherst College, brought a baseball bat to my office a few days ago. While rototilling her garden, she had uncovered a Stan Musial "Louisville Slugger"—and it was embossed with "Middlebury College!" I can only assume that one of the Amherst coaches needed a souvenir of a game between Amherst and Middlebury. Since Stan was in his prime during our class years, we can only speculate as to whom the bat—a venerable observer of times past!—belonged. I anticipate auctioning off this piece of memorabilia at our 45th Reunion. Potential buyers should include Wendy Forbes, Ed Coppinger, Mike Hunt, Paul Farrell, Jack Mulcahy, Ken Provoncha and Jim Latimer.

Dick Ragle is "mostly semi-retired," but still consults occasionally. When called upon, he teaches geology courses at local colleges and universities and at the academic centers of the two Anchorage-area military bases. He's enjoying the escapades of grandchildren in sports and arts and for relaxation retires to his woodworking shop to "putter, design, and build." Dick exhorts us to "Visit Alaska! Try it! You'll like it!" ...Ernie Tanner has retired after 35 years in education as an elementary school teacher, a junior and senior high school teacher of English and mathematics, and 20 years as chairman of the math and business departments in Smithtown, N.Y. He is enjoying golf, fishing and hunting, as well as life in general with wife Virginia, who continues to teach French at Middlebury's Summer School. ...Carol Annable Bastian is still a customer service representative for a national insurance program for yacht clubs. She is president of the local animal welfare league and likes to read, garden, walk, bike and swim. Carol said that "in addition to a three-year-old grandson, Justin, we are now grandparents of twins!" This year they also celebrated birthdays for the other generation: her dad's 90th and her mom's 92nd. ...When Dot Deyerberg Ajemian wrote, she was "going to dinner with the President and meet the 1,000 other Midd alums reputedly living in the Carolinas." She says that her personal data is "same husband, three daughters, two grandchildren, happy retirement." ...Joan Taylor MacHatton said that she was "on the eve of retirement" from teaching for the past 25-plus years, mostly in South Bend. By the time of publication, we hope you've reached the goal! Joan says that her retirement plans are to sleep late. "Some might consider it vegetating, but I consider it heaven." Your correspondent agrees. I do not miss the 6:30 a.m. alarm! Since leaving Midd, Joan has lived in several states and Panama, but mainly Indiana. She and her husband, Joe, have three sons, all married, and six grandchildren. ...Jean Vaughan Varney has a new address: 601 Wilkes St., Alexandria, VA 22314. She says that she is loving the "city" life, having made the "long overdue, big step" of a move into the historic Old Town after 20 years of residence "in the 'burbs" on land that once was George Washington's #2 pig farm. Before those 20 years, Jean had made 15 moves between 1953 and 1972. She finds herself busy and happy, in spite of the situation of "trying to make a go of a real estate career in a bad (but improving) market!" ...Jonna Mauritzen Durden has the "same new job" as a teacher of the emotionally handicapped. She's been 20 years with the public school system, likes her work, and feels she's not ready to retire yet. Her travels have included China (once) and Europe (several times). Jonna has been teaching during the summer lately, so has not had time for traveling. Her husband, Leon, has retired from the USMC as a M/Sgt. She has five grown children and four grandchildren. ...Rosemary Dellinger Garner says that she regretted missing reunion, but "we were slaving over French at Am. Univ. of Paris." They took the QE II home and then went on a container ship to South America. She suggests, "If you want a really terrific 37-day cruise, try the Ivaran Lines' M/S Americana." Rosemary adds that she was glad to hear that Emmy Webb Leavitt had found their retirement home in Maine. Your turn, Emmy. Let's hear about the new location! ...Barbara Osborne Lyon wrote that "1992 was good and bad." Joe had expected to retire, but had a heart attack first. However, after the "doctors at Loyola fixed him up, he retired and seems to be in great shape now." They're traveling often and playing a lot of golf, with no time for tennis anymore. Barbara says that they have five grandchildren, who are their greatest delight. ...Jane Rupp Cooke was named to the 1993 U.S. Alpine Masters Ski Team as a result of her performance at the U.S. Alpine Masters Championships at Mammoth Mt., Calif., in March 1992. There she received medals in all three events: downhill, slalom and giant slalom, in Women's Class 8, which gave her the overall combined first place. This year in March, at the Masters' National Championships at Jackson Hole, Wyo., Jane did it again! She won the Women's Class 8 Downhill and Combined events. Jane says that "it was a very close and exciting series," as she won by less than two FIS points over Betsy Strong Kent '53. Congratulations to you both! The Cookes returned to Marblehead via Sun Valley and Canada.

Class Secretaries: Mr. and Mrs. David Clemens (Carol Jennings), P.O. Box 962, Hallstead, PA 18822.

Hooray for our 40th—a truly grand reunion! Three cheers for the 60 classmates and their 30 friends and spouses who joined the celebration! The Alumni Office says that 24 percent attendance is a good turnout for a 40th, but we missed the no-shows. If you weren't there, where were you? We missed you. Registration at Stewart Hall, "our dorm," was a bit odd for your new class secretaries (who also, to be truthful, hadn't been back on the Hill for a while). Who were all these strange folks? Furtive glances at name tags brought recognition, then laughs. What fun to meet again so many years later! We each received a neat Middlebury sweater vest, designed by Ceddie Sherrer and Gale Shaw. Some members of another class asked if they could join '53 to get vests! Reunion co-chairs Irv Morris and Pat Hamilton Todd organized a gala dinner Friday night at the Dog Team, where they still know how to make the great sticky buns! Guests included Fran and Henry Prickett and Chaplain Scott, to whom—as you may remember—we dedicated our year book. Saturday morning brought a real Vermont breakfast, our class picture (the sun peaked out just in time) and finally the traditional academic procession to Convocation with a fine address by President McCardell. Saturday afternoon some of us chose to be educated, while others played golf (organized by Bob Westcott) or even tennis. Your reporters took a nostalgic hike to Lake Pleiad, which brought back many fond memories. Saturday evening's informal dinner at the Snow Bowl provided an opportunity for serious socializing. This was a delightful location, with the lodge common room dressed up by elegant centerpieces arranged by Pat Todd from flowers donated by Chuck and Sue Valentine Jennings of Green Mountain Florists Supply. Pardon Tillinghast appeared early on for a brief visit. Bobo Sheehan '44 and former Dean of Women Erica Wonnacott joined us for dinner. After our barbecue, results of the golf and tennis matches were announced: the winning golf team had a ringer in the form of Bobo Sheehan! More memories surfaced at Chapel service Sunday morning, with class members participating in and listening to the reunion choir. Some of our classmates have not forgotten how to sing! Chapel was followed by brunch hosted by Jim '51 and Ann McGinley Ross at their lovely home on a hill overlooking the Green Mountains. The day was crystal clear and the view spectacular, as was the feast provided by the Rosses. Jeanine Riviere Puydoyer, who had flown over from France for the weekend, brought champagne for our final celebration treat. Many thanks to co-chairs Irv Morris and Pat Todd, to class gift chairman Don "Crock" Beers, to Jim and Ann Ross, and to the many, many others who helped make this a memorable 40th reunion. Don will be sending each class member a letter with final figures on the reunion fund drive and a list of attendees. Since all members have already received an extensive pre-reunion booklet with news items from classmates, we will not include any additional items here. Normal reporting will resume in the next issue. Send in your news!

Class Secretaries: Mrs. Peter B. Marshall (Cecily Mattocks), 290 Goodale St., West Boylston, MA 01583, and Peter L. Simonson, 105 Lower Flying Pt. Road, Freeport, ME 04032.

Now you can start making plans to return to Middlebury June 3-5, 1994, for our 40th reunion. While you are thinking about that, let me add a bit of color: in mid-May, when Chris and I (Peter Simonson) went to Vermont to collect our daughter, Marlisa '96, we (from away) were struck by the lush GREEN of the Champlain Valley. From the undulating pastures along Route 30 to the encroaching suburbia of Route 7, the GREEN was everywhere! North of Brandon it seemed as though there must have been a contest to see who could convert the most wild pastureland to manicured lawn. Acres of apple blossoms in Shoreham added a shimmering outline to that pastoral setting. You too will love the emerald drive through Addison County on the way back to the campus. So mark your calendar for June '94 and come join us! ...During a recent call to fellow Mainer Jo Eaton Wagner, her husband, Dick '53, came on the phone and overwhelmed me with memories of how I got him started in his career by taking him for a brief flight in my PT-19. Dick went on to Naval Cadet training, and then flew the North Atlantic on sub patrol. The Wagners were stationed at several interesting bases, including Malta, and ended up at Brunswick (Maine) Naval Air Station. Dick later worked for Central Maine Power, retiring recently after 33 years. Jo and Dick have a daughter, Mary Jo '80, now married to Thomas Dedon and living in Seattle, and a son, David (UVM), also married and living in Maine. Jo loves this state and enjoys having her two grandchildren close by. ...Some people apparently didn't believe we had enough snow in the Northeast last winter: Marjorie Dawson Storrs went skiing for a week in Colorado, but also used the trip to snoop around for a place to retire. Margi, who reports running into Judy Brown Beeten, is definitely planning on returning for the 40th. ...And P.K. (Priscilla Kelly Sadler) has gone again to ski in France. Her excuse this time was to give her grandson (age 10) an unforgettable experience by touring France, Germany, Switzerland and Iceland. ...Not to be deterred is Phyllis Keezer Simmons, who is in her 26th year of teaching and just completed her 18th season conducting ski leassons and trips for her 3rd-5th graders. Residing in N.H., Phyllis knows all about snowy winters. Nominated by a former student, also a Presidential Scholar, Phyllis' name is now in Who's Who Among American Teachers. Congratulations, Phyllis! We're glad to hear that you, too, are planning on coming to the 40th. ...Among those who grew weary of cold and snow was Pierre Hemon. Now retired from teaching, he has apparently thrown in the towel on winter and is seriously considering a move to Florida. He spent two months in the Naples/Marco Island area and loved the location—especially the climate. Watch out for summer, Pierre! ...You'll also be interested to learn that we (the Simonsons) also succumbed to "too much winter" and in late April took a Carnival Cruise in the Caribbean (sorry, Kathie Lee was not aboard). We felt that, with our daughter now in college, we could finally get away! We visited the Virgins Islands, Grenada (remember the '83 war?), Caracas (interesting, but hold onto your wallet) and Aruba (now there's a perfect location for our 42nd!). If you haven't tried this kind of vacation, we highly recommend it. ...We'll close with a final reminder to start thinking about attending our 40th Reunion next spring. You'll love being on campus again and becoming reacquainted with your classmates.

Class Secretaries: Scotty MacGregor Gillette, 2309 E. Lake of the Isles Blvd., Minneapolis, MN 55405; Junie Stringer DeCoster, 726 Linwood, St. Paul, MN 55105; and Judy Zecher Colton (Mrs. Roger), 3 Long Marsh Lane, North Oaks Farm, MN 55127.

Nice to hear from so many of you this time around. We appreciate your keeping us posted on new addresses. Janet Goodwin Carrick writes: "In 1990 we sold a business in Maine and discovered a wonderful spot on the Trent River in New Bern, N.C. We divide our time between that and a small condo on Marco Island (winter address: 1085 Eagle Drive, Marco Island, FL 33037). A first grandchild in Seattle, a child in the Philadelphia area and another in Portland, Maine, will probably take care of traveling in the near future." ...Ann and George Limbach planned to climb Mont Blanc in France this summer with David and Sally Dickerman Brew. George, John Field, Mo Weld and Sonny Dennis had a mini-reunion in Vermont last spring. ...Jenny Kate Reynolds Collins and husband Wally are both retired from the Univ. of Colorado, he as a professor of music and she as assistant to the chancellor. "Now we spend about half of each year roaming the U.S. and Canada in our motor home, looking for birds, friends, relatives and dump stations. It's a very hedonistic lifestyle." ...Malcolm Davidson advises that he is retired and works part time. He recently bumped into Jerry Doolittle, who is writing a series of mysteries with titles that are taken from wrestling terms. We hope the following quote describes their distant past and not their recent visit: "Doolittle very good at wrestling! He pinned me every time—Doolittle 168 lbs.—Davidson 118 lbs." Doolittle's next book, Head Lock, will be out in November. ...Several honors have come to our attention. Joanne Kittell Gallagher has been elected president of the Science Teacher's Assoc. of New York State. ...Alan Gould received the Distinguished Service Award from the Connecticut chapter of the Alexander Graham Bell Assoc. for the Deaf. ...The Distinguished Physician Award went to Bill Admirand in April 1993, when the Nevada State Medical Assoc. stated that "this is the highest honor Dr. Admirand's colleagues can bestow upon him." Bill's home is in Reno. ...Harvey Kaplan writes: "Last October, my wife, Judy, and I visited with Wally Beevers and his wife, Mary. They live in Natick, Mass. Both are teachers of English in the local schools." Harvey was ecstatic about their reunion because it was the first time he had seen Wally since Harvey was inducted into the Army in 1954. ...John Baker has written another book, American House Styles: A Concise Guide. In addition to lecturing on architecture, he still gives folk-song programs. He and his wife, Liddy, have two sons, Jamie, student government president at Washington College, and Hayden, a senior at Hill School. John's daughter, Jennifer Baker Warren '83, and her husband, Christopher, live in Phoenix. Son Ian '80 (M.A. Bread Loaf '85) is based in Kathmandu, has a book on Tibet at the publisher's and is starting "Rare Tours" to Tibet and Nepal. ...New addresses: Joan Patterson Woodsum, 70 McKenney Point Road, Cape Elizabeth, ME 04107; Helju Kivimae Batchelder, 10 Tyler St., Brattleboro, VT 05301; Stuart Bowne, 505 Arbor St., Pasadena, CA 91105; Janny Netland Fenner, 15 Country Club Road, Key Largo, FL 33037; John Field, 300 Grove St. #27, Rutland, VT 05701; Kathe Quarck Henry, 200 E. Cottonwood Drive, Jackson, WY 83001; and Bob Webb, 8 Greenview St., #112, Framingham, MA 01701.

Class Secretaries: John Chase, 2000 Sage Canyon Road, St. Helena, CA 94574; Virginia Collins Emerson, 15 College Road, Wellesley, MA 02181; and Maureen Craig Seamans, 12 Pelham Road, Weston, MA 02193.

And here's the news that we've received from around the country this quarter...John Hoops got together with Mike Philbin for a N.J. Devils hockey game when Mike came east on a business trip. John reports that Mike, now a "native" Californian, looks great and also has a movie-star son! ...A promotion from Continental Airlines moved John Hammond to his new location in Columbus, Ohio. He is enjoying life in Columbus and even roots for Ohio State now and then (except when they play Middlebury, of course). John still has his place in Denver, commuting there on weekends. He also gets back to Hartford, Conn., every so often to see his good friend, Lew Parker '59. He and Lew expected to make their annual September trek to Middlebury to play in the alumni golf tournament. ...Judy Phinney Stearns' husband, John, retired in early July after 37 years at Traveler's Insurance Company. Judy is looking forward to the challenges inherent in their new life. She plans to run for a second term on the Glastonbury Town Council and is also heavily involved with the Hartford YMCA's Adult Literacy program, "Read to Succeed," while John is itching to spend more time at their house in Bridgewater, Vt. To quote Judy, "Whatever the results, we'll make it fun!" ...Gary Lott continues to teach history at Princeton Day School and is enjoying the classroom as much as ever. Gary's youngest daughter, Sara, is a freshman at the school. According to Gary, it's really great to have a younger child around the house! When not teaching, Gary is working with a colleague to develop curriculum materials dealing with the impact of the Vietnam War on veterans and their families. Gary's wife, Joyce, a teacher and freelance writer, has published her first major book. Gary didn't mention the title of Joyce's book, but he did note that one of her articles, "Here Come the Grandmothers," appeared in the March/April '93 issue of Ms. magazine. ...For Sylvia Cosman Bailey, 1993 has been a big year. She retired from the Rochester city schools; moved to Newcastle, Maine; enjoyed a winter cruise; traveled to Europe in the summer; and celebrated 35 years of marriage—not necessarily in that order! Also, Syvvie rejoices in the knowledge that her kids still love her! As she puts it, "It couldn't get much better!" ...Over the past few years, Josephine Paleologue-Pierce has been traveling to some interesting spots, visiting Bavaria (a trip that her husband, a German teacher, particularly enjoyed) and Kyoto, Japan. She and her daughter also went to Beijing, China, to participate in the Sino-American Conference on Women's Issues, a subject in which she has particular professional interest. Back home in Wausau, Wis., Josie manages the Women's Employability Program, providing job-seeking skills, assertiveness training and placement help for women who are having difficulty getting and keeping productive jobs. ...David Sandstrom continues to enjoy the variety that is an integral part of his position as VP of the Lawton (Oklahoma) Chamber of Commerce. Dave finds he needs to be the resident expert on a diversity of subjects, ranging from agriculture to water! Dave's wife Eve has just published her third mystery novel, The Down Home Heifer Heist (a sequel to Death Down Home and Devil Down Home). ...Earlier this year, Barbara Langford McGowan and Cynthia Holt Hunt had a chance to enjoy a mini-reunion when Cynthia was in Minneapolis for a family visit. ...Victoria Grove Memminger has switched to the international division of AT&T where she now creates a weekly electronic news letter that is distributed to all "off-shore" managing directors. ("Off-shore" translates into everywhere in the world except the U.S.!) Vicki keeps in regular touch with Lee Goodrich Tupman and reports that Lee is really enjoying her real estate job in Alexandria, Va. ...Your secretary for this issue of the class notes (Maureen Craig Seamans) has been busy starting up a host site for SHARE New England, a unique program that encourages people to become active in their community, while also allowing them to use the community service to stretch their food dollars. (If you eat you are eligible—two hours of community service and $13 get you a bag of top-quality groceries worth $30-35!) The response has been terrific, with participants ranging from young people on a tight budget to older people looking for ways to stay involved and active. SHARE is a nationwide program (the monthly ordering for the whole country is done from San Diego) so it's quite possible that you have a site near you. Drop Maureen a line if you're interested in learning more. ...A quick conversation with Nancy Warner Benz revealed that she and Mark have realized a cherished dream and are now the proud owners of a Vermont farm. Nancy promises some more details for the next issue of the class notes. ...Until then, keep those cards and letters coming folks!

Where are your little yellow cards? Send them back. Just say something so we know you are still there. If we don't get any news, we will be forced to write rambling accounts of our own exciting lives. ...Jim Haviland is still practicing law, presently as a sole practitioner. His wife has retired from the faculty of Central Connecticut State Univ. He has two children through school and three in grad school. Hang in there, Jim! ...Pan Libman Ruzzi, still an elementary school counselor, has four grandchildren. Her five children are flourishing: Erica, an attorney in Peterborough, N.H.; John, working nearby; Alec, CEO of a company in Farmington, Conn.; Caitlyn, a Phi Beta Kappa '93 graduate of Univ. of Rochester; and Roxanna, finishing her first year at SUNY Geneseo. ...Corliss Knapp Engle is dedicating herself to the development of biceps. She and her personal trainer are working overtime with step aerobics and free weights to create the perfect Corliss. Between workouts, she writes the newsletter for the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts and is revising a flower show judging guide. Last week Barbara Davey Merwin came by for lunch on her way from Illinois to Vermont for a weekend. Barbara is busy working part time and doing the grandmother thing.

Our 35th Reunion is scheduled for June 3-5, 1994, so please mark it down on your calendar. John Halpin and Barbara Burch Melhado are serving as reunion co-chairs. If you are interested in volunteering for a reunion committee position, call John (212-704-0350) or Barbara (802-867-5370). Reunion fund campaign chairs are Cynthia Hall Marshall and Bob Luce in the East and Hank Moody in the West. "Bick" Bicknell and Ellie Sweeney Vinke have volunteered to coordinate and conduct the "Fun and Games" portion of our reunion. Bick reports that they are tentatively planning a canoe trip, hike, Fun Run, golf and tennis. He implied that adjustments to the rigors of these activities would be based on "our ages." ...Ginny Aretz Roberts and Joel have established themselves in Centerville, Va., just outside Washington, D.C., after Joel's 30 years in the military. Joel has been president of the local Chamber of Commerce and has formed a management and investment consulting service. Ginny assists him as administrative assistant but anticipates taking a leave of absence to enjoy a vacation. Their daughter, Kristin Roberts Asbury '86, and her husband, James, live in Charlottesville, Va. ...Roger Miller will do the printing of our reunion materials from his printing shop in Brattleboro, Vt. He and Judy have been married for 30 years. He reports that he has fully recovered from a recent heart attack and that they will be relaxing on an extended vacation. Their older son, who is in the Air Force, has made them happy and proud grandparents. Son number two is in graduate school and is pursuing a musical career. ...Fred Swan and wife Pat spent a week in Guadeloupe last December to celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary. Fred continues to work for Clayton Environmental Consultants in the indoor quality department. Pat works as a medical technologist at Robert Wood Johnson Hospital in New Brunswick, N.J. ...Professor Byron Koh, a teacher at Springfield College, is playing tennis but he had recently turned his ankle when we called. The Koh children are all involved in the arts: Scott, an aspiring actor in Seattle, was a recent extra in Northern Exposure; Brake, a Yale graduate, is also pursuing an acting career; and Erin, a Vassar graduate, is continuing her dancing efforts in Boston. ...John Halpin joined Gerry Noonan '58 back at Middlebury in May, not only to celebrate Gerry's reunion, but also to host a luncheon for Mr. Carrol Stollenwerck. From the mid-'50s through the '70s Mr. Stollenwerck provided an opportunity for John and Gerry and about 20 other young men to "get beyond the confines we thought we saw holding us—bound by the East River and Central Park and 86th and 72nd Streets" and attend Middlebury and St. Lawrence. At the luncheon John and Gerry announced that they had started a small scholarship fund honoring the Stollenwerck family for "so many of us from the East Side House having been sent off to 'Happy Valley' or 'The Land beyond Central Park.'" ...Betty Mix Waisamer continues as a pre-kindergarten teacher on Long Island, but her knees wonder "how much longer can we do this?" She and husband Paul have discovered golf and do pleasant traveling to green resorts. ...Cynthia Haver Riggs reports that her husband is retired from IBM (accomplished "before the bottom fell out"). Finishing a second term on the Pound Ridge (N.Y.) school board and continuing as the town's recreation director, Cynthia pursued sports last summer by going to the Olympics in Spain. Both daughters are graduated and working, one in NYC and the other in Darien. ...Barbara Samson Thompson has assumed the presidency of the Madison Winter Club, with a membership of about 260. Certainly a challenge, especially since she's the first woman to serve as president in the club's 60-year history. All three children are married. Ron, who works for Solomon Bros. in NYC, has produced Ronald III; Deborah has moved to England with her English husband; Seth works for the Metropolitan Museum of Art. ...Mary Charles Hubbard Blakebrough left IBM after 25 years as a programmer, manager and facilitator, and became a kitchen volunteer at a center for autistic children, Option Institute in Sheffield, Mass. Then came a move to Durham, N.C. (where "the world's greatest grandson lives"), and she is now a process consultant in training at Duke. ...Marnie Sparre Burke, a business administrator at the Presbyterian Church in Plainfield, N.J., accompanied its "Shaker Singers" choir on travels this summer. Her husband, Bill, retired from N.J. Transit after 47 years in railroading and is now working twice as hard as an Anglican Catholic priest and a correspondent with motorcycle magazines. ..."First-year" students at Middlebury this past year included Martha Larsen Bissell's daughter, Brooke, and Noel Caseley Locke's daughter, Jennifer. ...The following letter from Bob Luce provides a very optimistic view of the present environment at Middlebury: "There was Light, and suddenly the Light went out. The announcement that Middlebury's president Timothy Light had decided to 'pursue other interests' came just before the September 1991 Alumni Leadership Conference. This annual gathering brings together many alums from many classes serving the College as trustees, class agents, Class secretaries, reunion planners, etc., and the president is a very visible, active participant in the proceedings. But this time we had no president. 'What had happened?' everyone wanted to know. Was it the infamous sacking of many loyal, long-time employees that did him in? Was his leadership style too counter-cultural? Was there, God forbid, a scandal involved? While we had no president, we had a brand new acting president, John M. McCardell Jr., whom the Trustees had quickly named and who, during that weekend, did a beautiful job of handling tactless questions like the ones above. He also was, well, presidential. He fit. He looked good, sounded good, has "perfect pitch" for the sort of trial by fire in which the events had placed him and would keep him during the coming months. Alumni Leadership Conference '92 saw John M. McCardell Jr. inaugurated as Middlebury's 15th president after a year of brilliant service in the acting status. This observer feels he is just right for the College and the times. Inauguration day brought it all together: crystal clear blue sky, warm breezes, spirited and substantive speeches, all confirming that everything's under control and a bright future awaits. Really. No bull. As we look toward 1994 and our 35th Reunion, we can be sure that the man leading our alma mater leads with the sensitivity and intellect of one who served there as a professor for many years and who is an active, vibrant member of the Middlebury community as well. You will find it a pleasure to meet him."

Class Secretary: Jean Seeler, Windmill Farm, 18 Upland Lane, Armonk, NY 10504, and Lars T. Carlson, 14478 50th St., S., Afton, MN 55001.

For those of you who have not had the pleasure of visiting Middlebury recently, I (Lars Carlson) can report that our alma mater is as beautiful as ever. Commencement 1993 was even more impressive than ours was—absolutely delightful. It was a bit surprising to be able to recognize a significant number of fellow alumni from classes on either side of ours whose sons and daughters were also graduating. Dan Durland applauded heartily as his daughter, Sharon, graduated with honors, as did our son, Erik Carlson. The Durlands and the Carlsons spent a number of days following graduation frolicking on Cape Cod. ...Simon Schwartz is busy working and enjoying raising the next generation with wife Carolyn in Woodland Hills, Calif. Their son, Benjamin (10), is actively involved in karate; daughter Elaine (12) is polishing up on her softball skills. ...Timothy Smith and wife Barbara Ann are breaking loose by purchasing a sailboat, Pursuit, and selling off their worldly possessions—apparently in order to sail into new horizons. Having lived in New Mexico, one wonders how they managed to polish up on their sailing skills. ...Susan Gore has carved out some delightful interests in Iowa as she refurbishes and sells business jets along with her son. She also writes and enjoys extensive international travel. ...An enthusiastic admirer of reunions, Richard Wilkinson is already planning on our 35th. Dick was married on January 5, 1991, to Judith, who was at our 30th Reunion. They are engaged in all of those delightful activities relating to home renovation and expansion. ...Piet and Sally Brooks Porter Hoedemaker are on their way back to Manchester, Mass., after living and working in western Australia for 10 years. Their two sons are finishing their studies at the Univ. of Western Australia. Sally is heading off for a walking tour of the U.K. this summer. If you are interested in joining her on a walking tour, call her son in Perth at (61) (9) 445-3980. ...A news release informs us that Aivars Krasts has been named vice president for external affairs, planning and communications, at Conoco which is a subsidiary of DuPont. Aivars has been at Conoco since finishing graduate school in 1962. ...At graduation we learned that Vcevy Strekalovsky has gained quite a reputation in Vermont and nearby states as a highly skilled polo player. A man of many talents and skills, here he is adding another! ...Finally, I urge all of you to visit the campus if you happen to be in the vicinity. And do contact the ever-friendly and hospitable Breck and Sue Hibbert Lardner, our very own Class of 1960 hosts.

Our Class Author Laureate is at it again. Sophia Healy's Cooper will be published by Philomel-Putnam. In the meantime, Sophia is working on a second children's book with poet Naomi Shihab Nye. And if that isn't enough, she is finishing her second novel, titled The Parallel World. Sophia's mailing address is now P.O. Box 528, North Bennington, VT 05257. ...Maybe we can get our Class Librarian Laureate, Sally Tingle Southard, to provide us with a book review of Sophia's works for our next class notes. July 10 was a big day for Sally and her husband, Jim '59, as son Jim Jr. was married in nearby Westchester County. This was after Sally had traveled to Vermont in March with her personal chauffeur, Tee Newsom, for a weekend of skiing with your class secretary (Steve Crampton) and his wife, Susan (Comstock) '63, and Dario and Peggy Quiros and their sons. Apres-ski festivities were held in Lincoln, Vt., at the Quiros farmstead. ...Speaking of skiing, the annual Bright and Shiny week was held at Snowbird and Alta, Utah. Judy Starbuck Hanneman and Tee Newsom continued their uninterrupted string of attendance at these gala events; neither one has slowed down a bit. The nicest twist to this year's gathering was the number of offspring of '61ers who had managed to sweet-talk their parents into a trip. Adam and Jamie Dawes, Jennifer and Jeff Hannemann, Ricardo and Peter Wood, and Steve and Kathryn Crampton all gathered to learn how to ski from the older, experienced crowd. Funny how we never saw them until it was time to chow down, then they would mysteriously appear while their parents were pulling the plastic from a wallet. Besides the parents of the above kids, Jeff Foran, Jane and Tim Moore, the grande madame of S.F. Jody Lenfestey, Tee Newsom, Roddy Stanton Baskett, and Charlie and Sandy Anderson Bolton also tore up the slopes. A great week, but rumor has it that it was just a warm-up for a return in February of '94 to perennial favorite Lech, Austria. Mother Carolyn Bennett Wood is again in charge of arrangements so get your name to her if you are interested. ...Kudos are in order for Bill and Judy Starbuck Hannemann, as son Jeff graduated from Midd this past May. ...Bob Barry has moved from Essex Junction to 169 U.S. Rt. 7 North, Milton, VT 05468. ...Judy Knight (121 N. Fitzhugh St., Rochester, NY 14614) is the executive director of the Genesee Valley Chapter of the New York Civil Liberties Union. ...Tee Newsom is now a senior VP at Lehman Bros/American Express in New York City. ...Ann Skinner's address has changed to 3 Maple St., #1, Greenfield, MA 01301. ...And you can now find Art Wilkes in Marina Del Rey, Calif. His mailing address is P.O. Box 10005 and the zip is 90295.

He's also serving on other boards, including the County Historical Society. Steve and wife Kathy spend time camping in the summer, skiing in the winter and reading year-round. ...1992 was a year of celebration for Mona Donderi Rogers. Her husband retired from Digital on 30th Reunion weekend, and on June 3 they celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary along with the birth of their first grandson, Samuel. Mona has opened a new Center for Healthy Living in Middlebury and is producing a line of Mona's Heart-Healthy Foods. "Life is good." ...Roger Sullivan honeymooned in London and will soon be marking the first anniversary of his marriage to Susan Dabney. Daughter Farley was the maid of honor. ...Louis Giardini is retiring from teaching and is already enjoying "taking it lazy," as well as bicycling and birding. ...Dennie Williams reports proudly that his daughter, Gisela '93, is taking the art world by storm and had a one-woman show at the Johnson Gallery. About 200 guests attended the opening, catered by Ina and Dennie. Son Timmie was attending the Univ. of Arizona in the fall. ...In Avon, Conn., Mike Kulick has formed a new law partnership, August & Kulick, with his concentration in the areas of estate planning, estate settlement and real estate. His wife, Judy, maintains a social work practice; son David is district manager for Design Group Benefits in Annapolis, Md.; and daughter Rachel graduated from Union College in June. ...Mike Black participated in "The Hudson River: Images and Texts" at Vassar this summer and then headed for Paris for some R & R. I think I missed my calling!

Many thanks to Bob Clarke and Jane Bachelder Johnson for the fine efforts they put into our 30th Reunion. We had a decent turnout, including "Pebbles" Davis, Neil Savage, Chuck and Sue Handy Burdick, to name a few. We need to know of your doings. Drop us a line or two. ...Congratulations to Charles MacCormack who has been named president and CEO of Save the Children where he will oversee its programs in 20 states and 35 nations. ...Mark Aldrich is in the throes of writing a book on the history of workplace safety in the U.S., 1890-1940. Good luck and stay with it, Mark! ...Doug Crandall is chairman of the biology department at Emmanuel College. He writes that he helped celebrate the marriage of Emmett Van Buskirk and Jo LaFontaine in Hartland, Vt. ...Gina Guarnaccia Camalich calls Weybridge her home base, but she has been traveling and working with her husband in Portugal, Spain and the Sinai Peninsula of Egypt. Wow! ...William Temple has been promoted to senior VP of production, operations and finance at ABC News. Nice going! He writes that both children have graduated from college. He lives in Rockleigh, N.J., where he is chairman of the Historic Preservation Commission, president of the Fire Company and president of the Republican Club. ...Again, we'd love to hear from you all. Cathy Deutsch Sands and I didn't realize that volunteering to be candidates for class secretary would be tantamount to getting elected! Thanks a lot! Now you better give us material—or we'll "volunteer" information! I write this after many days of Maine fog and I would love to shed more light on some of you!

Jean Gear Lamont is enjoying her new position as head of the Foote School in New Haven, Conn., a coed school, grades K-9. Son Tim graduated from the Middlesex School in June and has been accepted at Midd with a September '94 enrollment date. ...At Ft. Lee, N.J., Judith Engle Hishikawa is still a Japanese bilingual teacher while her husband works for the Kantek Information Systems, Inc., a computer company. With three children in college next fall, the Hishikawas will certainly be contributing their fair share to higher education! Their youngest is still in high school. ...Last February, Pamela Williams Hettrick and son Jonathan returned to Middlebury where they had a wonderful time visiting "special" old friends and enjoying some superb skiing at the Midd Snow Bowl. Then in March she journeyed to Budapest, Hungary, Krakow, Poland and Prague, Czech Republic, where she met with other Christians who are now free to have worship services, Bibles and Bible schools. She felt privileged to have been able to make the trip, reporting "it is so exciting to see all that God is doing in Eastern Europe." ...In May Tom Easton's son, Brian, was married in Charleston, W.Va. This fall Tom has two in medical school: daughter Sharon enters her second year at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond, where she is pursuing a degree in pharmacology; son Brian will be a first-year med student at the Univ. of Virginia School of Medicine in Charlottesville. ...We have new addresses for Eric L. Thanks to our class agent Sue Schweickert Macy for passing along news she collects from classmates when she calls on agent business. By way of Sue, we learned that Clare Tweedy McMorris travels to Paris on business fairly often and hopes to check out Michael Prentice's sculpture. Michael's work is very respected in France and internationally. Clare sees Julie Johnson Kidd in New York at their children's school. ...Helen Martin Whyte and her family camped out at Dee Martin Montgomery's house while they were marooned at Killington Mountain during the March blizzard of '93. Next morning they dug a path to the highway and Helen and son Martin hitchhiked to the ski area where Martin did well in a ski race in Vermont powder to rival Colorado's! ...While the Northeast was digging out, Bill Kleh was tracking birds south of the border as they began their flights north. ...Like many classmates, David Beebe finds the West very attractive. Both of his children are at schools in the West, so David works in some fly fishing and skiing when visiting them. ...David Gordon, with assistance from Tom Sheldon, is recycling the boarding school that has been in his family for several generations and is starting an environmental education center. ...Jon Berger and Dana Brigham are starting an environmental software company. Contact them if you have some venture capital to spare. ...Ann Creigh Jobe received a fellowship from the Kellogg Foundation for health profession education. ...Rob Cook likes living in his restored colonial house in Newport, R.I., so much that he commutes 80 miles each way daily to Hartford, Conn. ...Sue Swinburne Shaw is enjoying a midlife support group for women which she started in Spokane after her similar reunion leadership role. She is also fulfilling a lifetime dream by going to China with her mother for a two-week tour. ...Dale Smith, now chief financial officer for Tyco Europe, is spending most of his time in Europe. But his love of Vermont (and golf) runs deep, so he and wife Kathy bought a condo in Queechee on the golf course this fall. ...Charlie Mead married Barbara Drummond, whom many of us got to meet at Reunion in June. They have transferred with Digital Equipment to Colorado Springs. ...David Tura has formed Northeast Marketing Associates to provide sales representation in the six New England states for selected building supply manufacturers. ...John Martin continues to rake in honors as president and CEO of Taco Bell. In March, the International Foodservice Manufacturers Association named him winner of the prestigious Silver Plate Award. ...Lee Powers Carlson was recently named vice president for development at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Her work involves managing hospital development, including major gifts, planned giving and the annual fund. ...Sheldon Baker and wife Brenda enjoy traveling and, of course, looking up Midd friends along the way. They recently found Bob Reed '68 in San Francisco and Dillon Jackson in Seattle. In March they had a great trip to England with Marcia and Bob Hall '60. ...Margaret Ellis Rostkowski, of Ogden, Utah, will have a new book, Ghost Women, published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich in 1994. ...During an April vacation from teaching school, this class secretary (Susan Davis Patterson) went on a Class of '67 road trip. She stayed with Ann and Ford Cole in Connecticut, where Ford had her in stitches doing impressions of his freshman corridor mates on first floor Hepburn. Then into New York City to be wined and dined by Susan Freier Geisenheimer and Alex Taylor one day and by Phil Ross another. It felt great! Our reunion prompted many (re)connections that are continuing. What a joy to extend our fun and sharing out from the epicenter of Midd. Send any address changes to the Alumni Office. We will publish a list in the next magazine.

Class Secretaries: Tobi Gray Watson, 500 E. 83rd St., #15G, New York, NY 10028, and David Weinstein, 5 Summer St., St. Johnsbury, VT 05819.

Outgoing secretaries Shari Galligan Johnson and Ben Gregg report: What a great reunion we had. For those of you who were unable to attend, we missed you. Many told us that it was the first Middlebury reunion they had ever attended, and that they were really pleased they had come back. Highlights included contra dancing on Thursday night; John Morton's slide show and about his Uzbekistan trip on Friday morning; Midd-Life Perspectives: Crisis and Opportunities, a session moderated by Gary Margolis '67, which included John Morton, Shari Galligan Johnson, Rob Ryder and Barbara McHugh Vandrimmelen. Friday afternoon activities gave us a chance to burn off some energy and the Friday evening barbecue, graciously hosted by John and Bonnie McCardell, was a good opportunity to visit with faculty from our era at Middlebury. Following our great turnout for Convocation at Mead Chapel Saturday morning, Midd-Life Perspectives continued on Saturday afternoon. The Memorial Service for deceased classmates was a fitting reminder of what each one of those friends had meant to us, then and now. The banquet on Saturday evening was an eye-opener—who would ever have thought that Proctor Dining Hall could look so elegant? Dick McMahon capably emceed the evening, after which Joel Najman '66 deejayed the disco. (He had a contract to play until 1 a.m., but we were still going strong at 2:15!) The brunch on Sunday was the wrap-up for a great reunion, but parting was sweet sorrow. Shari and Ben are looking forward to future reunions and wish to place our names first on the list for planning the 50th, although that's admittedly still a few years down the road. We are pleased to announce that Tobi Gray Watson and Dave Weinstein are our new class secretaries. We will miss the opportunities to stay in touch with classmates and to write the columns for the alumni magazine, but we know the task is in good hands. Thanks again for keeping us informed of your news over the last 10 years—and please keep Tobi and Dave up-to-date with all your news. ...Incoming secretaries Tobi Watson and David Weinstein begin with thanks to Shari and Ben for their many years of excellent secretarial work. They have helped so much in keeping us aware of our classmates' comings and goings. They also did a wonderful job of organizing a splendid 25th Reunion weekend. We thank them—and we'll have trouble filling their shoes! Too bad we can't have a 25th reunion every year! Approximately 177 of us showed up, not counting our spouses, kids and significant others, making for a record turnout for a 25th! And we exceeded our monetary goal very handsomely! The weekend was a wonderful balance of conversation, dancing, sharing of the pains and joys of these "middle" years (as well as the past 29), encouraging the next generation to attend Middlebury, and some cheerfully-attended athletics. The 25th Reunion spirit was captured by Dick McMahon at the Saturday evening banquet when he interrupted the vigorous conversations by saying, "...if we could only start our freshman orientation tomorrow, what a wonderful experience college would be!" Those classmates who were able to make it to Vermont found cool temperatures outside and warm climates inside. David Weinstein writes: "Deciding that my canoeing/hiking/biking career did not need to challenge the threatening weather, I spent my free time catching up on old friendships and enjoying new acquaintances. It was pleasantly surprising to see how easily classmates from 25 years ago (including classmates who transferred from Middlebury before graduation) were able to step into a circle of conversation with others whom they may or may not have known way back when. The 25th Reunion yearbook biographies were fresh enough in our minds that conversations usually had a jump start. However, the yearbook never could capture Fran Fredericks Ferriss' laugh or Jan Ells' easy smile. I recognized Larry Raffel Saturday morning, long before he identified himself to his astonished classmates! Most of the yearbook pictures resembled the people, except for those cheaters who sent in pre-gray hair photos. Let's make a pledge to come back for the 30th!" ...Gert Wegel wrote to express her family's appreciation for the reunion memorial service which remembered Larry Wegel and other classmates. ...Peter Knobler (who did not make it to reunion, but wanted to say hi to everyone!) is collaborating with James Carville and Mary Matalin on a book about the Clinton-Bush presidential campaign, love, and inside politics, scheduled for publication in spring '94. His son, Daniel, is 4 years old. Last March he enjoyed attending the bar mitzvah of Midd roommate Ed Goldberg's son, Andrew. ...Holly and Ron Hoag are the proud parents of Wesley Mathews Hoag, born April 20, 1993. ...Barbara Shean Lippert's older son, David, graduated from Middlebury with a degree in computer science the weekend before our 25th, so they stayed in Vermont for the intervening week and took trips down memory lane. ...Chris '63 and Susan Blume White both enjoyed working on the reunion. Sue especially enjoyed nominating Susan Hastings Chandler to write a class perspective for the yearbook. A reunion newsletter has probably found its way to you by now!

Class Secretaries: Elinor Livingston Redmond, 1235 Sawyer Road, Cape Elizabeth, ME 04107, and Wendy Cole Singleton, 16342 Sunset Valley Drive, Dallas, TX 75248.

Greetings from Wendy Cole Singleton in "treeless" (?) Texas! David, where are all these leaves in my swimming pool coming from?! (See David Nelson's comment in our last column.) Lots of people were back at Midd for the spring planning session for our big 25th Reunion, coming up in June '94! Fran Chin reports, "Spring in Vermont is still stunning!" Ralph Sexton had a ball: "Great fun...good ideas...good work!" He'll be there in June! Mary MacArthur Wendell was there and reports, "Having worked at Milton Academy for 17 years, I decided to stop last June. Our three children's lives are getting busier, our parents are getting older (unlike us, of course) and I wanted to be able to spend more time with them." Mary loves not working and wants to encourage everyone to make the 25th. ...Roger and Candy Syverson Cummings returned to Middlebury after an absence of 20 years. They live in the Philadelphia area with their daughters, Carolyn (14) and Julia (10). Roger teaches at the Pennsylvania College of Optometry and is staff optometrist at the VA Hospital in Philadelphia. Candy has been a partner in the law firm of Dechert, Price & Rhoads for the past 12 years and is president of the board of Planned Parenthood of S.E. Pennsylvania. They'll see you at reunion! ...Liz Fryberger Pritchett didn't have to travel far. She lives in Vermont with husband Pat and children Zach (17), Elizabeth (14) and Katy (12). Liz just earned her M.S. in historic preservation and has started her own consulting business, in addition to teaching in the architecture dept. at Norwich Univ. ...David Dodge and Dick Werdiger also participated in the planning session, along with a few others I may have failed to mention. Sounds like a great time was had by all. Just a hint of the fun we'll have in June! ...New address for Sally Keene Doherty is 12432 Carmel Cape, San Diego, CA 92130. ...Gerard deGunzburg has moved back to New York after living in Europe since 1972. His new address is 960 Park Ave., New York, NY 10028. Gerard has two children, Alexia (12) and Gregory (10). ...Also in New York is Patricia Kruse Toback, who is managing an agency which tutors child performers on the set, worldwide! Married to a NYC attorney, Patricia has three daughters, ages 21, 17 and 10. ...Ron Najman writes, "I am happy to report that I've been spending time in Vermont lately, often visiting my brother Joel '66, his wife Betsy Lawrence, and their two daughters in Colchester. I also have managed to clock quite a few ski hours, mostly at Stowe, Sugarbush and Killington. The days following the Blizzard of '93 were totally excellent (Ski the East!). I also attended the second gay and lesbian alumni/ae weekend at the College April 3 and 4 with my partner, Remy Hall (Bard '64). Remy and I continue our brownstone adventure at 210 Wyckoff St., Brooklyn, NY 11217, (718) 260-9683." ...Debby Lunt writes that she is still married, still a child welfare worker, and she still thinks about Midd and Vermont. Her kids, Phil and Russ, are 10 and 6. ...Linda Colwell Bouffard still loves living near Middlebury. "My oldest daughter, Carrie, is a freshman at the Univ. of Colo. in Boulder, the other kids are growing bigger, but my 7-year-old keeps me young!" Linda works with pregnant and parenting teenagers and their children at the Addison County Parent/Child Center. ...Helene Lawrence is making quilts and is in training with Literacy Volunteers. Daughter Petra (23) has graduated from Kansas City Art Institute. Helene lives in Tulsa, Okla., with husband Ken and his daughter, Mariah (15). ...Loved hearing from everyone! Keep in touch!

In January 1992, Jack Rudnick started a new job as general counsel with WelchAllyn, Inc., a medical equipment company in Skaneateles, N.Y. This was a major adjustment after 18 years with Oneida, Ltd., Silversmiths. "I look forward to making regular Parents' Weekend visits," Jack writes, "to see my son, Matt, who is a member of the Class of '97 at Midd. Time really flies!" ...Frank Moorman and wife Carol Smith live in Annapolis (99 Great Lake Drive, MD 21403) with daughters Barrie (10) and Erinna (7). Frank is publications editor for Franklin Square Hospital Center, the sixth largest hospital in Maryland. The road to this position began with a year in VISTA, then progressed from radio broadcaster and grad student (M.A. French, Trinity College) to book production editor and public relations writer. "None of what has happened results from much of a plan," Frank says, "but much of it seems, in retrospect, to hang together." Sound familiar? ...Stuart Parnes has been promoted from curator of exhibitions to director of exhibits and interpretive programs at Mystic Seaport (Conn.). In his new position, Stuart is not only responsible for designing and planning exhibitions, but he will be supervising the museum's staff of 90 interpreters. In September, Stuart and wife Sue Thompson visited Barcelona for the International Congress of Maritime Museums. ...A self-employed graphics designer, contracting to publishers such as Viking-Penguin, Kingsley Parker pursues his painting and sculpture at his Broome Street (NYC) studio, working towards an end-of-year show. ..."I spend more time than I'd like on an airplane," says John Swenson, who travels worldwide—most recently to Asia and Australia—negotiating with his international colleagues over technical design standards for high-speed/high-capacity communication systems. Designed for AT&T Bell-Atlantic, these systems provide video-voice data transmitted by cable to telephone companies overseas.

Thanks to everyone who has written. If you believe that any of the news you are reading may have been fabricated, call your classmates to confirm—and send us news about yourself! ...Instead of throwing footballs, Barry Metayer is throwing down cash for lottery tickets. Last March Barry scored the big lottery TD and split a $2.48 million lottery jackpot. Evidently he will be paid $41,572 after taxes each year, which should perk up the ears of Middlebury fundraising! Barry, a grant writer for the Massachusetts Career Development Institute in Springfield, lives in Wilbraham, Mass., with his wife, Anne, and two sons, Michael (8) and Stephen (1). You can congratulate Barry at 413-596-6937. ...It was good to hear from John Tuttle (2871 Estey Road, Manlius, NY 13104; 315-682-5466). John says that daughter Stephanie is entering Middlebury this fall in the class of 1997. John continues as president of Benefit Design Services Corp., specializing in employee benefits. He is also branch manager of Robert W. Baird & Co. Inc. (NY Stock Exchange) and director of advanced marketing with Konrad Associates Inc. (Northwestern Mutual Life Agency). In addition, he continues as volunteer ski patrol director at Labrador Mountain near Syracuse and serves on the NSPS Eastern Div. Ski and Toboggan Training Staff. ...When Nancy Krumm Sichler's daughter, Kirsten (13), had an interview at Friends Academy in Locust Valley (north shore of L.I.), Nancy ran into Barbara Laudenslager Mosley, who is head of lower school at Friends. They had such a good time catching up that they hope to get together again soon. Nancy also writes that she is in touch with Alex Haynes-Buob (Hi Alex!), and they are planning a get-together. ...A brief update from Carolyn Kroll Reidy (160 Dean St., Brooklyn, NY 11217) informs us that for the past year she has been president and publisher of Simon & Schuster, the trade division of Paramount Publishing. Congratulations, Carolyn! ...Diana Egbers Fanning continues to bring culture to Middlebury College where she is a member of the applied music faculty. An accomplished pianist, Diana participated in a concert last May, appearing with cellist Dieuwke Davydov, playing Martinu's "Variations on a Theme of Rossini." Diana was returning to Holland on tour in the fall, hoping to repeat her first successful tour there. ...Congratulations to Jacquelyn Coleman (23 Walts Hill, Bloomfield, CT 06002), who has been elected president of the Connecticut Society of Association Executives. She is the VP of S&S Management Services, Inc. ...Thanks to Sally K. Church (8 Dartmouth Place, St. John's, NF A1B 2W2, CANADA, (709) 739-5746) for writing. She was about to receive her Ph.D. in Chinese literature from Harvard, having already received master's degrees from the Univ. of Chicago and from Harvard. Sally and her husband, Dr. Michael J. Langford (professor of philosophy and medical ethics at Memorial Univ. of Newfoundland in St. John's) have two daughters, Jeanette (6) and Katie (4-1/2). ...Susan Lebel Young (91 Highland St., Portland, ME 04103; 207-772-4494), with a master's in education, has applied her experience to organizational training and consulting for about five years. All this while "driving a 10-year-old son to endless play practices and a 12-year-old daughter to various athletic endeavors." For a change of pace she is in graduate school getting a degree in clinical counseling. Sue describes her daily routine to maintain her own mental health: "Every day—meditate, exercise, stretch, maintain relationships, eat right, study some, play some." Sounds like a good plan!. ...We appreciate the cards and letters you send us. We enjoy hearing from you and passing the news along to our classmates. We especially look forward to hearing from Gay Mann Folland and Paula Morgan Wyman, our class secretaries emeritus who have not sent any news.

In this much-touted season of political change, Kathy Mulligan Lord became only the fifth Democrat in history to be elected a village trustee of Bronxville, N.Y. "The campaign was hard," she admits, "but also lots of fun." At the end of a close race, Kathy was the top vote-getter against two incumbents! She and the second-place finisher will both serve two-year terms. ...After five years in Brazil as financial manager for Chase Manhattan Bank-Brazil, R. Wesley Rivel (104 Massapequa Ave., Massapequa, NY 11758) returned to the U.S. in January to become chief financial officer of Chase Automotive Finance on Long Island. Wes, who has been divorced for several years, now lives in Massapequa with his son, Joe (21), daughter Jesse (14) and a Brazilian exchange student, Gustavo (also 14). He hasn't completely given up his South American ties: "I still have a home and business near Rio de Janeiro, and will visit as often as possible." ...Another Long Islander, Leslie Santee Siskin of Stony Brook, continues writing, researching and teaching at Hofstra Univ. With two books scheduled for publication next year and her second child off to college, Leslie finds herself traveling "from California to Sweden" for speaking engagements, and "loving it." One morning last spring, Leslie, like many of us, "saw the article about Torie Osborn (becoming executive director of the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force) in the New York Times. I'm delighted to see that some of what we learned in that time at Middlebury is paying off in a big way. My congratulations to her and her work." ...Sam Walker presented a one-man show of recent work at Second Street Gallery in Charlottesville, Va., for the month of April. In connection with the exhibit, he was invited to deliver an artist lecture for the art department at the Univ. of Virginia. Having taught at Carnegie-Mellon 1992-'93, Sam was Boston-bound for a position at the Univ. of Mass. starting in September. ...Dr. John Whittaker and his wife, Linda, are in private psychotherapy practice together in Palmdale, Calif. John also teaches in the Univ. of Santa Monica's Marriage, Family and Child Counselor Training Program in Applied Spiritual Psychology. He does organizational consulting and development as well. In any spare time, John, Linda, and son David (6) enjoy hiking and camping in the high Sierras. ...Henry Lyman is living in Rowayton, Conn., delivering Domino's pizzas, playing occasional jazz piano, serving as president of the Norwalk Poets' Association, and marketing his own book, Poet in the Rain. Published by the Norwalk Poets' Association in 1986, reprinted five years later and now heading into its third edition of 500 copies, Poet in the Rain is Henry's second published collection of poetry. Activist Daniel Berrigan writes in the introduction to the book, "You draw, more or less consciously, but always with delicacy and invariably apropos, on Whitman, the Bible, the romantic poets, chivalry, a sense of generations." Henry has also finished several novels. In an interview with the Danbury (Conn.) News-Times, he was modest about his talent: "I don't write so well. I just kept at it. I started when I was studying at Middlebury and fell in with a band of thieves." ...Here in Michigan/Ohio, I (Jennifer Hamlin Church) have been busy recently organizing a three-day conference on changes in higher education advancement (i.e. fundraising, public relations and alumni relations) for the Independent College Advancement Associates of Ohio. After the August conference ends, I take over as president of the group, which should be a breeze compared to being conference chair.

Outgoing secretaries Kathryn Winsberg and Dean Nikitas report: If you didn't make it to our 20th Reunion over Memorial Day weekend, we missed you! About 118 classmates (30 percent of our class!) plus many other friends, spouses and family members came back. We stayed mostly in Hepburn, which brought back some memories. Our pig roast Friday night was a big success, providing an easy-going get-together as everyone arrived. Saturday morning we participated in a very moving ceremony of remembrance for our classmates who have died. Kathy Wonson Eddy led the observance and others contributed their memories as we gathered in a circle around the tree which our class has contributed to the College. A plaque will also be mounted there by the tree, which is located between Starr and the library. The alumni convocation in Mead Chapel was another moving reminder of the continuity of our participation in Middlebury and the place of Middlebury in our lives. The rest of Saturday's activities were dampened only slightly by intermittent rain, but good friends continued to arrive to brighten the day, culminating in a big turnout for our class banquet and, later, a dance with live music in the gym. Sunday morning the sun finally appeared as we began to say our goodbyes, vowing not to let another five years go by without getting together. Some classmates thought it was not too soon to start the planning for our 25th! ...Andrew Wentzel has sent a tempting invitation: "I invite any classmates to come backstage at the New York City Opera after performance of Carmen and The Marriage of Figaro (October 16, 21, 31 and November 4, 7). After singing at the Metropolitan Opera and companies from Japan to Italy, and making 4 recordings, I finally sang with the 'local' company, the N.Y. City Opera, last year and look forward to returning. I hope all New York classmates will come. Call me at (914) 688-7512 and I can give more specifics." ...Linda Laursen Toscano writes, "Meroke Preserve on the Bellmore-Merrick border is being renamed for my mother, Faith Laursen, who died in January after a battle against cancer that lasted over three decades. She was very concerned about providing a healthy environment for future generations. Our son Pepe is going off to college this fall. I was sorry I couldn't make it to reunion because it conflicted with my daughter Carolina's confirmation." ...Barbara Axelrod McFarland says, "I've been practicing law for 15 years. For six of those years I ran the appellate division of the City Solicitor's Office in Philadelphia, frequently litigating constitutional issues I first encountered in Professor Dry's class. I've been in private practice for three and one-half years (Beesley, Casey) doing largely appellate work. I married Miles M. McFarland in 1979. Last August we had a set of twins—Danielle and Graham. What joy!" ...Janet Zizzi Magel brings us up to date: "Steve and I met at work—we were married last April. Among our guests was my Middlebury roommate, Deborah Schneider Greenhut. Another classmate, Roberta (Bobbi) Sturgis Terkowitz, was one of my bridesmaids. After the "perfect" wedding, Steve and I honeymooned for 10 days in Ireland and Scotland. Now (10 months later) we are in the process of buying/building a new house. We hope to be in by late this summer." ...This is the last column from class secretaries Kathryn Winsberg and Dean Nikitas, who have enjoyed hearing from all of you. Watch this space for news from incoming class secretaries Bob Badger and Kit Fuller—coming next issue!

The Parton Family Award for the reunion class other than the 25th and 50th with the greatest increase in participation was presented to the Class of 1973, Marilyn Frison Hand and Janet Frey Devito, reunion gift chairs. President McCardell congratulated them both.

Betsy Bass writes from Hampden, Maine, to let us know that her second daughter, Meaghan Anne Bass Haenn, was born on January 18, 1993. Meaghan joins her sister, Katie, who was born December 13, 1990. Betsy reports that all is well in their family. ...Although Jim Close was part of our class for only one year, he reports that he feels "more connected to Middlebury than all the other colleges he attended." Jim is "still looking for the right woman" and continues to seek out backpacking challenges. Last spring he hiked the Appalachian Trail through Shenandoah National Park "too soon after the blizzard!" ..."I've always wanted to become involved with a community college. It's a much more non-traditional population here," reports Mary Romney-Schaab, after being named coordinator of academic support for English as a Second Language at the Willimantic branch of Quinebaug Valley Community College. After Middlebury, Mary spent eight years in Spain where she taught English as a foreign language. She then moved to New York where she earned master's degrees in the teaching of English and instructional technology and media from Columbia. More recently, she spent three years in Barcelona, Spain, heading an academic department at the Institute for North American Studies. Mary feels lucky to have had the experience of living abroad. "It really opens your eyes to a lot of things about your culture and your own country. I'm really grateful for the experience, but I'm glad to be back." ...Bob Mattison writes from Easton, Pa., where he is head of the art department at Lafayette College. While working on his third book on modern art, he is enjoying life with his wife, Liza, and children, Anna (9) and Spencer (4). ...Steven Janas was recently named president of Time-Life Music, a division of Time-Life Inc. based in Alexandria, Va. Before this change, Steven was vice president of the HBO division. ...Still living in New York City, Carla Hall has three children, Ilana (11), Jacob (8) and Matthew (2). She is also operating a "thriving" business in corporate communications and design out of her brownstone. Karen Jacobson and "her adorable baby girl" stopped by to visit Carla. Apparently Karen is also interested in bringing her home/family and work under one roof. Carla has also run into Tim Metzger and his family, who live nearby. ...Annie Martin Wilder reports that she now has five children. Holly Martin, born on November 13, 1992, joins Duncan (3), Doug (7), Laurie (12) and Katherine (14). "It's a houseful!" Annie and her husband, Sandy, took the whole family to Jackson, N.H., for skiing in the winter of '93. Let's hope there is as much snow in the winter of '94.

John Burditt recently became VP for finance and management at Denison Univ. John serves as a member of the president's senior staff and works closely with the board of trustees. Previously he was the treasurer at Hobart and William Smith College. He and his wife, Therese "Terri" Murphy, have a daughter Emmy (9). ...Congratulations to Jean Scandlyn Eppler, who wrote to let us know that she received her Ph.D. in anthropology from Columbia Univ. in May 1993. ...Meredith Parsons McComb and husband David have moved from Manhattan to the shores of Lake George. She writes, "I'm off to sing Fricka in France, a long-awaited opportunity. Thoughts of 'retirement' have been quashed by an invitation to perform Das Lied von der Erde with a conductor who is a personal hero." ...Linda Saarnijoki is the dean of faculty at the Taft School in Watertown, Conn., where she tries to "steer promising seniors in Middlebury's direction." Linda has visited Middlebury for the last couple of years to interview seniors looking for teaching jobs, so she has kept up on the changes on campus. ...Rick Hodes, the medical director for the American Joint Distribution Committee, is living in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. He writes, "I run a clinic for displaced people in the capital, work with tuberculosis, and some other public health projects in the north. I am also the doctor for the Ethiopian Jews (falashas). I commute to Kenya and Somalia where we are working with refugees and war victims. Last year I made a documentary film for PBS with Dr. Ruth (yes, that one) about the falashas. In 1991, I was part of Operation Solomon, which brought 14,000 Ethiopian Jews to Israel in 36 hours as rebel troops were about to enter the city." He encourages any classmates passing through to stop by. ...Bob Hillier married Leanne Heeren in April 1993. Bob works as business manager with a partner producing hand-made, silk-screened prints of Bible verses called "Manuscriptures." The prints are matted and framed and sold throughout the country. Bob and Lee live at 1758 Hawthorne Terrace, Des Plaines, IL 60016. ...Kathie Meizner and husband Parker Orr have a son, Jonah, just turning two. As a member of the Caldecott Award Committee of the American Library Assoc., Kathie helped select David Weisner's Tuesday for the 1992 award. This year she is chairing the Carnegie Video Award Committee to select the most distinguished American video for children. ...Linda Conrad and Doug Dorman celebrated their 20th wedding aninversary this year. Their oldest child, Jake, turns 16 and will be driving soon. Linda writes, "No wonder people have a mid-life crisis about this time of life!" Linda became a CPA in March and Doug is busy putting together the wage and benefit packages of two merged hospitals, for which he is the VP of human resources. ...Pat LaCava is driving a sedan for a livery company in Hartford, Conn., while interviewing for jobs in the area. ...Peter Kunhardt produced and directed a four-hour documentary for ABC chronicling the life of Abraham Lincoln in vintage photographs. The documentary was written by Peter's father and brother; the pictures were from his great-grandfather Frederick Hill Meserve's collection. It was aired on ABC last winter. James Earl Jones narrated the documentary and Jason Robards spoke Lincoln's own words culled from diaries, letters and other writings. ...Deborah Kovacs Sullivan collaborated with artist William Shattuck to write Moonlight on the River, a children's book about "two brothers' river world." This is Debby's third book and it follows her five years of work for the PBS children's show, Sesame Street, in New York. ...Have you noticed that you're attending a lot of 40th birthday parties all of a sudden? This is the year! Happy 40th birthday to most of you '75ers out there. As Meredith Parsons McComb so aptly put it, "40...surely an error has occurred somewhere?" We have recently received news from a number of classmates we haven't heard from in a long time. Bridget Jans Michel (708 Dearborn, Helena MT 59601) completed an M.A. in English at the Univ. of Montana in Missoula in 1989. During summer sessions, she teaches English as a second language at the Mukogawa Fort Wright Institute in Spokane, Wash. She married Jerry Michel on June 29, 1991. ...Jon Cook completed a one-year fellowship in hand surgery at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C. In July '92 he passed the certification exam for orthopedic surgery. His main recreation is adult league ice hockey: "I play defense—my shot is still anemic." ...Sidelined from his minor pro football career after 13 years by a knee injury, Ken Chase is working as a financial consultant for Merrill Lynch and co-anchoring a weekly television magazine show in the Syracuse area. ...Karen Amirault has received a finalist award from the Vermont Council on the Arts in recognition of her artistic accomplishment. ...Bill Hosley, curator of the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford, Conn., recently presented a lecture at the Greenwich Civic Center on New England regional furniture. Bill also ran (unsuccessfully) for the Connecticut Senate, saying that studying local history had prepared him to serve in the legislature: "A museum curator is one part scholar, one part entertainer and one part civic booster." ...Tom Teicholz, the author of The Trial of Ivan the Terrible: State of Israel vs. John Demjanjuk (St. Martin's Press, 1990), recently collected, edited and introduced a collection of interviews, Conversations with Jerzy Kosinski (Univ. Press of Mississippi, 1993). He has also worked as an editorial consultant and has written for The Paris Review, Interview, New York Woman and The Forward. ...Scott Allmendinger edits Restaurant Business, which has won 14 awards in the past two years. He travels frequently—in June it was off to Italy for food and wine "research." Scott's "best news of all" is the birth of his son, Jeremy Jackson Allmendinger, in September 1991. He and wife Ayn are "loving every minute of it. Highly recommended." ...Evelyn Walzer reports the birth of daughter Samantha Audrey Rowe on January 22, 1993. Evelyn is still working at Salomon Brothers in networking software. Husband Michael Rowe '76 is at K Mart Fashions in computer systems and network integration. ...Bob and Carol Lindberg had a fourth son, Tyler, on July 14, 1992, who joined Mike (8), Matt (6) and Scott (3). Although Bob has been promoted to executive VP and chief operating officer at Lindberg & Ripple, Inc., a Bloomfield, Conn., financial services firm, he still finds time to take his older sons skiing. He has seen Mike and Karen Divalentino '78 McGown and Keith Michl, and is "still trying to track down Tuck Bigelow." ...Brant McDougall was recently elected senior VP of BayBank. He works at a subsidiary, BayBank Finance and Leasing Company, Inc., where he is responsible for maintaining a loan portfolio and generating new business. ...Tanina Frouge, who works as an investment banker in the biotech area at Hambrecht & Quest in New York, has been looking forward to a trip to Argentina. ...Randy Parker is quality systems manager for AT&T Microelectronics. He and wife Anne have two children, Nathaniel (10) and Abigail (7). Beside singing bass and managing logistics for Summit Chorale, he has been active in community theater, appearing in One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and in Gilbert & Sullivan's Trial by Jury (as The Learned Judge). ...Peter Terry married Laura Hollis on July 11, 1992, and bought a house (4802 Erie St., Annandale, VA 22003). ...Your class co-secretary Ginni Jones has been unemployed or "on hiatus" since January, doing part-time legal work and exploring various new career directions. ...In October '92, co-secretary Bill Thickstun started a new full-time job in administrative computing with SUNY at Utica/Rome, after having taken on this column, a position on the local school board and the presidency of the Clinton Child Care Center board, to fill in around his part-time consulting schedule. (For the first time since Middlebury I'm getting my fill of committee work; it's been hectic, but rewarding.)

...If you have seen any of the following "lost" classmates recently (or if you are one of the lost classmates), please get in touch with us: Amy Troubh Alaluf, William R. Brain, Susan R. Outgoing secretaries Lucy Newell Hancock and Rob Race report: Despite cool weather and cloudy skies, Reunion '93 was a big success. About 80 members of the Class of 1978 returned, accompanied by spouses, children, nannies and significant others. Battell was almost as lively as it was during our freshman year! Kudos to Jerry and Betsy Bradley Coughlan for traveling from Tokyo, and to Luciano and Jennifer Hunt Nicasio for bringing their four children to campus. Saturday events included Convocation, alumni seminars, and various athletic pursuits, including the Fun Run, a rousing game of family soccer and some rough and tumble jungle soccer. We were honored to have President John McCardell and his wife, Bonnie, join our class for dinner on Saturday night. The College sponsored two dances after Saturday's dinner, but most '78ers were happy to hang out at reunion headquarters, talking and reminiscing. Sunday was such a beautiful day that many folks delayed their departures in order to enjoy taking advantage of the weather and the scenery. Many thanks to Marnie Brewster Phillips and Curt Gilmore for all their efforts in organizing the Reunion and making the weekend so successful! ...And now for the latest news: Jim Baird is alive and well in Takoma Park, Md. He and wife Barbara are still in international development, working in natural resource conservation. Their children are ages 6 and 2. ...Maren Thorpe (aka Moo) and husband Marc Talbert, who is an author of children's and young adult books, have a daughter, Molly (2). Moo has been a real estate broker for 11 years and she also has her contractor's license. Due to the recent death of her father, she is taking on new responsibilities with her family's resort in Santa Fe, N.M. ...On November 2, 1992, Diana Munger Hechler and husband David welcomed son Peter, who joined brother Jeffrey (3). The Hechlers live in Larchmont, N.Y. ...While at Reunion, we found out that Zoe Peterson Erdman did not win her race for the Vermont state legislature, but she enjoyed the campaign and she continues to work for the Vermont banking department of State Street Bank. ...After five years in Chicago, Jon Glascoe has moved back to New York in order to consolidate the film and television production company (Cypress Films) which he co-founded with Joe Pierson '79 seven years ago. Class Secretaries: John A. Castle, P.O. Box 86, Derby, VT 05829, and Cameron C. McClearn, Dltt utca 38-42/1, 1112 Budapest, Hungary.

Howdy! As you read this sometime in the fall, I (Cam McClearn) will either be well fed in Budapest, hungry in Hungary or already back in the States after a thwarted search for the meaning of life among fried food and sour cream. Please look at the address above to confirm where to send all those bags of letters. As I write this column in the glorious light of a late spring day, Bill Clinton is trying to pass his budget, Hairforce One was just cleared for takeoff from LAX, the Colorado Rockies are still sweeping the basement of the National League and the Voyager 1 spacecraft took a look at the edge of our solar system. Wow! ...Here on earth, Dan Albertson is working for Aldus Corp. in Seattle. ...Peter Britz is also in Seattle, pursuing a degree in something geologic in nature. Peter was living on Cape Cod for the summer, working at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute. ...Bruce Fagerstrom recently married Debbie Wheeler (UVM '87). A photo accompanies this colomn. Class Secretaries: Liana Discepolo Caffrey, 8 Lancaster St., #18A, Cambridge, MA 02140; Claire Gwatkin, 3901 Cathedral Ave. N.W., #512, Washington, DC 20016; and Christopher Summersgill, 37 Ravine Road, Wellesley, MA 02181.

Overheard at reunion: "Hey, this is the same room I was in for freshman orientation." "These are my classmates? I recognize only about four of them." "Uh oh, Proctor hasn't changed, it's just moved to Bread Loaf." "Aside from losing a little hair and gaining a little weight, everyone seems pretty much the same." For those of you who couldn't make it, hope to see you at number 10—it's worth the trip. Also for those who couldn't make it, Jim Calise and Pam Lawson Quinn are both reported to be relieved at being relieved of their class secretary duties. Many thanks to Jim and Pam for their informative efforts over the past five years. The new writers of class barb and innuendo are Claire Gwatkin, Liana Discepolo Caffrey and Chris Summersgill. To get things started on a statistical note, here are some fun facts. Fun Fact #1: 53 percent of the Class of '88 was in attendance at Reunion. Some of the remaining 47 percent included Paul and Laurie Micco McCormack, Alexandra Baker and Julie Faxon Seymour who were attending weddings. Julie was spouseless because Scott was running an LPGA event. ...John Chaplin and Cara Walther were also attending weddings—their own (but not to each other). More detail on the events and attendees of these two celebrations in the next issue. ...Reunion Fun Fact #2: Tom Urban won the prize for greatest distance traveled to get to Bread Loaf. He came more than 4,570 miles from Romania. ...Jessica Lonnes and Marion Brune Paterson also made long treks, from Austria and the UK respectively. ...Hardin Pantle and Wendy Victor had a longer than expected trip home to Colorado after Reunion. Hardin spent a day on the inside of the Wilkes County (Georgia) Correctional Institute. He was stopped by a Georgia state trooper for speeding and when told that "no one drives through Georgia that fast," he replied, "General Sherman did." He reports that the food was surprisingly good. ...Fun Fact #3: Lots of '88 Midd kids can't seem to get enough schooling. The Mad River ski trip in March 1992 included Sue Menzel '90, Chris Summersgill '88, Bob Summersgill, Abby Summersgill, John Safford '88, Deb Porter Safford '86, William Bentley '88, Nikki Sproles, Brad Noe, Stacey Bentley, John Alden, Martha Safford and Nick Safford.

the Univ. of Hartford. ...Also in Hartford, Mark Miley is a property underwriter for RLI. ...Andre Berot Spring is working for Boehringer Manheim pharmaceuticals as a sales rep in Charleston, S.C. ...Chris and Kristen Crowder Dollase are living in Baltimore where Chris is in his second year of law school at the Univ. of Maryland. ...Michael Obel-Omia wrote that he attended the "beautiful wedding" of Ted Lavery and Susmita Parija on June 12, 1993, in Salem, Mass. The ceremony was held in the Chinese Garden at the Peabody Museum and took over two and a half hours, as both Hindu and Christian rites were observed. Michael writes, "Those of us who witnessed it will remember it for a lifetime." Ted's best man was Shawn Miele. Also in attendance were Mike Lounsbury, and Edward '58 and Linda Carson Lavery '61. Ted and his new bride will be living in Arlington, Mass. ...Michael also says that Chaz Derecskey, who was married in July 1992, wrote him recently from Hawaii. Chaz and his wife are traveling along the Pacific coast rim and plan to stop in a number of countries including Japan and China. ...That's it for the news we're allowed to print. Keep us informed of your whereabouts and shenanigans, the odder the better, and we'll pass on the tales of adventure to the whole crew. A parting shot: If you think the past five years have been speedy, just wait until May of '98—it'll seem like tomorrow.

Well, most of us have been out a whole year now, so we can no longer say "last year" when we talk about our wild escapades of senior year. Okay, be honest—how many of us still don't have jobs? ...Andy Aube, a special educator in elementary schools near Burlington, often runs into Danielle Moon in the bars of Burlington, at least when she's not selling (Merck) drugs. ...Sandy Palmer spent the summer working at a day care center in Midd, enjoying life as a "townie." ...Ryan Tranquilla, Alex Hanson, and Maria Kriefall write that they are sharing an apartment in Midd and "living the good life." ...Rich Burke started working last spring for the Swampscott Reporter in Marblehead. ...Sarah Wainwright has moved to Boston where she is working with emotionally disturbed girls, while apartment-mate Tom DiPerna is working for Cramer Video Productions. ...Nick Tcherepnin finally moved into Boston, leaving the country club lifestyle of Duxbury behind in favor of a shorter commute to the Bank of Boston. ...During her first year at Harvard Med School, Lori Racha decided to conduct an experiment and see how much stress the human body can handle by working part time for a nutrition lab and getting elected president of the Student Council (with control over a 50K budget!—just think of the senior activities we could have had with that kind of money!). She decided to take it easy this summer and do some internships at local hospitals, and maybe head out to California with Damon Silverman, who just returned from Europe. ...Max Changus survived his first semester of law school, but has begun preparing for his second career as a winner of the Publisher's Clearinghouse Sweepstakes, just in case. ...Dan Coyne is down at the Univ. of Florida with Max, working on his MFA. ...Cynthia Brown finished her first year at Michigan State Univ., nervously fearing the prospect of rules prohibiting graduate student teaching assistants from dating their students, which would put a severe crimp on her social life. To take her mind off things for a while, she headed to Mexico City to work in an orphanage for six weeks. ...Rob Luce and Keith Wilson write from Steamboat that they have been chosen as a Neilson TV ratings home, so spend eight to nine hours a day watching TV, living off Keith's earnings as assistant sales manager of the Steamboat branch Slim Fast office. ...Kristen Komives spent the spring in NYC, and in June headed to Puerto Rico. ...Alison Lowen is teaching English in Kamisu, Japan. ...Audrey Waters says she finally received her commission for the Peace Corps and was headed out this summer, after spending the spring working for a democratic polling firm in D.C. ...Tom Kovach's dream of opening a Gusburger stand in Chicago was abruptly crushed when IDS transferred him to Long Island this summer. He thinks the Big Apple could probably handle another burger stand, though, so is currently scouting locations. ...Jenny Naylor writes that she is actually studying library science at UC-Berkeley, not livery science, as previously reported. Sorry (I never claimed to spell good). ...Christopher Carton finished his first year at Seton Hall Law School, ranked second in his class. ...Matt Saldivar is living in NYC as he prepares to begin the MFA program at NYU, and came within a few greasy hairs of getting a spot on "Class of 96." ...Justin Ayers is a paralegal at Brown & Wood. He's living with Joey Abramson and Steve Cox in Brooklyn. ...Allison Mintz is in NYC working for First Boston. ...Jake Donavan is at the J.P. Morgan Corporate Finance Program, where he works with Erica Nourjian. ...Carol Wittschieben is studying chemistry at U Penn and hanging out in the lab full time. ...Kelsey Richards, after visiting Carol for a weekend and seeing what it is like to be a full-time student again, decided to avoid school for a while longer. She now works at Merrill Lynch as an analyst on closed end funds. ...Jean Berghaus, who has been working as a scientist at Hoffman-LaRoche, planned to start med school at Robert Wood Johnson in August. ...Christina Bethke has joined Patty Garffer at KDR South in D.C., where Bill Eckels lived with them for a while this summer. ...Also in D.C., Fred Lawrence has moved in with Heather Wilson, Sara Garcia and Cynthia Lewis. ...David Weld has moved to D.C., where he has an internship working for an international trade consulting firm and combs the streets at lunchtime looking for Midd grads to eat with. ...Mary-Beth Marcotte had to take classes for her master's in speech pathology at U.Va. this summer, but on the bright side got to buy lots of "client clothes." ...Tom Garrett and Jon Loewald toured Europe this summer. Tom plans to keep heading around the world for the next year. ...Lindsay Smith is working at a dude ranch out west. ...Brian Good spent the summer working in Providence and visiting people in as many cities as possible. ...Susan Scheer, who recently transferred to the San Francisco Ritz Carlton, is living with Kelly Watson and Katherine Beal. ...Alan Prohm wrote a detailed chronicle of his life since Midd. He's currently traveling around India, trekking out the hot season in the Himalayas and sitting out the monsoon in the foothills at Dehra Dun. He spent last fall writing in Paris and restoring a farmhouse in the country on the weekends; Christmas with the monks of a Greek Orthodox monastery in northern Greece; New Year's in Istanbul; and then two weeks in Thailand before heading to India. He plans to spend the fall working on some literary endeavors while traveling between Bombay and Delhi to meet with various writers and poets. Returning to Greece for a few months and heading to grad school are in Alan's future. Whew! That's amazing. Thanks for writing to keep us up to date. ...David McCollough and Anne Via (Georgetown '89, M.A. German '91, through Midd but with most work done in Mainz) were married August 22, 1992, at St. Luke's church in Smithfield, Va. They now live in Memphis, Tenn., where Dave is a business analyst in the international department of a British firm, Smith and Nephew Richards. Anne has her hands full this fall, directing the new foreign language department at Woodland Presbyterian School and teaching German, Spanish, French and Latin to students in grades 4-8! ...Leslie Cone finally decided to graduate, but couldn't bring herself to leave Midd, so is working at Otter Creek Bakery. ...Well, summer was fun. Drop Leslie and me a line and let us (and the rest of the class) know about all your wild and crazy summer exploits! *[Note: Your senior class photo, taken at Bread Loaf, is now available. has it been unimpeded joy. But the image I had as a student at Midlebury of homosexuals as pathetic creatures leading a life of misery on society's fringe turned out to be false.

I was not content simply to accept the fact that I was gay. I still had questions, as I did at college, and so I began an effort to understand why society holds the attitudes it does towards gay people. I've found it a worthwhile journey, and what follows is based on what I've learned along the way.

A couple of years ago I stopped at the Middlebury Inn and picked up a copy of The Campus. The edition contained an article from a student objecting to the Middlebury Gay, Lesbian, and Bisexual Alliance—which the College officially recognizes and supports—on scriptural grounds. Though my personal theology is decidedly liberal, I am a member of a traditional Lutheran congregation, and I have become keenly aware that much of the opposition to granting gay people equal treatment is driven by religion, which changes slowly.

If you follow these things, you often see religious opponents of civil rights for gay people cite verses from Leviticus and Saint Paul that allegedly condemn homosexuality. while they ignore the biblical texts that urge stoning disobedient children to death or prohibiting women from speaking in church. I wondered if lesbian and gay students at Middlebury felt unwelcome. I had heard a few years back that gay people on campus had been harassed. When I read in the Middlebury College Magazine that another lesbian and gay alumni weekend was being planned, I resolved to go.

Mature gay men and lesbians coming into contact with younger people, as I did by simply attending the alumni weekend, are sometimes accused of "proselytizing" and "recruiting." I have no interest in recruiting anyone into homosexuality, nor do I know anyone who does. It does not even seem possible. Many experts believe that sexual orientation is established between birth and an early age, usually before the fifth birthday, and may well have a genetic or congenital component. In any case, one does not choose one's orientation, one discovers it. Furthermore, I know of no documented case of a permanent change of sexual orientation in all the scientific literature on the subject, regardless of the effort made to alter it.

There are people who have gone through a period of infatuation with someone of the same sex only to turn out to be heterosexual after all. To anyone who thinks he might be gay because of a crush, I would say not to jump to any conclusions. But to anyone who dismisses homosexuality as a mere "lifestyle" or "choice"—and claims that people do not have to be gay if they don't want to be—I would have to say that I know gay men and lesbians who could no more summon up a romantic response to a member of the opposite sex than they could draw water from the moon.

Underlying many individuals' stated reasons for objecting to gay people are—in my opinion—deep-seated, even subconscious processes related to the development of the personality. The establishment of sexual identity, whether homosexual or heterosexual, is only minimally understood, and far too complex to discuss here in detail. But irrational hatred or fear of homosexuals has a name—homophobia—and some psychologists hold that it is a condition that can be treated.

Given where we are in history and given the number of gay men who have succumbed to AIDS, I cannot imagine any parent not being apprehensive when it comes to the subject of homosexuality. Yet I know of parents who have chosen to distance themselves from their gay or lesbian child. Part of the tragedy is that in doing so they have not fully shared in their child's joy, not learned of their child's courage in the face of being different, not witnessed their child's commitment in love, and thus never fully appreciated what a good job they did in raising that kid.

There are those who truly believe that the only acceptable message is that homosexuality is morally wrong, and, if someone is incapable of a heterosexual response or "constitutionally" homosexual, that he or she should go through life never feeling the loving touch of another human being. Another argument is that showing tolerance towards gay people will cause "borderline" homosexuals to go gay instead of straight, which translates into this: In order to save some people from the "pain" of being homosexual, we must go around causing that pain. The morality of this reasoning escapes me.

One might ask if the College, by providing counseling and other services specifically for gay students, is affording them special and unmerited treatment. It's a valid question, but from what I saw last April, the answer is no. The heterosexual majority on campus does not suffer the kind of isolation that gay people often endure; nor are they harassed for their sexual orientation the way gay and lesbian students have been. The College is recognizing that lesbian, gay, and bisexual students may have problems adjusting to society's expectations severe enough to interfere with their studies, and is responding by enabling gay students to experience the same supportive atmosphere that heterosexual students take for granted.

Living and working now in Brooklyn, New York, where attitudes are relatively enlightened, the chances that I would be fired for being gay are extremely low, but it probably helps that it would be against a local law, passed in 1986. Gay people in more than a hundred other cities and eight states have won similar protections in the relatively short period of two decades. However, reports of people being fired for their sexual orientation in these jurisdictions and others are still received by lesbian and gay organizations. An intense social and political reaction to the gay and lesbian rights movement is developing across the country, especially in suburban and rural areas in the South and West.

This threat to civil liberties should not be taken lightly. When Colorado narrowly voted to overturn gay rights protections that had been passed in several of its cities, violence against gays soared. A similar campaign in Oregon fueled a climate that resulted in a gay man and lesbian being firebombed to death.

And yet, despite the anti-gay ballot initiatives and incidents of violence, despite anti-gay fundamentalist ministers and the millions of dollars they raise on the gay issue, despite the excesses and mistakes of some gay activists, and even despite AIDS and society's initial delay in responding to it, I think life is getting better for many if not most gay Americans. There would not be a backlash if the militant opponents of civil rights for gay people did not sense they were beginning to lose the battle for public opinion. I think the anti-gay forces can slow down the movement towards equality for gay people, but I don't see how they will be able to stop it, short of voiding the Constitution.

Acceptance of gay people is growing in many quarters, perhaps because the heterosexual majority is beginning to understand that we will not give up our fight, and that most of us want to be part of society, not dismantle it.

But I pass on a warning to fellow gay people, activists in particular. Kevin Phillips, the author and perceptive political analyst who both helped plan Richard Nixon's winning "southern strategy" and foresaw Bill Clinton's chance for reclaiming the White House for the Democrats, recently suggested in The Washington Post that in the growing battle between gay rights advocates and the anti-gay "religious right," the winner will be the side that least irritates the public at large.

For the past few presidential elections, public debate has focused on values. It strikes me that the best American values include respecting the rights of all citizens, without regard to race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, or any similar identifying characteristic. Rights come with responsibilities, and it should go without saying—but especially in the age of AIDS—that people should never jeopardize the health of others, and that they themselves should not engage in reckless behavior.

It was with that last idea in mind that I went back to Middlebury as an openly gay man. I returned for the distinction of being welcomed, and I enjoyed the personal sense of closure to my college experience that it afforded. But I most wanted to be there in order to lessen the loneliness which young lesbian and gay people feel in what is often still a hostile world. I felt I had to be there in case a student wanted to ask questions of an older gay person the way I had longed to when I was an undergraduate. I wanted to be able to do for someone what no one had been there to do for me.

I also wanted to show by the example of a life more or less successfully negotiated that yes, there is prejudice, and yes, it should be opposed, but no, you should never let it stand in your way. This is still a great country, and still the home of the American dream.

For me, the best way out was through. To share that with others, I went home to Middlebury.

On Coming Out and Coming Home

By Ronald Najman '69

Middlebury College was host to its second Gay, Lesbian, and Bisexual Alumni Weekend last April, a key part of which was the opportunity for students to interact with lesbian and gay graduates. To anyone who might ask why the College would sponsor such an event, I offer the following reflections on why the reunion was worth holding and why I attended.

I was a student at Middlebury when I first learned that I might be gay. I knew that society expected me to marry a woman and have children; in fact, that kind of life was precisely what I had been looking forward to since my own childhood. Growing up, I had loved my mother, my father, and my brother, and I wanted to create a similar family when I was an adult. But I was beginning to see that this would not be possible. I was dating some very nice women, but there was something missing in these relationships, something important.

In 1966, sexual orientation was rarely discussed. That autumn I was desperate for information to help me figure out why my life was turning out so differently from what I had expected, but little was avilable. I somehow managed to meet a few gay students, a couple of whom became good friends, but the answers they gave in response to my questions about sexuality were not always a comfort. After all, they, too, were young, and were pretty much struggling with their identities the same as I was.

One of the worst things I remember about that time was that there didn't seem to be any older gay people around whom you could talk to. Counseling was available through the College—and the Dean was sympathetic—but these older heterosexuals had, naturally, a limited understanding of what was unsettling me.

Nowadays, when I see anti-gay zealots trying to portray homosexuals as radicals seeking to overturn the established moral order, I sometimes think back to how much I wanted to be anything but an outsider when I was at College. Even though I had many heterosexual friends while a student at Middlebury, I felt very much alone, very much an outcast, and it hurt.

In my sophomore year, a sense of isolation, sexual confusion, and an illness led me to drop out of school. I re-entered, but still needed extra time to obtain my degree. I was so preoccupied with my sexual identity and emotions that I gave very little thought to what I really wanted to do with my life. I am sure that if I had not been so troubled, I would have done some things differently.

I did, however, persevere. I was an English major, and I remember reading at a difficult moment these words from "A Servant to Servants," Robert Frost's poem about a tired and distressed woman: "...the best way out is always through." In life, I learned, the advice is sound.

Over the following years I discovered what I most wish I had known while a Middlebury student: Finding out you are gay or lesbian does not mean you cannot have a good life. I have found it to be quite the contrary. In my early twenties I wanted two things - a life of some measurable meaning, and love. At age 45, I have had both.

I owe the happiness I have enjoyed to two of the finest parents ever; to other caring relatives who stood by me; to people who were often better friends to me than I was to them; and to Remy Hall, my life partner of nearly twenty years.

When I fully realized I was gay, sometime in my senior year, even with the support of family and friends, the process was a hard one. There was what a speaker at the alumni weekend described as a period of mourning for the heterosexual family one had anticipated. There was the break-up with a particularly caring woman. And there was the torch I carried for a male former student. With little discussion about gay men and lesbians in the media in those days, and with my nearly total lack of sophistication, I mistakenly thought there were so few gay men in the world that it would be unlikely I could ever find another human being to love.

After Middlebury I moved to Manhattan and discovered there indeed were plenty of gay men who did not resemble the ugly stereotypes that were the subject of derision and fear. Eventually I met Remy, and found much contentment. But even in the Big Apple, being gay was not always easy.

There were numerous evasions of the truth to be made in professional and social situations, the occasional cruel remarks in the newsrooms and offices where I worked, the fear that I would be fired simply because I was gay, the anti-gay diatribes in newspaper columns that I couldn't avoid reading because I was a publicist, the hate that emanated from some pulpits and politicians, the anti-gay campaign led by Anita Bryant that portrayed gay men as seducers of children—all these things left their mark. I was, fortunately, taking myself less seriously than I did when I was in college, but I was still taking the world seriously. Prejudice offended me.

There was also the physical violence. One night as Remy and I were walking home in Greenwich Village we were attacked by a bunch of young thugs on a gay-bashing spree. Remy was hit by a baseball bat, swung from a car. Not far from the same spot someone I knew was severely beaten because his attackers thought he was gay. He wasn't.

I would come out of the closet, and then go back in, depending on where I was employed and what I perceived to be the level of acceptance there. Finally,tired of the intolerance and the insults, tired of being afraid, and watching with growing horror the AIDS epidemic, I just took the door off the hinges once and for all and became, for two years, the spokesman for the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force, now headed by Middlebury graduate Torie Osborn '72.

Among other things, I assisted in the founding of two organizations that support AIDS research; advised federal, state, and municipal government and law enforcement officials on issues concerning the gay and lesbian community; and, remembering the isolation I had felt as a young gay person at college, served on the board of The Hetrick-Martin Institute, a social services agency for lesbian and gay adolescents and their families. The very trials which some gay people have had to undergo have created opportunities for human beings to help one another. That is as good an answer as any to the metaphysical questions, "Why do bad things happen to people?" or, "Why are we here?"

I do not mean to imply that my life has been nothing but crises since college. Nor
